4 CONFESS IN ARSON TRAGEDY

ILLINOIS CANAL TO GET MILLION OF RELIEF FUND

Will Ask Bids Soon on Waterway.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21.—[Special.]—Enactment of the 116 million dollar emergency construction bill has paved the way for the early allotment of $1,200,000 toward construction of the Illinois waterway.

Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of engineers, who has tentatively decided upon this allotment, is ready to issue specifications to cover bids for construction of the first unit of the Illinois project. Contracts will be awarded within a very few weeks under Gen. Brown's program, and construction work on the project, which was discontinued by the state of Illinois considerably more than a year ago, when its funds ran low, will be resumed at the earliest possible date. Although congress last spring authorized the expenditure of $7,500,000 for the completion of the state project between Lockport and Utica, appropriations under the authorization have heretofore been lacking.

Dresden Lock First in List.

The first federal contracts on the Illinois project will apply to the Dresden island lock and dam, which is one of the five major structures involved in the building of the waterway, the others being at Lockport, Brandon road, Marseilles, and Starved Rock. The total estimated cost of the Dresden island lock and dam is $2,365,463, about half of this amount already having been expended by the state. Work on a $1,300,000 contract for the lock and dam was 49 per cent completed when construction was discontinued by the state in the fall of 1929. Another state contract, totaling $476,000, for metal work at Dresden island, was 61 per cent completed. A contract for dredging in the Dresden island pool, totaling $339,500, was 32 per cent completed. Nothing had been done under a fourth contract for $80,000 for machinery.

The tentative schedule for construction as mapped out by Gen. Brown contemplates completion of the entire Illinois waterway project within a period of about three years.

Three Millions for Illinois.

It is planned to allot at least $3,000,000 from river and harbor appropriations for the fiscal year 1932 to the Illinois waterway which, with the $1,200,000 allotted from the emergency fund, will make a total of $4,200,000 or more available up to July 1, 1932. This would leave a balance of $3,300,000 remaining to be appropriated of the authorized $7,500,000.

The $1,200,000 for immediate expenditure is to come from the $22,500,000 appropriated for river and harbor improvements in the 1:3 million dollar emergency construction bill signed yesterday by President Hoover.

Under tentative allotments planned by Gen. Brown a total of $8,632,000 of the $22,500,000 will be devoted to work in what is designated as the upper Mississippi valley division, which includes the Ohio and Missouri rivers, as well as the Mississippi.

Mississippi Appropriations.

The allotment for work on the Mississippi river between the Ohio and Minneapolis is $2,400,000. Of this $1,800,000 is for work on the Mississippi between the Illinois river and Minneapolis, and $600,000 between the Illinois and Ohio rivers. The $1,800,000 includes $950,000 for the Rock Island lock and dam, $700,000 for the Twin City lock and dam, $100,000 for two new dredges, and $50,000 for dredging in Minneapolis harbor.

The tentative allotment to the great lakes division is $1,167,000. This includes $322,000 for the Calumet harbor and river, $68,000 for the Chicago river, and $8,000 for the Chicago harbor. Also included are $200,000 for Milwaukee harbor, $187,000 for the Deerfield river, $90,000 for the Duluth-Superior harbor, and $8,000 for the Fox river in Wisconsin.

Of the remainder of the $22,500,000 fund, $4,300,000 will go to the south Atlantic division, $3,141,500 to the north Atlantic division, $2,821,440 to the Gulf of Mexico division, $1,555,000 to the north Pacific division, and $993,000 to the south Pacific division.

Three Million for Floods.

Besides the $22,500,000, the army engineers will have charge of the expenditure of $3,000,000 for the building of levees for flood control on the Mississippi.

If Illinois desires to borrow from the federal government for highway construction under the provision for such loans in the 116 million dollar bill, apportionment of the $80,000,000 fund for this purpose will be $3,400,000. The apportionment for Michigan is $2,231,837; for Indiana, $2,045,929; for Wisconsin, $1,992,410, and for Iowa,

DRAFT NEW LAW TO MAKE PUBLIC ENEMY A FELON

Act to Amend State Criminal Code.

Chicago's anti-crime campaigners will carry their cause to the legislature when it meets two weeks hence at Springfield. This was ascertained yesterday.

The law enforcement agencies will present their petition for help in the form of an emergency bill, drawn up by a Chicago lawyer, sponsored by a Chicago member of the house of representatives and expected to have the endorsement of the Cook county judiciary and bar.

The bill will be entitled "An Act Against Public Enemies." It will be offered in the lower house in the form of an amendment to the Illinois criminal code and marks the first important effort in years to amend that section of the law.

Condon Drafts Measure.

The author of the bill is Attorney James G. Condon, once an assistant state's attorney but of late years exclusively a corporation lawyer. He was until recently a member of the Chicago crime commission.

The act, now being drafted by Attorney Condon with the assistance of several Chicago jurists and crime experts, is designed to provide a definite niche in the criminal code for the class of gangsters originally stigmatized as public foes in a manifesto issued by the crime commission last April.

The intent of the act, Mr. Condon explained, is to define legally the term "public enemy," and, without infringing on constitutional guarantees of the bill of rights, to declare the offense a felony punishable by imprisonment.

Igoe to Introduce Bill.

Representative Michael L. Igoe, Democratic leader in the lower house, has been chosen to introduce the bill. Mr. Igoe is said to be considering the strategy of requesting Speaker David Shanahan, a Republican, to become cosponsor to preclude the possibility of partisan considerations arising when the bill is under debate.

Attached to the act will be an emergency clause making the bill effective immediately after its signature by Gov. Emmerson in the event of favorable action in both houses. Without this clause the act would remain inoperative until next July.

In theory, Mr. Condon said, the public enemies act is founded on principles of common law exemplified in the vagrancy law. It is the latter law, classifying vagrancy as a misdemeanor punishable only by small fines and jail sentences, that Municipal Judge John H. Lyle has employed with varying success in the drive against public enemies.

Attorney Explains His Work.

Explaining how his interest was first attracted to the problem of dealing with gangsters, Mr. Condon recalled that Judge Lyle, by fixing high bonds for gangsters charged with vagrancy, had drawn sharp criticism from the upper courts. It was the spectacle of the judges in dispute that decided him in trying to seek a remedy, the attorney said.

"It seemed to me that the judicial controversy provoked much unfortunate and unfair comment from the public," Mr. Condon said. "In my club and elsewhere I heard my friends, not of the legal profession, criticizing this or that judge for 'coddling criminals' in reducing bonds. These judges were actually following the letter of the law.

"I studied the vagrancy law. I discovered that the term was derived from the Latin word 'vagabundus, a stroller.' The law was originally applied in early times to strolling players who, being unable to pay for lodging at the inns, were clapped into jail as vagabonds.

Reason for a New Law.

"That view of the vagrancy law prevails today. The jurists now on the bench conceive the vagrancy law as best applicable to the wayside tramp, who annoys the housewife by begging a handout and who hasn't the money for a one dollar fine. They regard it as repugnant to attempt to apply this law to arch-criminals, able to produce as high as $100,000 bail.

"The problem, therefore, was to devise a substitute law which would prevent these arch-criminals from thwarting justice, simplify prosecution and obtain guilty verdicts against those deserving such.

"The term, public enemy, struck me as a powerful phrase, could a way be devised so a prosecutor might use it. The next step was to define a public

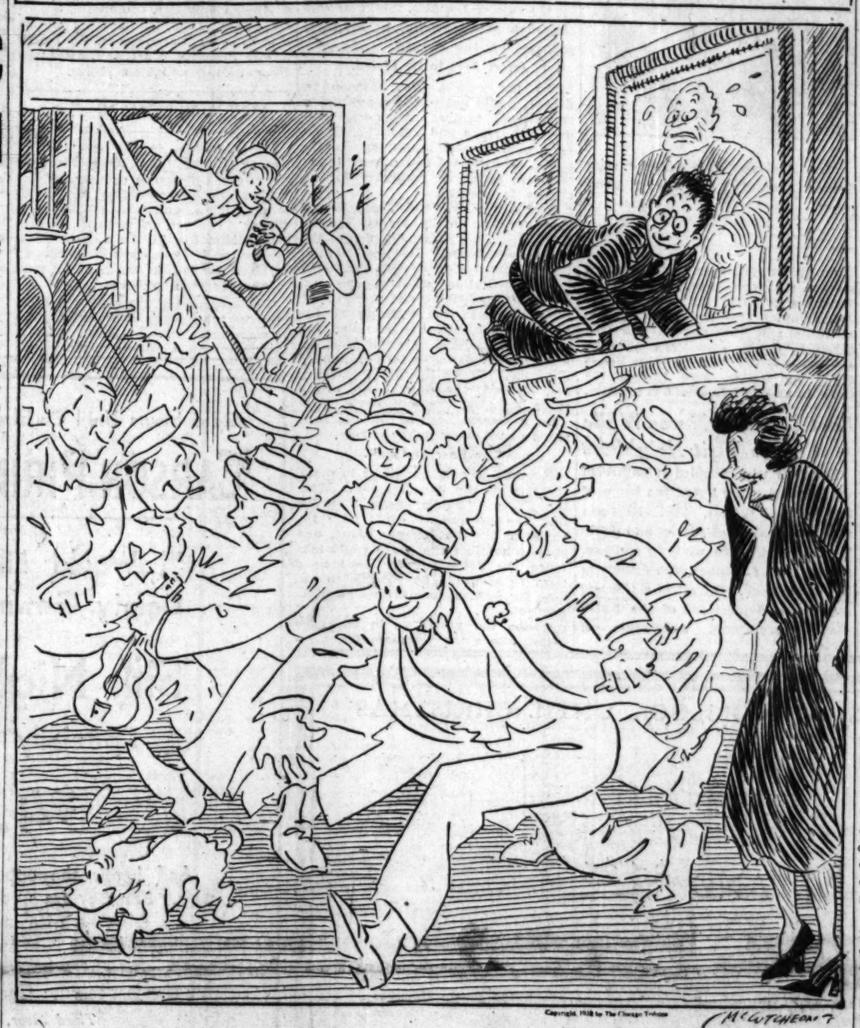
JUNIOR IS HOME FOR THE HOLIDAYS



VICTIM BATTLES BANDITS; TAKES GUN FROM ONE

An unarmed grocer last night battled two robbers in his store at 3220 Wallace street, disarmed one, and captured the other after a ten minute struggle on the floor during which possession of the gun alternated between the two with neither able to fire it. The grocer's wife helped him win the battle.

John Mickus, the grocer, was alone when the two men entered and one produced the gun and ordered him to put up his hands. Mickus started to comply, then suddenly grabbed the gun, which clattered to the floor as the man fled in panic.

Mickus and the second robber, who gave his name as John Smalley, 35 years old, 3028 Lock street, both dived for the weapon and battled on the floor until Mickus, whose wife joined in the battle, gained possession of the gun and subdued Smalley by beating him over the head with it.

A short time later the police arrested Joseph Moch in his home, 3032 Loch street, as the second robber.

700 DEAD AS JAVA VOLCANO STILL BELCHES FLAMES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, Dec. 21.—The death toll from the Merapi volcano eruption in Java has risen to 700, according to tonight's dispatches from Batavia, Dutch East Indies. The continuing eruptions are endangering thousands of others. Eight villages were completely wiped out by lava streams which destroyed roads, bridges, and estates for miles around.

Several hundred Javanese, who fled to the surrounding hills, are threatened with starvation. It is impossible to reach them as lava streams have cut them off from the valleys.

Groups of 20 to 30 persons have been found dead along the roads. It is believed that these perished from gas fumes. Many others, it is reported, committed suicide in their terror. Peasants are fleeing to the town of Mageland from threatened villages.

OFFICIAL WINTER ARRIVES TODAY; LEAST SUNLIGHT

Old Man Winter will make his formal appearance for a three months' stay at 7:40 a. m. this morning, when the sun reaches its farthest point south and begins its long swing northward, which continues until the latter part of next June. Yesterday and today are the two shortest days in the year, with just 9 hours and 13 minutes between sunrise and sunset, compared with 15 hours and 7 minutes of sunlight on June 22. However, the arrival of winter appeared of small concern to the Chicago weather man, C. A. Donnel, who last night predicted "somewhat unsettled" weather for today, with little change in temperature.

Find 4 Dead in Flat with Clogged Flue

Overcome by lack of oxygen and by coal gas fumes, caused by a clogged stove flue, four persons were found dead yesterday in their second floor rear apartment at 2636 West 23d street. Two of the victims, a husband and a wife, were blind. The tragedy occurred sometime between 7:30 o'clock Saturday night, the last time they were seen alive, and yesterday afternoon. The dead:

George Daly, 19 years old, Ernest's brother.

The police, summoned by neighbors, crashed in the door of the Morris apartment and came upon all four victims, each in a separate part of the home. Firemen under Lieut. John Garrity, in command of a rescue squad, tried in vain to resuscitate the four.

Silence Alarms Neighbors.

Late yesterday afternoon neighbors of the blind couple and their nephews became alarmed over the unusual quiet in their apartment. Alvin Sikorski, a tenant, who lives on the third floor, recalled that he had not seen any of the four since Saturday night.

"It seemed strange," said Sikorski, "so I went downstairs and rapped on the door. I received no response. I tapped on the windows and there was no answer."

Sikorski summoned the Marquette police, and a squad arrived, in charge of Lieut. James Kerr. The policemen put their shoulders to the door and broke it in.

Four Bodies Are Found.

They first saw George Daly's body lying across a parlor chair. The policemen were unable to enter the apartment immediately because of the lack of air. A few minutes later they stepped into the flat and found Daly's brother, Ernest, dead in the bathroom. Near by on a bed lay the fully clothed body of Mrs. Morris. In the kitchen was her husband, sitting dead in a chair.

The four bodies were taken to undertaking rooms at 2656 Washington boulevard, and an investigation was begun by the authorities. Later the police said they were satisfied that the tragedy was accidental.

Apparently Ernest Daly had prepared for a bath and started the gas hot water heater in the kitchen. Near by stood a wood and coal burning stove, which had been in use.

Cause of the Tragedy.

Both stove and heater were connected to a vent which was found to be clogged with soot. The police believe that the heater exhausted the oxygen in the apartment and that fumes from the clogged vent completed the tragedy.

In addition, the police found that all windows in the flat were tightly sealed, preventing the inflow of sufficient air to replenish the consumed oxygen.

Ralph Daly, married brother of Ernest and George, living at 9916 Lafayette avenue, and another relative, Mrs. Jessie Daly, of 402 Pleasant street, Colfax, Ia., were notified.

REPORT REBELS IN VENEZUELA SEIZE TOWN, KILL CHIEF

BOGOTA, Colombia, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Newspapers received reports today which told of a revolutionary disturbance in southwestern Venezuela. Three hundred revolutionists were said to have captured the town of Labatera, killing the civil chief and burning the city hall with its public archives. The government troops were reported to have been taken by surprise and were unable to defend the city.

A communique issued from San Cristobal, capital of the state of Tachira, in which Labatera is situated, said the outbreak was a bandit depredation and without revolutionary motive.

For several months reports from other Latin American countries have indicated that all was not quiet in Venezuela. For 20 years Gen. Juan Vicente Gomez ruled the country with an iron hand, and under his regime the country was free from revolutions. In May, 1929, he surprised the country by refusing to run again for president. His successor was Dr. Juan Bautista Perez, who still serves.

Bombs Explode in Havana Theaters; Cause Panics

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

HAVANA, Dec. 21.—The explosion of several bombs in leading Havana theaters tonight caused a panic among the audiences, resulting in the slight injury of several men and women in their mad rush for the exits. The first bomb exploded in the National theater. It was followed by the bombings of the Encanto and the Wilson theaters. Detectives arrested several suspects.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 21.—[Special.]—Flo Irwin, for nearly fifty years a popular actress, and sister of May Irwin, died in the city emergency hospital last night. Death is believed to have been due to a heart attack. She was 71 years of age.

May Irwin and Flo Irwin had been on the stage together in vaudeville and in musical comedy and had been inseparable up to the time Flo came to California three years ago.

The latter appeared in practically every leading theater in the United States and Canada and spent three years as a star in England.

Baby Senator Dares to Talk Out in Meeting

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21.—[Special.]—An ancient and honorable tradition of the United States senate, that a newcomer should be seen and not heard, rested today in the limbo of shattered precedents. It was relegated there last night by Senator Cameron Morrison [Dem., N. C.], in a speech that left his colleagues somewhat flabbergasted.

Mr. Morrison, who was appointed successor to the late Senator Lee S. Overman, took his seat just four days ago, and, according to the unwritten law of the senate, should have meekly stayed in it for at least a fortnight. Instead, with unprecedented audacity, he secured and held the floor for a half hour, sparred with such an old master as Senator Thomas J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.], and said what he had to say so boldly that the galleries forthwith dubbed him "Fightin' Cam" Morrison.

Defends Hoover Appointee.

Senator Morrison rose from his seat when Senator Walsh launched an attack on Frank R. McNinch of North Carolina, one of President Hoover's nominees to the federal power commission, on the ground that he had connections with the power interests.

"I would scorn," the new senator boomed; "I would scorn to stand in this body and hear this noble man traduced by anybody."

A murmur of surprise rustled over the senate chamber. Senators stopped chatting with their neighbors, laid down their newspapers, and lifted their eyebrows in mild astonishment. Necks craned in the galleries. Here was a novice making his maiden speech.

Mr. McNinch, the speaker explained, never received nor handled a nickel of any power company's money. True enough, he was an anti-Smith Democrat in 1928, and he, Morrison, as a regular, took the stump against him, but that did not make him a Republican.

Praises Political Enemy.

"I fought him all over North Carolina until our sweet personal and neighborhood relations were well nigh broken," he went on. "He is an honest man and no man in the county or city where he lives would dare assert to the contrary and face that upright community, for his character towers there as brightly as that of the finest citizen in it."

For twenty minutes Senator Morrison swept on in this vein, defending McNinch, and not until he had fully rounded out his argument did he express his regret that he "had to trespass upon the attention of this body in almost the hour of my entrance."

"I could not help it," he asserted. "I do not want you to think that I did not desire to respect what I understand the traditions of this great body require—that I should wait a while—but this matter is a great storm down there, a political storm."

The consensus of opinion, when Senator Morrison finished, was that he is going to be heard from again and, from the standpoint of oratory, is to be reckoned with.

Senator Morrison is 61 years old and for years has been a prominent figure in North Carolina politics. He served as governor from 1921 to 1924 and has been a member of the Democratic national committee since 1928. He will retain his seat by appointment until March, 1933, when the term of the late Senator Overman expires.

Plotters Must Face Murder Trial.

Confessions were made yesterday by Jacob Tatelman, 41 years old, part owner of the Samovar restaurant at 3607 Roosevelt road, and Jack Rosow, 40 years old, a waiter, that they started the fire in a butcher shop at 3655 North Kedzie avenue early Saturday morning which resulted in two children being burned to death. Previously, Harry Goldvarg, 4851 North Harding avenue, owner of the butcher shop, had confessed hiring Tatelman and Rosow to set the fire for $225 so he could collect insurance of $3,800.

Capt. Jacob Goldberg and Fire Attorney Scott M. Hogan said they are seeking another man, said to be wealthy, who suggested the fire to Goldvarg and who sent Tatelman and Rosow to see the butcher. The officials would not divulge his name pending his arrest.

Youth Also Confesses.

A fourth confession was made by Martin Borad, 18 years old, 3446 North Crawford avenue. Capt. Goldberg said Borad admitted that he acted as chauffeur for the arson crew, but denied knowledge of the criminal mission.

Goldvarg, Tatelman and Rosow were formally charged with the murder of Jerome Israelson, aged 5, and Homer Israelson, 4, whose bodies were burned beyond recognition in the fire that spread to an adjoining store. The children are to be buried this morning after services in the undertaking rooms at 1305 South Crawford avenue. Their mother is at the Martha Washington hospital suffering from burns and will not be able to attend the funeral.

Young Borad also was booked for murder, and Capt. Goldberg said he would be prosecuted with the rest if proof were found that he had guilty knowledge of the arson plot.

Worried Only About Insurance.

Capt. Goldberg said none of the prisoners displayed any remorse at the outcome of their insurance plot. Goldvarg, he said, was more interested is whether or not he would collect the insurance, saying he would need it to pay a lawyer.

The officials were investigating the past of Tatelman and Rosow with reference to other fires. Two butcher shops in the vicinity of Kedzie and Lawrence avenues were recently burned, and suspicion is directed against Tatelman.

Borad, according to the police, drove the alleged fire setters nearly to the butcher shop and waited for them while they sprinkled gasoline soaked paper throughout the shop before applying the matches. The boy claimed not to know the purpose of the trip, and Rosow, who is held at the Albany Park station, endeavored to shield him.

The prisoners were kept at different police stations to prevent the possibility of their collusion to escape a conviction that may bring a death sentence. Capt. Goldberg said there is plenty of evidence at hand as to their guilt, even if they should repudiate their confessions.

Story of Goldvarg.

Capt. Goldberg quoted Goldvarg as follows:

"My last two butcher shops were failures, and I had hopes business would be good in the location I moved into five weeks ago. But it wasn't, and the man who helped me finance the place [the man whose name Capt. Goldberg is withholding] suggested that I could make money by having a fire. He told me to take out insurance on the fixtures and he would send some men to see me who would tell me what to do next.

"Tatelman and Rosow came to me and said they were sent to see me about a fire. I asked how much they would charge and they said for $300 they would burn the building so thoroughly I would be able to collect for total loss. I told them there were people living next door who might be burned, but they said there would be no danger. None of us thought the explosion would be as bad as it was.

"I finally made a deal with them by giving them $150 in cash and a demand note for $75. They came to the shop Friday afternoon with a can of gasoline which they emptied into a glass jar, taking the can away with them, as they knew it wouldn't burn. I was at home when they set the fire."

How Plot Developed.

A statement made by Rosow was made public by Capt. Goldberg. He said he was born in Russia, that he is married and has three children, and has been a waiter at Tatelman's restaurant for two weeks.

"About two weeks ago I went with

Tatelman to the butcher shop owned by Harry Goldvarg. Tatelman said he had been sent by a man he referred to only as 'You know who, don't you' and Goldvarg said he knew. Goldvarg said he was going to take out some insurance and he would let us know when he was ready for us. I gave him my telephone number and it was agreed we would set the fire for $200. We called on him last Thursday but he said he didn't have the money, so we went back on Friday and he said he could give us $150. We took that and his note for $75.

"We bought a five gallon can of gasoline at a filling station near Addison street and Crawford avenue. We put it in our car and drove to 3446 Crawford avenue and asked Martin Borad if he would drive us to the butcher shop. We transferred the gasoline from the can to a jug. Then we all went home after Goldvarg gave us the key for the back door.

They Start the Fire.

"That night I called Borad and he picked us up and drove us to within two blocks of the butcher shop, where we told him to wait. Tatelman and I entered the shop and sprinkled gasoline on a lot of papers which we scattered all around. I tossed a lighted match on a piece of paper and we went out, locking the door after us. I heard an explosion right after we left. All of us went to our homes."

Firemen smelled fumes of gasoline when they responded and notified Capt. Goldberg. Several suspicious actions on Goldvarg's part led the captain to believe the fire was of incendiary origin. At an inquest held into the death of the two Israelson children Goldvarg was held on a charge of murder by the coroner's jury. Later he confessed, implicating Tatelman and Rosow. They will be taken to court this morning and Capt. Goldberg said he expected to have in custody the man who broached the subject of the fire to Goldvarg.

AUTO PLUNGES THROUGH ICE IN BAY; THREE DIE

Escanaba, Mich., Dec. 21.—[Special.]—A peculiar form of sport resulted today in the deaths of a mother and two children when an automobile crashed through the ice of Bay de Noc, an arm of Green bay, between Escanaba and Gladstone, Mich.

T. Thompson, 26, of Gladstone, who was driving the car, managed to extricate himself and fight his way through the opening in the ice. He was near death tonight in St. Francis hospital here.

The victims were Mrs. Elmer Klassel, 32, of Gladstone, and her children, Eugene, 12, and Betty Jane, 4.

Thompson was one of scores of persons who were putting their automobiles through curves and loops on the ice by speeding and then slamming on the brakes, a sport popular in the community. When the ice broke the car became pinned beneath the ice in 40 feet of water.

Chicagoan Loses Life.

Miami Beach, Fla., Dec. 22.—(AP)—George Railton, 30, Chicago, and Charles Lyons, 55, of Rome, Ga., were drowned shortly after midnight when their motor car plunged off the county causeway into Biscayne bay. The closed automobile crashed through the railing of a draw bridge on the four mile driveway which connects this city with Miami and settled in 25 feet of water.

DRIVER CRUSHED TO DEATH WHEN AUTOS COLLIDE

Motorist Is Held for Inquest Today.

Wallace Young, 28 years old, 1515 North Lawler avenue, is being held for a coroner's inquest today in the auto death of Uno Nelson, 31 years old, 950 Addison street. Driving south yesterday in Southport avenue, Nelson was crushed to death under his car when it was struck and overturned by that of Young, who was going west in Waveland avenue. With Young was Miss Hilda Carlson, 22 years old, 4030 North Paulina street, who was slightly injured.

This death and two others yesterday raised the 1930 Cook county auto toll to 1,083. The other victims:

Alfred Thunnert, 62 years old, 1456 North Laramie avenue. Died at St. Anne's hospital of injuries received Dec. 12, when he was struck at North and Leclaire avenues by a car driven by Morris Korshak, 3610 Douglas boulevard. Korshak was charged with assault with an automobile.

Mrs. Rose Burton, 67 years old, 230 East Superior street, a widow. Died at the Grant hospital of injuries received Thursday when she was struck at Broadway and Argyle street by a car driven by Dr. Carl Lindstrom, 1445 Winona avenue.

George Minsky, 85 years old, 514 Clayton street, Waukegan, died yesterday of injuries received Saturday when he was struck by a car driven by Miss Beatrice Dandrea, 26 years old, 309 Franklin street, Waukegan, as he was crossing the street near his home.

Police were seeking a hit and run driver who struck Mrs. Minnie Schalk, 45 years old, 4236 Potomac avenue, as she was crossing Tripp avenue at Grand avenue. She suffered a fractured skull and a broken right arm.

Running from behind another car, 13 year old Abraham Mischman, 3311 Roosevelt road, was struck by a car driven by Mortimer Alexander, 3258 Douglas boulevard, as he was crossing Roosevelt road at Spaulding avenue.

An unidentified man about 45 years old was struck and perhaps fatally injured last night by the automobile of John Duffus, 5949 Lafayette avenue, at State and 91st streets. He was taken to the Auburn Park hospital. He muttered the name of "Gus Erickson," and police were tracing the name in an effort to establish identity.

Loot Evanston Home While Couple Visit Neighbors

Burglars who jimmied a bathroom window last night looted the home of Samuel H. Gilbert, 2721 Harrison street, Evanston, of jewelry and clothing valued at $1,000 while he and Mrs. Gilbert were at dinner with friends in the same block. Gilbert is a Chicago attorney and president of the North End Improvement association of Evanston.

DRAFT NEW LAW TO MAKE PUBLIC ENEMY A FELON

Crime Fighters Will Take Bill to Legislature.

enemy. Reasoning from the analogy of the vagabond, who constitutes a public annoyance, it seemed reasonable to conclude that a lawless and notorious character, accustomed to live by the rule of the gun, might be considered a public menace by his mere presence on the street."

Overt Acts to Be Listed.

But the courts, Mr. Condon reflected, would not consider sustaining convictions against gangsters, however dangerous and notorious, whose only offense was appearing on the street. He decided that a specific list of overt acts was necessary for inclusion in the bill.

Such a list, Mr. Condon said, is now being drawn up by Henry Barrett Chamberlin, managing director of the crime commission. It includes such typical gangster offenses as bail jumping, intimidation of witnesses, attempted jury bribing and perjury.

To illustrate the working of the proposed law, Mr. Condon cited the case of a mythical gangster who, being arrested for gun toting, jumped his bond. Under the public enemies act, he said, the court could within three days of the gangster's flight issue a warrant calling for the fugitive's arrest as a public enemy.

The Law in Court.

It would be only necessary to prove the fact of the bail jumping. With the phrase, "public enemy," on his lips, the prosecutor could try the gangster for that offense alone, and upon conviction the judge could sentence the defendant for as long a term as it would be possible to impose for such serious crimes as highway robbery.

Unlike the procedure in vagrancy cases, where the Supreme court recently fixed $5,000 as a reasonable bail, the judge would be empowered to fix a bond commensurate with the gangster's resources.

On constitutional aspects of the public enemies act, Mr. Condon has the counsel of Judge Harry M. Fisher, whom lawyers regard as an authority on criminal law. Before being introduced at Springfield, the act will be submitted for approval of Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court, and the Cook county judicial advisory committee, comprising Superior Judge Denis E. Sullivan, Judge Fisher, Justice Frederic R. De Young of the Supreme court and Attorneys John J. Healy and Amos Miller.

All information should be sent to the headquarters established by State's Attorney Swanson in room 503 Temple building, 77 West Washington street. Telephone State 3729.

IZZY ALDERMAN IN N. Y.

Izzy Alderman, former henchman of George [Bugs] Moran, arrived in New York from Chicago in custody of New York authorities yesterday, according to dispatches, and was scheduled to appear in court to answer charges of participating in the $56,000 jewel robbery of William Sims in the Bronx in 1926. He is also accused of a part in another jewel robbery.

Two members of the gang which engineered the robbery were sentenced to 40 years in prison. Alderman is under indictment as a vagrant in Chicago, but the authorities here preferred to have him extradited to New York to be tried on the more serious charge.

Assistant State's Attorneys Harry Ditchburne and James Brown, in charge of the prosecution of vagrancy cases, said they were not discouraged by the acquittal of Jack Guzik last Thursday for vagrancy. The next vagrancy trial will probably be that of Lawrence [Dago] Mangano, with the trials of Harry Guzik, Terry Druggan, and a number of other public enemies scheduled for January.

FIRE AND BLAST ROUT TENANTS IN WAUKEGAN FLATS

Fire, accompanied by a heavy explosion, early this morning in a three story building at 36 South Genesee street, downtown Waukegan, forced twenty-five tenants to flee to the street from apartments on the second and third floors. The police at first thought a bomb had been planted, but investigation disclosed that a radiator had been blown up.

The fire was in the Valencia ballroom on the first floor. It was believed to have started from a lighted cigaret stub left by a departing dancer on a heavily tufted rug under the radiator. The theory is that the flames heated the radiator until it exploded.

Mrs. Nellie Conrad, owner of the building, estimated the damage at $10,000.

Say Suspect Confesses He Is 'Phantom Robber' of '27

A raid at 18 West Ohio street last night netted three women and three men. One of the latter, who said he was Howard P. Bonahan, living there, admitted, according to the East Chicago avenue police, that he was "the phantom robber" who held up more than 27 tea stores in Chicago in 1927, besides a number of cigar stores. He was armed with a revolver.

LUCAS THRUSTS NORRIS OUTSIDE REPUBLICAN FOLD

Does It with Tacit O. K. of White House.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21.—[Special.]—With the tacit approval of the White House, Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican national committee, undertook in a sensational statement today to read Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska, radical Republican, out of the Republican party.

Citing what he regards as the party treachery of Senator Norris, Mr. Lucas called on the Republican leadership to fulfill its obligations by thrusting the Nebraska insurgent beyond the party pale once and for all time.

Calls Situation Intolerable.

"To accept office at the hands of the party and then viciously oppose its policies, principles and leadership, creates an intolerable situation and one which must be eradicated, if the party is to live," said Mr. Lucas.

"Such conduct by Senator Norris has been revolting and until the leaders of the Republican party not only fail to support but give their active opposition to men like Senator Norris, they are not doing their full duty to the party which has come down to us from Lincoln."

This was the rejoinder of Mr. Lucas to the demands voiced yesterday by Senator Robert B. Howell [Rep., Neb.] and other radical Republicans for the dismissal of the national committee executive director for secretly circularizing Nebraska voters with literature calculated to compass the defeat of Senator Norris for reelection last month.

Of Reservation Since 1920.

Senator Norris, who has not supported a Republican presidential candidate since 1920, and the other Republican radicals, some of whom were formally exiled for supporting Robert M. La Follette the elder, for President in 1924, declare it a heinous crime for the executive director of the Republican national committee to aid and abet the election of a Democratic candidate over any regularly nominated Republican candidate. Senator Norris was renominated in the Republican primary and was opposed by former Senator Gilbert M. Eitchcock, Democrat, in the election.

According to information at the White House, President Hoover is shielding Mr. Lucas, who has been called to succeed Senator Simeon D. Fess [Rep., O.] in the chairmanship of the national committee at no distant date.

Hoover Dislikes Norris.

Whether, however, the President endorses the clandestine warfare waged by Mr. Lucas and the character of the propaganda employed is unclear. But it is no secret that no one would have rejoiced more heartily than Mr. Hoover at the defeat of Senator Norris, whose conception of political integrity inspires the President with a rage no less holy than that harbored by Mr. Lucas.

Mr. Lucas is the second national committee executive to draw the fire of the Republican radicals within a year. It was the radicals who eventually got the scalp of Claudius H. Huston as national chairman by exposing his lobbying activities.

There is a widespread feeling in Washington that, with the radicals now gunning for him, Mr. Lucas is not likely to attain the national chairmanship.

After reviewing his version of the recent propaganda attack on Mr. Norris, Mr. Lucas said:

"Senator Norris, in spite of his vicious and relentless opposition to the administration of President Coolidge, in spite of his support of the Democratic ticket in 1928, and in spite of his vicious and relentless opposition to President Hoover and his administration, now attempts to say who shall and who shall not hold positions with the Republican national committee. Senator Norris supported Gov. Smith in 1928 and was elected this year with the support of the Democratic national committee.

"To a Republican who has the good of the country and the success of the Republican party at heart, and who has any conception of loyalty to party principles and love for its traditions, the complaints now made by Senator Norris and his partisan supporters are entirely aside from fair argument and utterly without foundation.

"To a Republican who has any regard for party history and respect for its leadership in the past and present, which has contributed so much to the upbuilding of this country in the past 75 years, which brought us human freedom, the protection of industry and labor, and has made this nation the leading nation of the world, Senator Norris' ingratitude is beyond comprehension."

Gives $850 to Fight Nebraskan.

Mr. Lucas said that he privately contributed three pieces of literature to the anti-Norris campaign. One was a pamphlet containing newspaper editorial comment showing the opposition of Mr. Norris to the Republican party and President Hoover, another was a cartoon "showing Senator Norris' insincerity on the prohibition question," and the third was the copy of a letter asking Democrats to support Mr. Norris because he had supported Gov. Smith in 1928.

"This," said Mr. Lucas, "contained not one word concerning religion, nor was it calculated to appeal to religious prejudice, as has been stated by Senator Norris and his friends.

"The regular Republicans of Nebraska had every good reason to oppose the election of Senator Norris and I had every right to make a personal contribution to their support. This contribution amounted to approximately $850."

Firemen Find Two Stills Next Door to Police Chief

Answering an alarm yesterday, the Evergreen Park volunteer fire department discovered two stills in a cottage at 9430 South Homan avenue, next door to the home of Chief of Police Mathew Leppin of that suburb. The passerby who turned in the alarm mistook the fumes of the still for smoke. Bity Rankin, 19 years old, and Anthony Mardoka, 40 years old, were arrested later when the police raided the place.

JOHN RIGHEIMER DIES; KEEPER OF FAMOUS SALOON

Friend of Old Time Party Leaders Passes.

John C. Righeimer, a "pal" of half a dozen governors and mayors, but better known as a loop saloonkeeper in the pre-prohibition days, died suddenly yesterday at St. Paul, Minn., where he had been visiting a niece. News of his death was received by his nephew, Frank S. Righeimer, former county judge. The message he received said his uncle had been stricken with heart disease while driving.

At one time John C. Righeimer was a power in Republican politics. A friend of John A. Cooke and William J. Cooke, brothers and Republican bosses of what is now the "bloody 20th ward," but was then the 7th—the bloody being retained—he was allied with them in the forces then led by William Lorimer, former Republican boss of Cook county. Righeimer rose in prominence as Lorimer dictated county nominations and wound up as the maker of governors and senators.

Saloon Political Center.

But Righeimer sought no direct political favors. Instead he established saloons in the loop district, the best known being in the City Hall Square building. In this saloon the lieutenants and the privates of the Lorimer machine felt it their duty to congregate, gathering around the Cooke brothers, who were almost always present, and the other Lorimer leaders who frequented saloons, Lorimer himself being a teetotaler.

Thompson, first as an alderman and later as a county commissioner, was an adherent of the Lorimer machine and frequently a customer. Later Lorimer and the others put him forward for more important offices, once for the board of review, but the power of the machine was beginning to wane.

It received its greatest blow in 1904 when Charles S. Deneen went into the executive mansion at Springfield for eight years which were lean ones for the Lorimer crowd.

Sticks Despite Setbacks.

Meantime things were not going so well for the Lorimer lieutenants. John A. Cooke was convicted of withholding public funds as clerk of the Circuit court and sent to the penitentiary. Deneen and not Lorimer became the Republican boss.

Righeimer stuck loyally to the Cookes and to Lorimer himself. He was one of the heaviest losers when the Lorimer bank crashed. The saloon business prospered, however, and the Righeimer bar continued as a political exchange for all parties and factions.

Righeimer's political stock went up when Thompson became mayor and still further when Small was made governor and Righeimer's nephew was elected county judge, but he did not seek office.

Righeimer was appointed chairman of the boxing commission by Small in 1926 and continued in that office for a time, but the last years of his life were spent in comparative political obscurity. He was considered to have met with good fortune in recent business transactions.

He was 63 years old and is survived by his widow, Mrs. Gussie Righeimer; a brother, Christian J., and a sister, Mrs. Frederick Stahl. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the residence, 5238 Washington boulevard, with burial in Forest Home cemetery.

G. O. P. ALLIANCE TO BEGIN PICKING A MAYOR TODAY

Conference Will Canvass List of Possibilities.

After a week-end of conferences and deliberations, the various Republican groups which joined in alliance last week are expected to get down to actual work today toward the selection of a harmony candidate for mayor.

The allied leaders, brought together by Bernard W. Snow, chairman of the Republican county central committee, are to convene in the Palmer house this afternoon. It is considered probable that a subcommittee will be named to assume the task of determining the most favorable candidate from among the field of a dozen or more men whose names have been mentioned.

Leaders of the groups participating in the alliance have expressed satisfaction over the favorable public reaction to their plan to unite and are anxious to go forward without delay.

Subcommittee of Four Likely.

It was reported likely that Senator Deneen, former Attorney General Edward J. Brundage, Chairman Snow, and Dr. John Dill Robertson, former president of the west park board, will be chosen for the subcommittee as representatives of the leading groups of the alliance.

Deneen and Brundage would act for their own organizations, Snow represents the Snow-Harding group, and Dr. Robertson would act for the Illinois Republican council.

The names of the candidates to be considered by the alliance are expected to be presented at today's conference, but it is regarded as unlikely that any discussion of them will be undertaken by the full conference. The names will be referred to the subcommittee, which probably will be instructed to make a report as early as possible.

Deneen to Attend Parley.

Senator Deneen, who was detained in Washington by senate business and was unable to attend the Friday conference, at which the unity program was agreed on, will be present at this afternoon's meeting. His group, including Roy O. West, national committeeman, and State's Attorney Swanson, is to hold a separate caucus this morning. Senator Deneen said yesterday his faction had not undertaken any discussion of candidacies.

He indicated, however, that this probably would be taken up at the morning caucus.

Before the formation of the alliance, there had been three or four Deneen men among those whose names were mntioned as mayoralty possibilities. These included Edward R. Litsinger of the board of review, Ald. Arthur F. Albert, Ald. John A. Massen, and James A. Kearns, former clerk of the Municipal court.

Other Possible Candidates.

Others who have been mentioned as possible candidates include Judge John H. Lyle of the felony court, Thomas H. Wilson, meat packer; Howard Savage, Col. Noble B. Judah, former ambassador to Cuba, and David H. Jackson, former chairman of the state commerce commission.

Since the fusion of the Republican forces several new prospective candidates have been named.

Among these are Kenesaw M. Landis, former federal judge and now commissioner of baseball; Brig. Gen. Abel Davis; Postmaster Arthur Lueder, who was defeated by the late Mayor Dever in 1923; George E. Q. Johnson, United States district attorney; David E. Shanahan, speaker of the house; Congressman Fred A. Britten, and John W. O'Leary, banker and former president of the association of commerce.

Supporters of the candidacy of Charles V. Barrett yesterday issued a statement saying that the Snow conferees' "idea of 'ending factionalism' seems to be the creation of a new faction."

The statement described Barrett as the "original anti-Thompson candidate" and said the entrance of a new candidate into the race would only "make the defeat of Thompson more difficult."

"We have no quarrel with their personal or political ambitions," the statement said in reference to the allied leaders, "but we submit that if they are sincere, there is just one logical course for them to follow, and that is to unite behind Barrett."

J. W. Palmer, Max Epstein, and Dr. A. A. Goldsmith headed a group of 25 who signed the statement in Barrett's behalf.

FEAR POINCARE STILL IN DANGER; REPORT RELAPSE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 21.—Intimates and friends of former Premier Raymond Poincare are deeply worried over the health of the wartime president. His physicians, Dr. Boldin and Dr. Guillain, after a two hour consultation this morning, issued a brief statement announcing that the condition of their patient was stationary and that it necessitated complete repose.

It is understood that M. Poincare is extremely weak and has had a sudden relapse after the slight amelioration of the previous two days. Strictest secrecy regarding M. Poincare's real condition is observed at his home in the Rue Marbeau. The depressing effect of his condition on the stock market last week is said to be the reason why no information is being given out besides laconic bulletins.

MEETING TODAY BRINGS SUBWAY PEACE—OR WAR

Say City Will Yield All but Erie Station.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

It will be decided today whether there shall be an agreement between the property owners and the city on the plans for the State street subway. The city representatives, after a morning and afternoon session yesterday, appeared hopeful of an acceptable compromise. The meetings were held in the office of Walter L. Fisher, chief legal counsel for the city. They prepared a written statement of their position on every change in plans asked by the property owners. This was signed by Mr. Fisher, Attorneys George A. Mason, Joseph J. Sullivan, and Allan T. Gilbert, and by Robert Ridgway, chief consulting engineer; Alfred Brahdy, engineering consultant, and R. F. Kelker Jr., chief subway engineer.

Meet Property Owners Today.

This will be presented to the property owners' committee, headed by John T. Pirie, and their expert advisers, legal and engineering, at a meeting this morning in the office of William B. Hale, chief attorney for the property owners. The text of this legal and engineering brief was not made public, but it is understood that it grants every contention of the property owners, except two or three.

The exceptions are said to relate to plans for the bore north of Grand avenue. All changes asked by the property owners from Grand avenue southward are said to have been granted in this written statement, from the viewpoint of the city.

In the mezzanine concourse the city representatives are said to have agreed that two feet in depth shall be taken from the public utilities and used for the convenience and comfort of car riders. The concourse is to be extended southward from Congress street to Eighth street, as the property owners desired.

Show Windows Allowed.

The State street stores are to be allowed show windows on the train level of the subway. There are to be entrances to the concourse from Wacker drive.

The north side demands, of which an additional station at Erie street is the principal one, will not be approved by the city. It is claimed by the city engineers that this station would create highly objectionable operating conditions.

It is understood that the city lawyers will give it as their opinion that all of the changes, approved by the city engineers, can legally be made without modifying the subway ordinance. President Faherty of the board of local improvements is expected to give his and lawyers, will be made.

Property Owners Bound Together.

It remains to be seen whether the way the city proposes to make the changes is acceptable to the property owners. If that hurdle is hopped, then the lawyers for the property owners must decide whether the assurance of the promised changes is binding or acceptable. If that question is decided in the affirmative, then one more hurdle is still to be jumped.

In obtaining a majority remonstrance petition against the plans, it is rumored that the property owners agreed they would stand or fall together on all requests made. So the refusal of the city engineers to approve of an Erie street station may be a stumbling block.

One member of the committee predicted that, unless the north siders voluntarily withdrew their request, the committee will—under its agreement—be forced to file the majority protest today. This will defer the State street subway plan for a year, unless the protest is withdrawn.

POLAND HONORS YANK WHO HELPED 1831 REBELLION

WARSAW, Dec. 21.—(AP)—A memorial tablet honoring Dr. Paul Fitzsimmons Eve, an American who participated in the Polish fight for freedom in 1831, was unveiled amid great ceremony in the Warsaw Central Military hospital today.

Among those attending were Ambassador John W. Willys and Mrs. Willys.

Dr. Eve joined the insurrection of nearly 100 years ago to repay America's best to Pulaski and Kosciuszko, who aided the American colonies in their revolution against Great Britain. He served in the Polish insurgent army until the movement was ended.

Aviation Fan Dies Testing Reconditioned Plane

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 21.—(AP)—Lawrence B. Hazleton, 22, aviation enthusiast, fell 2,500 feet to his death at Lunken airport here today when the wings collapsed on a reconditioned monoplane he was testing.

On Way East

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks Jr., motion picture stars, arrived in Chicago yesterday from California over the Santa Fé railroad and spent a short time here before departing for New York. They are to spend the Christmas holidays in New York. Mrs. Fairbanks Jr. is known on the screen as Joan Crawford.

Human Polar Bears Take Half Hour Dip in Lake

ENDS LIFE IN FILLING STATION.

Joseph Peweski, 44 years old, shot and killed himself yesterday in a gasoline station at 7036 Archer avenue, of which he was part owner. His partner, S. J. Perponis, 7436 West 56th street, who was outside and heard the shot, told Chicago Lawn police that Peweski had been despondent.

NEW PROTEST SEES 'L' FAVOR IN MERGER PLAN

Surface Lines Group Is Ready for Court Fight.

The holders of participation certificates, Series No. 1, in the west and north side surface lines issued another statement yesterday attacking the financial plan to consolidate the surface and elevated lines. It is signed by the protective committee headed by Orville E. Babcock. They charge that the "L" will get too much and the west and north side surface lines too little in the merger.

It is charged that between 1924 and 1929 the "L" has "shown an almost uninterrupted unfavorable trend." As evidence to support that charge the statement says "that 16,126,629 fewer passengers were reported for 1929 than for 1924, yet expenditures for power were $185,080 greater, cost of conducting transportation $263,224 greater, general and miscellaneous expenses $300,753 greater, and total operating expenses $1,012,899 greater in 1929 than in 1924." The statement adds that "net earnings in 1929 little more than covered interest on its mortgage debt."

Report Surface Lines Gain.

In contrast, it is claimed that "the surface lines in 1929 carried 40,000,000 more passengers than in 1924, decreased their operating costs per passenger, and reported increased and ample earnings during that period."

After asserting that is no reason to believe those trends will not continue, the statement reads:

"How is it then that those controlling the elevated and sponsoring the present reorganization plan, who are in effect one and the same, have been able to convince bankers and the public that they should control the surface lines and that earnings of millions of dollars a year should be diverted from them to the elevated security holders, and that the holders of good surface lines securities should be asked to accept from them a miscellany of bonds and A and B stocks in a capital structure so complicated that it will hamper financing for years to come. These are what the Halsey Stuart & Co. plans in effect provide.

Suggest Other Plans.

"It is obvious from the point of view of holders of Surface Lines securities, including the first mortgage bonds, and the city, that it would be better to refinance under a different franchise or to continue as at present, letting debts be paid off out of earnings and await a more favorable opportunity to purchase the elevated, than accept the burden of a rundown and unprofitable property on the exorbitant terms provided in the Halsey Stuart plan.

"We believe that before proceedings with the Halsey Stuart plan there is a clear obligation upon the 'bankers' traction advisory committee' to give its opinion of that plan's fairness to all interests, and also of any other financial plans that are submitted by responsible persons."

Continue Court Fight.

The committee reiterates its charge that the participation certificates are asked to accept securities in the new company with an earning capacity of $46,874 a year, in contrast with $1,584,109 on earnings last year applicable to these certificates.

The statement concludes: "This committee cannot accept, but must continue its litigation now in the federal courts."

The first decision on that litigation was adverse to the certificate holders.

MANIAC WHO ESCAPED FROM N. Y. HOSPITAL FOR INSANE CAPTURED

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 21.—(AP)—Living in a small room in the western part of the city and going out only at night for a few minutes to buy food, police today found Frank Vanderkuylen, one of the six men to escape Dec. 4 from Matteawan hospital for the criminal insane, outside of New York City. He admitted his identity and said he had been in Baltimore since Dec. 7 but had not eaten "a square meal in fourteen days." Seven dollars was found on his person. He was taken to police headquarters and New York authorities notified.

Acting on secret information two officers, one in plain clothes, went to the rooming house this afternoon and opened the maniac's door. He was sitting in an easy chair with his back to the door looking out of a window. He observed the figure in the door by the reflection in a looking glass and rose to his feet saying: "O, you have got me. I will go back but don't beat me."

He was committed to the hospital following a murder trial in New York last March for killing a bigamous wife with acid. He was found "not guilty but insane."

Four of the inmates of the institution to dash to freedom with him were recaptured and taken back a few days after the escape.

ADVISE G. O. P. TO RUN JUDGE CLARK FOR GOVERNOR

New Jersey Jurist Keeps Silent on Proposal.

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 21.—[Special.]—Becoming a person of nation-wide interest overnight as a result of his decision declaring the eighteenth amendment invalid, Federal Judge William Clark of Princeton is being discussed as a possible candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in New Jersey next year.

Candidacy Not Expressed.

Whether the jurist would relinquish his seat on the bench for the uncertainties of a Jersey political campaign is not yet known, but many are saying he would make an admirable nominee and are of the opinion his candidacy would capture the imagination of the public generally almost in the same manner as did that of Senator Dwight W. Morrow.

Political observers are convinced the Republican candidate for governor in 1931 must possess well defined anti-prohibition views, capacity and independence if the Democratic contender is to be defeated. Former Gov. A. Harry Moore of Jersey City is slated to be the Democratic nominee.

Rapped by Dry Leader.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21.—(AP)—The decision of Federal Judge Clark of New Jersey holding the eighteenth amendment invalid came under fire today from Ernest H. Cherrington, general secretary of the World League Against Alcoholism.

In a statement Cherrington said it was "plainly to be inferred" from Judge Clark's remarks that he was "prepared to have his decision reversed by the Appellate court."

BAR'S REPEAL POLL IS DISCOUNTED BY METHODIST BOARD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21.—[Special.]—The two to one vote of the American Bar association in favor of the repeal of the eighteenth amendment was discounted by the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition, and public morals today with the argument that the poll was dominated by wet city lawyers.

"The poll merely calls attention to the fact that the large cities of our country are wet," said a statement issued by the board. "It does not truly represent the attitude of the legal profession of the country."

The statement quoted Edward T. Lee, member of the association and dean of John Marshall law school, Chicago, as saying that "the demand for the poll was made by outstandingly wet local bar associations, such as those of New York, Baltimore, Boston and other cities, where the sentiment is largely against prohibition," and that "no appreciable demand for the vote came from the great mass of the association's membership."

Out of the association's 28,000 members, the statement declared, more than one-half are found in eleven states, "all but two of which are considered wet and contain the largest American cities."

Jail Cuban Newspaper Man for Urging Machado to Quit

CAMAGUEY, Cuba, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Solano Herrera, member of the editorial staff of El Camagueyano, principal daily of this city, was arrested and imprisoned today under orders from the interior department at Havana. Señor Herrera is understood to have written a letter to President Machado requesting his immediate resignation as the only solution to the political problems of this country.

ITALIAN PLANES REACH AFRICA ON FLIGHT TO BRAZIL

KENITRA, Morocco, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Twelve Italian seaplanes, making their way toward Brazil under command of Air Minister Balbo, arrived here at 1:40 o'clock this afternoon from Cartagena, Spain. The aviators were guests of the French colonial authorities at a reception this afternoon followed by a dinner.

Fire Damages One Plane.

CARTAGENA, Spain, Dec. 21.—(AP)—With the shout "Avanti Savoya" [forward Savoy] by Air Minister Balbo as the starting signal, twelve planes of the Italian trans-Atlantic fleet took off at 8:45 a. m. from Kenitra, Morocco.

A mishap at the start, however, caused one of the trans-Atlantic planes and one of the two supply ships to remain here. The carburetor of the plane took fire just after the takeoff, causing great alarm among spectators who saw flames close to the motor. The plane landed safely.

INVENT CARBURETOR SAID TO ELIMINATE POISON MOTOR GAS

New York, Dec. 21.—[Special.]—A device which, according to laboratory and road tests, insures virtual elimination of carbon monoxide, saves from 20 to 50 per cent in gasoline consumption and permits the use of gasoline, kerosene or fuel oil in any internal combustion engine—automobile, motor boat or airplane—was announced today.

Other advantages claimed for the device are elimination of carbon in cylinders and a definite increase in the speed, power, accelaration and general performance of engines.

The invention was submitted to industrial physicists who analyzed the carbon monoxide content of exhaust gases of an automobile with and without the instrument, and said, "It seems we are on the way to a solution of the carbon monoxide problem."

CITY NATIONAL BANK OF MIAMI FAILS TO OPEN

Miami, Fla., Dec. 22 (Monday).—(AP)—The City National bank, second largest financial institution of Miami, will not open its doors today, under instructions of the board of directors, which adopted a resolution to that effect at midnight.

The board declared heavy withdrawals, "due to malicious rumors" concerning the bank's condition, were responsible for the decision. It was added the bank was closed to protect interests of depositors.

The City National bank of Miami Beach, the City Trust company, and the Guardian Trust company, subsidiaries of the City National bank in Miami, will not be affected by the closing.

Eugene R. Black, governor of the Atlanta district Federal Reserve bank, said he felt the other Miami banks were in condition to handle the situation. Mr. Black was in conference with officers and directors of all other Miami banks until after midnight.

The board of directors of the closed bank directed the president to ask the controller of the currency of the United States to assume charge of the institution. The City National bank's last statement was dated Sept. 24 and showed resources of $7,209,234.75 and deposits totaling $5,862,662.27. It is capitalized at $500,000 and has a surplus of $500,000.

Saves Three from Flames, Dies with Fourth in Home

King City, Cal., Dec. 21.—(AP)—After saving his wife and two young daughters from their flaming ranch home 12 miles north of here early today Roy Hutchenson, 42, perished in the blaze as he returned to save his 16 year old son. Both were burned to death as he was carrying the son to safety.

U. S. PROHIBITION BRINGS A BOOM TO NOVA SCOTIA

Boston, Mass., Dec. 21.—[Special.]—American prohibition has brought to the shipyards of Nova Scotia their third era of prosperity within a century, the first of which reached its peak in the clipper ship era, the second during the war, and the current boom within the last year.

A survey just completed shows at least 150 offshore vessels known to be engaged in the smuggling of liquor, and on the word of owners and builders it is safe to estimate the average cost of each at $50,000, while nearly every one was built in Nova Scotia.

Bleak little ports and villages which became poverty stricken in the lean years after the war are again bright and prosperous, with new paint on the houses, new cars in the streets, and new comforts in the homes which five years ago would have been regarded as wild luxuries.

RUSSIA'S OUSTED PREMIER FIRED FROM 2D POST

Stalin 'Cleaning House' of Political Foes.

MOSCOW, Dec. 21.—(AP)—The demotion of Alexis I. Rykov, who was "relieved" as head of the union council of people's commissars last week, was completed today with his removal as a member of the important political bureau.

When Rykov was taken out of the first post, which is the equivalent of premier, predictions were made that he soon would be shorn of all power, in view of Dictator Joseph Stalin's determination for a "house cleaning" of all right wing leaders, and this was borne out by today's action of the central committee and central control commission of the communist party.

Vice Chairman Loses Job.

The dismissal of Michael Tomsky as vice chairman of the supreme economic council yesterday was viewed in the same light. Both Rykov and Tomsky long have been prominent right wingers, opposing to some extent the drastic industrialization program of Stalin, but the influence of the latter—who holds no official title but nevertheless is considered the real ruler of soviet Russia—was too much for them. They publicly recanted, even abjectly, but long ago it was forecast that this would not save their jobs.

Only one right winger of prominence remains in a high post. He is Nicholas Bucharin, a member of the central committee and also the supreme economic council. The general expectation is that he, too, will be dropped eventually, thus leaving Stalin's ideas supreme.

Other Shifts Made.

Other changes were made today by the central committee and the central control commission. Grigori Ornjonikidse, president of the supreme economic council, was elected to the political bureau, while Viacheslav Molotoff, Rykov's successor as premier, was relieved of his duties as secretary of the control commission. Grigori Ordjonikidse's promotion.

AIRPLANE SPOTS ONE OF TWO N. Y. MURDER VICTIMS

New York, Dec. 21.—[Special.]—The airplane accidentally unearthed a gang killing today. Flying at low altitude over the fields that border the Long Island Motor parkway near Hicksville, L. I., aviators discovered the body of a man lying in the sparse weeds bordering the road. Landing, they found the man dead, five shots having been fired into his back.

The Hicksville slaying was one of three shooting affrays that disturbed the peace of the city during the day. Several hours earlier in Brooklyn a gangster with a police record was found dead in an abandoned automobile.

A woman, Mrs. Vincenza Espisito, twenty-two years old, was shot down from an automobile in which several men were riding. She is in serious condition.

HUNT STILL ON FOR CZAR'S ASHES IN NEW MYSTERY

Gen. Janin Denies Taking Them to France.

PARIS, Dec. 21.—(AP)—A statement which deepens the mystery surrounding the disposition of the purported remains of the former Russian czar and other members of the imperial family was received from Gen. Maurice Janin today.

The question of the fate of the Russian royal family, which has been a matter of wide speculation since the bolshevik revolution, was revived last week in dispatches from Prague. These said Gen. Janin, who commanded anti-soviet forces in Siberia in 1919, had written a book in which he declared he had brought the ashes and other remains to France and buried them on his private estate.

Doesn't Know Where Ashes Are.

Gen. Janin's statement today says he does not know what became of the remains. He telegraphed as follows from his home at Chateau Oerrizard, near Mens in the department of Isere:

"In 1920 I received at Harbin from Gen. Dietrichs four valises which contained, besides documents and objects which bore a relation to the investigation into the assassination of the imperial Russian family, some remains gathered near Ekaterinburg at the places where the bodies were carved into pieces and burned. They included parts of bones and a finger presumed to be that of the empress of Russia.

"This collection, intended to be forwarded to Grand Duke Nicholas of Russia, was turned over by his request to M. De Giers, former ambassador to Italy, after having been kept here three months. I do not know where it is now."

Thus the statement tends to establish these things, among others:

That Gen. Janin did not acquire the remains personally, as previously reported in some quarters, but got them from Gen. Dietrichs, who was chief of staff for Admiral Kolchak, ruler of Russia after the first revolution in 1917 and before the bolsheviks came.

Remains Not in France.

That the remains do not lie buried on the Janin estate in France.

That they were handed to M. De Giers by the express wish of Grand Duke Nicholas.

That their present whereabouts is unknown.

Gen. Janin's references to valises is deemed especially significant. It was revealed today that mysterious valises were supposed to have been handed to some representatives of allied nations by a Swiss who professed to be the tutor of the czar's children.

CHICAGOAN DOUBTS STORY.

J. Anthony Marcus, former American relief worker in Russia, of the Lansing hotel, 1036 North Dearborn street, said last night that there could be no truth in reports that the czar's ashes had been found.

Marcus said he became acquainted with members of the Ekaterinburg execution committee who permitted him to examine and copy original documents showing that the bodies of the royal family were burned, the bones treated with acids, and the ashes scattered to the wind.

DEMAND ALFONSO 'TAKE VACATION' AS SPAIN VOTES

Foes Fight to Obtain Honest Elections.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Dec. 21.—With the recent revolt speedily smashed and the leaders under the sod, under lock and key or fled from the country, the Spanish monarchy today ironically finds itself in a situation far more dangerous than in 1923 when it had to call on Primo de Rivera to save it by dissolving parliament and setting up a dictatorship.

Primo's successor, Gen. Damaso Berenguer, says that he will call elections anyway, thus carrying out his pledge to restore civil liberty and liquidate the seven years of personal rule by Alfonso XIII.

But the horizon in that direction is blacker than ever as a result of the decision last week of Jose Sanchez Guerra, one time chief of the Conservative party, and an influential group of Conservatives, Liberals and "reformists" to resist all attempts to revise the constitution of 1876 and stand squarely for a constituent assembly.

King Fears an Election.

Gen. Goded, assistant minister of war, is also declared to be in sympathy with Guerra's movement. The two wanted a revolution last February but Alfonso discovered the plot in time to dismiss Dictator Primo de Rivera and pledge he would call elections.

Sanchez Guerra and his allies, the chief of whom is Melquiades Alvarez, speaker of the cortes of 1923, demand a "vacation of the crown" during the elections to assure honest voting, and also during the assembly's sittings.

According to their demands, the delegates would not take an oath to the king who, during this period, would be deprived of his prerogatives and could preferably spend his time abroad pending the decision of the assembly as to the form of government it wants. This plan is far more dangerous to the throne than an abortive revolt. It seriously complicates Gen. Berenguer's intentions.

Berenguer's Days Numbered.

Gen. Berenguer is honorable, but his days of power seem numbered, and observers here are asking:

Will this proud, strong willed, and crafty Bourbon king take a vacation and wait meekly upon the verdict of the people, spurred on in the meantime by his vociferous enemies?

Will he even risk the election of a cortes, now that the opposition is rolling up hourly?

Had he braved the election late last spring there would undoubtedly have been a great monarchical majority, but now the mood of the country has changed. And here already are former ministers of the crown asking not the cortes but the crown to take a vacation.

Or will he try a dictatorship again, a real one this time?

Found His Troops Loyal.

King Alfonso found last week, probably to his surprise, for he had already summoned the foreign legion, that Spanish soldiers will fire on their comrades in arms. That must have been as comforting to him as it was disconcerting to the conspirators. But the army is divided. Primo rode into power on the shoulders of the army and the army has been bucking ever since. It is almost certain that it will never serve one rider again.

Never has there been a dictatorship in Spain as the Italians know it. No denunciations blackened it. There was little cruelty other than moral cruelty. Conspirators were merely reprimanded and only shot at if they shot first. Sanchez Guerra carefully pleaded guilty to inciting an armed revolt at Valencia in the very words of the death sentence in the criminal code and was acquitted. Primo had men put in prison one day and played poker with them the next day when they got out. There has never been terror in Spain.

It's Different in Italy.

Coming from Mussolinland into a country where martial law has maintained for a week after a desperate revolt, I find fewer evidences of coercion than in normal times in Italy. There are fewer uniforms, fewer firearms. Italy denies her troublesome censorship exists. Here they admit it, but it is mild. Politics is discussed in the Spanish press with no restraint, which is a relief after listening for months to the single shrill note of the Fascist press.

It is conceivable that Alfonso might try what Mussolini managed to do. In a letter to Dr. Antonio Maura, the Conservative leader in 1923, the king suggested the possibility of becoming his own dictator. He was disappointed, however, when Primo failed to prove tractable.

Most people think it is too late for a dictator. Anyway, who could the king get? There is Martinez Anido, Primo's tough minister of the interior, but he is hated. There is the polished Admiral Magaz and old Juan de la Cierva, one time minister of war. There the list ends.

Kills Self After Nearly Taking Lives of 2 Others

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 21.—(AP)—A few minutes after she had nearly killed her husband, their son and herself by turning on a gas jet, Mrs. Donald Wilson, 26, wife of an Omaha physician, committed suicide with poison early this morning. Cries of the baby wakened Dr. Wilson, who turned off the gas. While he was working over the child his wife went to the bathroom, there presumably taking the poison. Mrs. Wilson had returned home from a psychopathic hospital only on Saturday.

SEES NEW WAR PLUNGING WORLD INTO BARBARISM

Peace Must Stand, British Foreign Chief Warns

BRIGHTON, Eng., Dec. 21.—(AP)—A statement that the United States and Great Britain are at one of the turning points in their histories formed the keynote of a message broadcast to America tonight by Arthur Henderson, British foreign secretary.

"We have to choose between peace and war, between coöperation and conflict, between a developing and ennobling civilization, and a collapse into the barbarism of the past," he said. "We have to make that choice now, we cannot evade it or postpone it.

Warns of Cataclysm.

"For unless we can build this structure of world peace upon a firm foundation, unless we can do it now before the memories of war have faded, we may depend upon it that sooner or later—and probably rather sooner than later—a cataclysm will come upon the world which will engulf all that we care about in western civilization."

Referring to "active but unreasoning fear" prevailing in some quarters, Mr. Henderson continued:

"I would ask you boldly not to listen for a moment to those who speak of war. I am absolutely convinced there is no one who wants war, no one who is plotting for war, no one who does not realize that war would be an unmitigated disaster to all concerned."

In reviewing steps made toward peace during the last year, the foreign secretary referred specifically to the London naval conference.

Reviews Steps Toward Peace.

"The three greatest naval powers agreed to build no more capital ships," he said, "and indeed we may hope as a result of that agreement that no monster vessels ever shall be built again.

"By the treaty we settled two of the most urgent political questions in the world—the so-called question of parity between England and America, and a similar question between America and Japan. Thus we got rid—we hope forever—of the risks of armament competition between Europe and America on one hand and between America and Asia on the other."

After touching briefly on the Hague conference, which ended in the evacuation of the Rhineland, on the acceptance by many nations of the optional clause regarding the permanent court of international justice, and on the Indian round table conference, Mr. Henderson said that as a result of recent labors in Geneva the way now was open for a world disarmament conference.

FLYER TELLS WHY HE DIDN'T DROP REVOLT BOMB

(Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.)

LONDON, Dec. 21.—How Maj. Ramon Franco's nerve failed him on catching sight of some children when he was about to release a bomb over the royal palace in Madrid, which was also a prearranged signal for a general revolt, is described in a dispatch smuggled out of Portugal by a correspondent of the London Daily Express after interviewing the interned Spanish flyer.

"If it had not been for those children playing down there in the Plaza del Armas, I should have blown the royal palace to pieces—my bombs were all ready to be dropped," said Franco. "I looked down at the palace beneath me, my hand just moving to the lever which would release the bomb, when I said to myself, 'No, it cannot be done. Why should those innocent lives be sacrificed?' And I withdrew my hand.

"I continued to fly over the city, and the signal which would have swept a wave of republicanism over Spain was never given."

SHEPARD JURORS STILL UNAGREED; STAND UNKNOWN

Are Locked Up for Second Night.

Kansas City, Kas., Dec. 21.—(AP)—The jurors in the trial of Maj. Charles A. Shepard ceased deliberations at 7 p. m. and retired for the second night with the fate of the army medical corps officer in their hands.

Since the jury received the case yesterday at 2:58 p. m. there has been no indication of results of balloting. Tonight when deliberations ceased the jurors plainly were showing the strain of their responsibility.

Will Continue Today.

Consideration of the case will begin again at 9 a. m. tomorrow. The twelve men thus far have been closeted in the jury room approximately fourteen hours.

Maj. Shepard, 59 year old medical officer, spent several hours at the federal building today, smoking and chatting with his counsel and other friends. He appeared somewhat haggard, but was in good spirits. He has professed belief he will be acquitted by the jury.

Spectators Still in Court.

Interest in the case of the officer, alleged to have slain his wife because of his love for Miss Grace Brandon, 24 year old blonde stenographer of San Antonio, Tex., continued in the courtroom over Sunday. Although no court officials were in attendance, more than 100 spectators filled the seats during the day, hopeful for announcement of a verdict.

Mrs. Shepard died June 15, 1929, at Fort Riley, Kas.

FARMER FOUND HEALTHIEST BY RESEARCH MEN

New York, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Health favors the American farmer in early middle life, and he is less subject to the degenerative diseases than are the workers in other occupations, it was shown in a study made by the research division of the Milbank Memorial fund.

The study was based on the physical examination of 100,000 men engaged in agriculture, professions, business, and skilled trade.

The farmer's worst showing was in diseases of the teeth and gums, said the report, and after the age of 45 valvular heart lesions became prevalent. Arterial thickening and defects of vision are less common among farmers.

3 JUDGES SEEK TO END COURT SALARY DISPUTE

Three Circuit court judges and a committee of the Kane county board will meet at Geneva tomorrow in an effort to settle a salary dispute of six years' standing with Charles Farmiloe, the Kane county circuit clerk.

The board claims Farmiloe owes the county $11,661.18 out of the earnings of his office. Farmiloe says he is merely withholding the money until an agreement is reached on the amount of his salary, and points out that the board originally voted him a salary of $4,000 and then reduced it to $3,000 and then to $2,500.

The board maintains the original figure was $3,000, but that it appeared as $4,000 in the printed proceedings as the result of a typographical error. Fees and other earnings of the Circuit court clerk's office are between $15,000 and $16,000 a year and expenses are about $10,500. The judges who will take part in the conference are John K. Newhall of Aurora; Frank Shepherd of Elgin, and W. F. Fulton of Sycamore.

GREEKS MUTILATE SHAFT OF LIBERTY TO SATISFY DUCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Greece, Dec. 21.—Because Premier Mussolini disliked the idea of patriotic Greeks dedicating a memorial inscribed with their names in the Greek populated but Italian owned Dodecanes islands the dedication of the monument fizzled out today. The memorial had been planned by the "Heroes of the Greek independence" and was to have carried the names of 12 Dodecanese islands among those Greek lands which contributed fighters to the Greek war of independence.

Rome cabled this was an impertinence since the islands though peopled purely by Greeks, belonged to Italy.

The Greeks went ahead however, and inscribed the names of the islands on the memorial. Then Premier Mussolini ordered the Italian minister at Athens to register a formal protest. So last week the names of the 12 islands were chiseled off and the mutilated memorial dedicated today without them.

Baby Girl Abandoned in Buggy in Flat Building

A 6 week old baby girl, well clad, was found tucked in a baby buggy on the third floor of a building at 810 East 44th street late Saturday night. Neighbors had seen a woman enter the building and later leave. The child was taken to St. Vincent's orphanage by police.

Kalamazoo Man Has Head Einstein's Size; Lends Hat

S. S. BELGENLAND, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Prof. Albert Einstein, traveling from Havana to Panama en route to California, spent this afternoon placidly pacing the deck in a borrowed hat. Frau Einstein said she decided the scientist's customary black felt was too heavy for the tropics. He agreed, but had no other. Several passengers offered their hats, but all were found too large until a man from Kalamazoo, Mich., offered a Panama that fitted and was accepted.

FOG GRIPS SEAS OF EUROPE; U. S. LINER RAMMED

Four Die in Wreck Off Portugal's Coast.

LONDON, Dec. 21.—(AP)—The greatest of all terrors of the sea—which caused the wreck of the Finnish steamer Oberon with a loss of 41 lives Friday night—today had spread a thick mantle over a large area of European waters. Reports of ships in peril have come from points as far distant as Constantinople and Cobh, Ireland.

From Lisbon came word that the large fishing trawler Patria was in collision with another steamer off the Portuguese coast and went down with four of her crew. Several others were rescued by the trawler Telita and taken into the port of Setubal.

Heavy Gash to U. S. Ship.

The United States liner George Washington was rammed astern in a dense fog in the Elbe estuary by the Danish motorship Malaya. The Malaya, a vessel of 8,600 gross tons, was badly damaged.

Tugs immediately went out and found the Malaya, also bound for Hamburg, with her bow deep into the George Washington's stern.

The two vessels afterward separated and the captain of the Malaya decided to run her ashore. The George Washington, although badly gashed, was less seriously damaged than the Malaya and was towed safely into port.

The incoming Hamburg-American liner Deutschland, just in front of the George Washington off Finkenwarder, also grounded by her stern and as floodtide pulled her around she had to be towed into port stern first.

Rams U. S. Ship in Turkey.

Reports to Lloyds Shipping agency said the Hopateong, a 6,216 ton vessel owned by the United States shipping board, was struck by the British steamer Rio Azul while she was anchored in the roads at Istanbul last night. The British vessel was badly damaged. The American ship appeared slightly damaged about the stem, but neither boat was believed to be endangered.

The Dutch steamer Export and the British steamer Kemmel came together in a fog near Rotterdam. The Export was forced to return to port, although the British steamer was able to proceed on her voyage.

This morning the British steam trawler William Hallett lost her bearings and went ashore near Ballycotton, Ireland. The deep sea tug Zwarte Zee went to her assistance.

LACK OF AMMUNITION HALTS FIGHT ON HUGE GAS-OIL WELL FIRE

Wewoka, Okla., Dec. 21.—(AP)—Lack of ammunition brought a truce tonight in the war being waged on the burning wild No. 2 A. B. Douglas oil and gas well on the southern edge of Wewoka.

M. M. Kinley and Harry Kinley, oil fire taming brothers, who are leading the attack, retreated to Tulsa by airplane for a new supply of gelatin. The gelatin is a component of the explosive preparation with which they are attempting to snuff the fire, fed by an estimated 60,000,000 cubic feet of gas and 600 barrels of oil daily.

Two five quart shots of nitroglycerin fired an hour apart late today failed to extinguish the flames

It was planned to double the third charge, expected to be touched off at noon tomorrow.

The nitroglycerin, heavily insulated, was placed as close as possible to the roaring tower of flame and fired by electricity.

FISHERFOLK GIVE PRAISE IN CHURCH FOR $300,000 PRIZE

CASCAES, Portugal, Dec. 21.—(AP)—The fisherfolk of this village celebrated with thanksgiving services in church this morning because luck in the form of a $300,000 lottery ticket had descended upon them. The prize was drawn in the name of a bartender, Alberto Ereira, but he previously had shared his ticket among the villagers. When the town crier proclaimed the news the fisherfolk burst into rejoicing immediately and abandoned their nets.

Among the winners was a 75 year old woman chestnut seller. She became so excited that she kicked over her bucket of hot chestnuts and exclaimed she would spend the rest of her days in comfort.

Tonight the entire population turned out to sing and dance in the streets. Success was doubly welcome because the winners faced a poverty stricken Christmas on account of heavy storms which ruined the fishing business.

BANDITS TURN BACK NEWSBOYS' TIPS, BUT STEAL ABOUT $1,000

Everett, Mass., Dec. 21.—[Special.]—The appeal of an Everett newsdealer saved the Christmas "tips" of about a dozen newsboys when two armed bandits entered the Everett News company offices here today and stole about $1,000 in a bold daylight robbery.

Tobe Poole, the manager, his two assistants and the newsboys were herded into the rear of the store while all the counter and desk money was swept into a suitcase.

The boys then were forced to empty their pockets, but when the manager declared that all the lads had turned in their earnings and that the money being taken from them represented Christmas tips from customers on their morning routes, the holdup men dumped a bagful of change back on the counter, told the boys to divide it, and left.

SUNDAY FOOD BUYERS MUST - FACE JUDGE

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 21.—(AP)—Many food purchasers today were summoned to appear before a magistrate tomorrow as police laid a blue law test at the door of the delicatessen shop. The sale of certain foods, police said, is prohibited on Sunday.

Two uniformed officers stationed out side of a shop in the residential part of the city questioned each person who emerged with a bundle.

The first to be questioned was a man who had bought a small sack of flour and a tin of peaches. He was asked to appear in court. The next customer was a woman, and the officers ruled by purchasing a tin of potato chips and a bottle of orange juice she had broken the law.

Inside the store the owners, seeing a test case was being made, tried to learn what they could sell. At no time did the officers interfere with the purchasing of goods, but took the name and address of all whom they believed had obtained forbidden goods.

GOOD FELLOWS OF LATVIA FILL YULE STOCKINGS

Tribune's Plan Adopted by Riga Daily.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Dec. 21.—The largest Latvian newspaper, Janunakas Sinas, reports a wide response to its Good Fellow movement, which was inaugurated this year. Mentioning THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE as the originator of the Good Fellow idea, the Janunakas Sinas is furnishing names and addresses of needy families to Riga Good Fellows. Letters addressed to Santa Claus, known here as Zeemasvetku Virinsch [Christmas Man], formerly destroyed by the postoffice, are being turned over to the Janunakas Sinas for distribution among the charitably inclined.

The paper is devoting a page a day to the Good Fellow movement, publishing pictures of groups of children living in cold cellars under the headline "Who will be their Christmas Man?" John Benjamin, editor, heard of THE TRIBUNE'S Good Fellow plan a year ago and declares that he has resolved to make it a yearly feature. He expresses the hope that editors of other Latvian and Baltic dailies will assist in spreading the movement.

Pray For Believers in Russia.

Today is known as Golden Sunday before Christmas to enable out of town persons to make purchases.

Commenting on the success of the Good Fellow movement, Riga pastors announce that the Christmas spirit is more devoutly felt in the states bordering on Russia because of the atheist soviet government across the border. Special prayers are being offered for believers in Russia, not only in the Christian churches, but also in the synagogues for eastern European Jews. Once the most orthodox of their race, they have also adopted the observance of Christmas and many Jewish families put up Christmas trees.

The Moscow Press is publishing articles daily boasting that it will soon be unnecessary to hold annual anti-Christmas campaigns since with the accomplishment of the government's present plans all churches, synagogues and mosques will be closed within the next three years. They add that through the persecution of religious leaders bolshevism will exterminate Russia's various creeds.

Fight Christmas Story.

According to the Moscow Pravda, official government organ, the commissariat of education's art department has distributed its entire personnel among the Russian cities to make profane posters and effigies of Christ and others to fight the Christmas story.

All actors have also been drafted to present atheist plays and sketches before the workers' meetings. All theaters and even circuses have been mobilized to participate in the campaign against the Christ legend.

PINNED UNDER BURNING CAR; DIES.

Poinsettia Featured

The annual midwinter flower show at Lincoln park opened yesterday with poinsettia, known as "the Christmas flower," as the chief theme of the exhibit. Other flowers shown were old fashioned wall flowers and begonia, tulips, narcissi, hyacinths, and a multitude of other blooms. The conservatory will be open to the public daily, including Sundays and holidays.

AN INSIDE STORY FOR OUTSIDERS ON U. S. CONGRESS

Preconceived Ideas Don't Work Out.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21.—[Special.]—When Jim Watson and Will Wood, both good Hoosiers, walk up the capitol steps together, Wood has to stand aside and let Watson go through the door first. That's the law of precedence of a senator over a representative.

But when they separate and go off to their respective assemblies, it is Watson that has to do the waiting. True, he is majority leader of the senate, but he can't spend one cent of government money, can't raise one penny of revenue, until Wood, who is chairman of the house appropriations committee, has loosened up the purse strings.

Prestige or pocket-book. Many of the academic discussions about the differences between the upper and lower houses of congress may be boiled down to just that.

Senate Has Social Rating.

A United States senator finds lodging, automatically, in the social register. But a member of the house of representatives [and less than a dozen of the 435 members are in the little blue book] can control the money of the nation, and can impeach its President.

There are other differences, too. The constitution says that a senator must be at least 30 years old, while 25 in the minimum age for the house. But no matter what the birth certificate shows, the public regards the senator as inevitably older than the representative. So the gallery guests forget that Bob La Follette, the senate baby, is only 35, and think of him as much more elderly than his Wisconsin confrere, William Allen Cooper, who, at the ripe old age of 80, is the least youthful member of the house.

The popular profile of a senator is that of an aging, pompous gentleman, with iron gray hair, who wears a cutaway and turns out sonorous syllables that everybody listens to.

Few Frock Coats Displayed.

As a matter of fact, the only senator who always wears a frock coat is Alabama's "Tahm" Heflin. Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, the minority leader, often appears in one; Hiram Bingham was very dressy in one the afternon he delivered a speech in memory of Bolivar; and Copeland of New York likes to set off his red carnation with a morning coat. But that's about all.

As for the sonorous syllables on which their associates hang, that's another fallacy. Senator Smoot's voice is so weak that he can't be heard five feet away. George of Georgia is difficult to understand; so is Furnifold Simmons, the "little giant" from North Carolina. And when Carter Glass, the Virginian, gets up to make a fiery speech, the senate stenographer rushes over to the nearest seat in an effort to catch the words.

Audience Not Attentive.

Nor do they always speak to packed houses. The voluntary audience up in the gallery gives them better attention than their own colleagues who have been paid to come to Washington and listen and legislate.

For instance, the other afternoon, when a senator was making a speech, this was going on around him: Dave Reed of Pennsylvania was busy signing letters and Tom Walsh was busy writing them. Bronson Cutting of New Mexico was reading a popular weekly and Duncan Fletcher of Florida was studying a pile of pamphlets. At least ten of the other fifteen left in the chamber were holding conversational "coxies" here and there. And one senator, who shall be nameless, was cutting his fingernails.

Nor is the real flesh and blood representative always identical with the blueprint of him that the history book presents. The blueprint shows him a youngish man, with a lock of black hair that tumbles into his eyes as he jumps to his feet and makes an impassioned, impetuous speech. The nearest resemblance to this fictitious gentleman in the present house is Robert Green, a flowery Floridan.

House Stingy Toward Talkers.

He loves to talk, on Florida climate, or farm relief, or navy appropriations. It is harder to get a chance to talk in the house than it is in the senate, where, in spite of all the objections Charlie Dawes raised, there is still unlimited debate. In the house, words are truly measured, and sometimes the chairman of a bill will parcel out little half minutes to the various speakers.

But there is a way around that; and that is the speech without words, or the extended remarks, not delivered on the floor, but printed in the Congressional Record. The printing costs about $50 a page, but the government pays the bill.

In the heat of controversy, as in the recent fight between the two branches of the congress over the drought bill, the upper and lower houses seem to hate each other with as much enthusiasm as the Democrats and Republicans sometimes hate each other.

NEGRO, 6 TIMES IN DEATH CELL, HELD AS THIEF

Arrested for theft, Samuel Washington, 34 years old, a Negro, 3721 South La Salle street, yesterday told Chief of Detectives John Norton that he had six times been the occupant of the death cell in the county jail. He was seized by the police while acting as helper on a truck with 165 bags of sugar stolen from a firm at 4446 South State street.

In 1925 Washington was convicted of the murder of Minnie Moore and sentenced by Judge Harry Miller to be hanged Dec. 28 of that year. He was granted a reprieve until Feb. 19, 1926, anad others on April 23, May 7, and June 7. The Supreme court finally extended the reprieve to Jan. 12, 1927. He was finally sentenced to die Feb. 10. Gov. Small commuted the sentence to life imprisonment. After a year in Joliet penitentiary he was paroled, Washington said.

"How did you feel the six times you were in the death cell?" he was asked.

"I sure appreciated those six chicken dinners," he said.

OFFERS A CLEW TO BOMBING OF FURNITURE MART

Information furnishing a possible clew to the bombing on Dec. 8 of the Furniture Mart, 666 Lake Shore drive, has been offered in an anonymous letter now in the hands of investigators. This was learned last night. The note, which inquires about a reward, says in part:

"How much would you be willing to pay for information which may give you a clew to the bombing case? I do not like to write anonymous letters, but I must in this case."

Alexander Jamie, of the undercover investigating committee of the Association of Commerce, would like to communicate with the writer, he said last night. He authorized the following personal notice in THE TRIBUNE: "Anonymous. Will pay reasonable compensation for your information."

The Furniture Mart, one of the largest display room and office buildings in the world, was jarred by the bomb blast late on the night of Dec. 8. The explosion damaged the Huron street entrance.

FIND CHINA HAD FAIR TRADE YEAR, EXPECTS BIG 1931

Finance Minister Doubts Wisdom of Dumping.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Dec. 21.—Minister of Finance T. V. Soong in his end of the year statement on China's financial situation announced today that China's economic and political situation did not compare unfavorably with conditions in other parts of the world. He said this was particularly true in comparison with South America and large sections of Europe where political revolutions and economic disorders had produced industrial dislocation and considerable unemployment.

"Apart from the depression in silver," said Mr. Soong, "which is really a world-wide problem, China faces in 1931 a better domestic and international position than at any other time since the first revolution in 1911. China's problems, which are largely domestic, will ultimately be solved, as the Chinese people are not likely to cause international complications. which is more than can be said regarding other parts of the world whose problems are causing international concern and threaten world peace."

Nanking's Strength Growing.

In reference to the position of the national government the minister of finance was of the opinion that Nanking is gradually gaining the confidence of the Chinese public. He said that the forthcoming national assembly, scheduled to meet next May, may be expected to cause further improvement, as the assembly will be the initiation of a constitutional government.

Referring to the foreign trade situation Mr. Soong said that China had been subject to vast dumping of foreign merchandise, the result of a desire on the part of foreign merchants to import their goods prior to the enforcement of the new higher tariff. He expressed doubt as to whether this policy would pay in the long run, as it was causing a further depression in silver, which now averages four Chinese dollars to the American dollar.

Attacks Russian Smuggling.

The minister of finance charged the Soviet Russians with being responsible for the vast smuggling of merchandise from north of the Manchurian border, where many European products were appearing on the market without customs duty having been paid. But that condition, he said, the government was making plans to combat.

Italy Launches Cruiser; Speeds 42 Miles an Hour

GENOA, Italy, Dec. 21.—(AP)—The cruiser Bartolomeo Colleoni, last of the 5,000 ton so-called Condottieri class, was launched today at the Sestri shipyards. The cruiser is a sister ship of the Alberto Guissano and Alberico Barbaiano. She is credited with a speed of 42 miles an hour, which is claimed as a record for her class.

PRISONERS BEG FOR CRUEL BREAD AND WATER DIET

Finns See Path to Speedier Freedom.

BY B. VON ALFTHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Dec. 21.—The puzzling problem of Finland's overcrowded prisons, due to prohibition, has suddenly found a solution as bewildering as it was unexpected.

Without aiming at a result so welcome to dry law advocates, a measure recently proposed by the government and accepted by parliament seems to have increased five times over the capacity of Finland's jail houses. This has been accomplished without a single penny having been spent on extra construction, and further, at an actual saving.

The solution came about through desperate need for stricter punishment as a means of curbing increasing lawlessness. It was proposed that a long since discarded method of punishment be resorted to—the bread and water diet.

Appearance of this measure raised a howl throughout the land. It was attacked as barbarous and inhuman, and as a return to medieval cruelty. But the bill weathered the storm, and became effective on Dec. 1 under a compromise clause that each day on bread and water should equal five days on full prison diet.

Then came the surprise. A huge majority of the prisoners, in the cases of some prisons all of them, immediately filed petitions to be subject to the new "horror." The chances of working off a month's stretch, say, in six days was too attractive, particularly to the bootleggers who want to get out to make more "easy money."

What was meant to be a stern disciplinary measure in fact turned out to be, as a joker expressed it, "a measure for rationalizing the prison business by speeding up its turnover five-fold."

THE AMERICAN DOCTRINE OF LOVING GIFTS.

The relief legislation at Washington includes an item of $45,000,000 for a loan to regions needing money for seed, feed, fertilizer, and fuel. The amount has been a subject of controversy, but it is agreed that public calamity, chiefly the drought in these regions, makes necessary this extension of public aid, just as contrary conditions producing a surplus of wheat have required public buying of 65,000,000 bushels through Mr. Legge's agency. The calamity can be too much or too little. In these and other transactions the federal government is making itself ostensibly a creditor in emergency. In one fashion or another it is making loans, so termed.

There is considerable euphemism engaged in the descriptions of the transactions. The bodies of citizenship are so considerable numerically and politically that they may be regarded as more powerful than the creditor. The government making the loans is the creation of the debtors receiving it, not, of course, wholly their creation, but they must be considered as potentially a balance of power. The loans can be the same in kind as the loving gifts, the benevolences, which the English kings levied in lieu of the taxes they were unable to command from parliaments. In this case the sovereign is the people, the democratic source of authority to whom any creditor government is likely to listen in times of political need.

Mr. Legge uses the most disarming candor in his treatment of the farm board disbursements in grain and grapes. He doesn't know what the government will get back out of the $500,000,000 which the farm board is expected to have used by July of next year. For any of the relief schemes any method of recovery which would bear heavily on the masses of citizens concerned may be dismissed as politically impractical. The government as a creditor cannot call on the sheriff. If the sheriff took over the job the debtors would discharge the government.

One of the early experiences of the federal government was in disposing of public lands on the installment plan. In many instances the down payment was the first and last, and the remaining debt, with a sort of rough justice, was wished off. It was at least rough justice, because in many instances the pioneer was doing enough in payment for his land when he converted it for production as a part of the nation's wealth.

Jackson was a debtors' President, and he made it painful going for any kind of honest money. The south may have hoped that Tilden would be a debtors' President. Unquestionably Bryan was to have been one, but the creditors managed to win that argument. If government investment of public money in individual relief gets wide enough spread the next few years may see another campaign largely concerned with the debtors' point of view, with a candidate liberally committed to some sort of cancellation of indebtedness.

Governments, of course, have played on the other side of this fence. The republic ruined most of its first creditors by depreciation of its currency and the European nations took that short cut, at the expense of their peoples, to get rid of their internal debt.

Whatever the consequences, the democracy now prefers to avoid the idea of gifts in these national relief movements and to use the word loans. Something may be recoverable, but considerable waste must be involved in the operation. Conceivably if the government can do anything well (leaving that general argument out of it for the present) it could do better in collective buying and distributing of necessities in needful regions than the individuals will do in their separate efforts. Then there would be no theory of a temporary advance of funds involved. The cost would be ascertained and put on the books. The transaction would be wholly in the open. It would be a downright gift of public money to citizens who had been the victims of a general misfortune known to be beyond their control. It is probably inadmissible in theory that there should be any such emergencies on a large scale. Relief by loans is an economic bolus which can be swallowed without too much straining and with a minimum of recognition by either debtor or creditor of what it may prove to be in the end.

THE WAR GOES ON.

The failure of the jury in the Jack Guzik case to convict is disappointing, but not a serious incident in the war against gangsters. It is a skirmish lost, but a skirmish is not a campaign and does not mean defeat. The prosecution showed gratifying thoroughness and energy, but decisive facts in cases of this character are difficult to obtain. The main thing is to keep going. The underworld is under a pressure it has never felt before, the prosecuting agencies and judiciary cooperating with a new persistence and efficiency. The intelligent public appreciates this and the effect upon the morale of the gangsters is already considerable. The escape of Jack Guzik will not slow down the campaign, which is gaining steadily in force and effectiveness.

While Jack Guzik goes free Danny Stanton and his chauffeur go to Wisconsin, where a highly efficient administration of the criminal law will try them for the murder of Jack Zuta. The extradition of Stanton is a skirmish won, and there will be many more. There is good reason to be encouraged by the general course of the campaign.

REVOLUTIONARY FAILURE IN SPAIN.

Revolutions starting as the latest Spanish one did must almost inexorably finish as it did. They succeed when government military force is either weak or disaffected and when popular feeling is not only strong but when it has taken form under competent leadership. An uprising relying upon spontaneity and a contagion of sympathies is usually fantastic hope thrown to a high wind. It is very probable that the greater part of Spanish soldiery is in sympathy with at least the conservative Spanish revolutionaries. The average conscript comes from the people and his military service is not calculated to endear a government to him. He is, however, taken into the most manageable element of the country.

Discipline, military punishments, inertia, submission to familiar will, summary military justice and all the habits of service destroy the individual initiative. It is comparatively easy to prevent the communication of ideas from one unit to another. The higher officers in any aristocratic system are removed from popular sentiments.

If the military force is small a determined people well organized may overthrow it, but to trust to a spontaneous response from a considerable army is placing reliance upon private sentiments which cannot respond. The American revolution had as its main strength at the favorable moment a large body of armed men. As soldiers they had a great deal to learn, but they were in military organization and in their organizations they were competent to follow up the first overt act in force. It was not a riot of townspeople and farmers which menaced the British army in Boston. It was a military siege.

If the incident called the Boston massacre, five years earlier, had been allowed by the patriot leaders to get out of hand the two regiments then in Boston probably would have suppressed the uprising and have given an entirely different aspect to the optimistic revolutionary sentiment. The revolt against Charles I. found neither parliament nor crown with armies, but the London trained bands, bad as they were, were sufficient to make the king's tenure of the city impossible, and his first act was to get to Oxford. It is a speculation that if the Bourbon kings of France had continued the habit of the Valois in making the seat of government more and more in the region of Tours in the Loire valley the revolution would not have had the progress it did. The army would have been available and the monarchy would not have been in the hands of the Paris mobs with the disaffected national guard.

The Spanish enthusiasts were betrayed by their own wishes and their confidence in pervading charm of their cause and in the real desire of the masses, soldiers included, to support conservative republican reforms. Russia had a discontented army. Germany had an abandoned one. The Spanish army was held in the habits of discipline and obedience. Later this outburst of December may be regarded as one of the hot headed absurdities which taught the revolutionaries how much preparation is required to move inertia safety to a national accomplishment.

AIR MAIL FOR THE NORTHWEST.

Efforts to establish an air mail service across the northern tier of states from St. Paul to Seattle seemed about to be successful until the budget bureau cut a million dollars from the postoffice bill. The postoffice asserted it hadn't sufficient funds to start service and the senate restored the appropriation as originally asked by the postoffice department. This would give $750,000 for the new route. The house will have to concur and should give careful consideration. It is true, of course, that flying conditions on the proposed route will be very unfavorable in many respects, but it is unquestionably desirable that the northwest shall have air mail facilities as soon as they can be provided without inordinate risks and expenditure and with satisfactory regularity. Without pretending to an opinion on such technical considerations, we and all friends of postal efficiency will hope that no snap judgment be taken against the proposed route, but that the appeal of the northwestern states be considered sympathetically and granted unless there are clear and preponderant reasons against prompt action.

Editorial of the Day

[Grand Rapids Press.]

About the silliest business in which Uncle Sam is now engaged is that of spending many thousands of dollars apiece upon the training of air service officers for whom either no commissions are available or the future prospects of advancement are so slight that they resign rather than accept a career without a future.

The United States air corps rules of organization say that a major shall command each of the fifty-three squadrons, but only five are so commanded. A few are headed by captains, many by first lieutenants and some by second lieutenants, the very lowest commissioned grade. Each second lieutenant "major" is responsible for the lives and training of eighteen fellow officers, the conduct of one hundred twenty-nine enlisted men and the care of more than a half million dollars' worth of planes and other government property.

That's the picture painted of our demoralized air service by F. Trubee Davison, assistant secretary of war. It means that men with a single shoulder bar and the small pay of second lieutenant are doing the work of majors. It means that 400 men who served in our air forces in the world war are still first lieutenants twelve years later. It means that no commissions have been created for 200 men trained at heavy expense as officer pilots and that many of these men are due to be lost by resignation after the government has wasted thousands upon thousands of dollars in training them for officer jobs. It means that splendid officers are leaving the service in disgust at the lack of promotion opportunities.

As Mr. Davison puts it, "whenever an air corps officer resigns a valuable investment is placed in the red ink column—and stays there." Congress alone can clear up this costly injustice to men who risk their lives in peace time oftener than many of our soldiers risked theirs in the world war. If the air corps is worth maintaining in our scheme of national defense a decent scheme of advancement in rank should be provided.

COLD FEET TROUBLES.

NO group of sufferers have had more trouble finding relief, nor less satisfaction in what they have found, than those who suffer from such vasomotor disturbances as cold feet and chilblains. It seems probable that at last the medical profession has something for them, at least for those who have chilblains.

In the latter part of the world war Dr. Littlewood inaugurated a treatment of chilblain. It consists, as it is now used, in local treatments with warm paraffin and radiation with ultraviolet.

Dr. F. H. Humphries uses the paraffin bath as follows: Ordinary paraffin wax, sterilized by heat and by chemicals, is melted in a bath and heated to somewhere between 120 and 130. The feet and lower legs, or hands and lower arms, or all are held in this hot paraffin for 20 minutes each day. The members are then removed from the bath and allowed to cool. The paraffin peels off with no difficulty. A course of treatment consists of about eighteen such baths. As a rule, the itching and other disagreeable sensations disappear after the second treatment. If there are chilblain blisters or raw surfaces left by blisters or ulcers in the wake of such, these are treated by exposure to ultraviolet. The exposure is long and severe enough to bring on a reddening of the second or third degree.

The advantage of a hot paraffin bath over a hot water bath is that the skin will stand 120 degrees while in paraffin whereas hot water with a temperature of 110 is unbearable.

This treatment is both a preventive and a cure, it is claimed. It cures the blisters, sores, and discolorations, it relieves the itching and burning, and it increases the tolerance for exposure to cold and moisture.

The same treatment is being tried in Raynaud's disease and intermittent claudication, relatives of chilblains, and also in neuritis, rheumatism, gout, fibrositis, sprains, cramps, some forms of so-called eczema, and some forms of phlebitis.

HAVE AN EXAMINATION.

O. M. writes: Is it natural for a woman who is to have a child to gain in weight by leaps and bounds? The baby will not arrive until next April, and I have already gained more than twelve pounds. Within the last two weeks I have gained fully eight pounds. Is that the natural course of events or is my diet wrong? I do not want to do anything that might hurt the child.

REPLY.

Material gain in weight should be investigated. It may be related to puerperal convulsions, a group of troubles that threaten both mother and child. Have your physician investigate your blood pressure and your kidneys, and change your diet.

FIND UNDERLYING CAUSE.

Mrs. S. M. S. writes: Even in coldest weather my night clothes and pillow are drenched, and great beads of sweat are over face, neck, and body. This seems to be worse at night than during day. My socks are always dripping wet from perspiration. My health is good. What can be done to correct these sweat baths?

REPLY.

Profuse sweating of itself does no particular harm. But back of it must lie some condition which calls for attention. Has the possibility of diabetes been investigated?

If there is an underlying cause in your case find it. Otherwise, let 'er go.

NO DANGER TO OTHERS.

M. B. writes: I have a son with tuberculosis of the lungs. He has been negative for about two months.

1. After he is sent home is there any danger of younger children getting it?
2. Is it possible for his brothers to get it by wearing his clothes?

REPLY.

1. No.

REFUND DEPENDS UPON CONTRACT.

Chicago, Dec. 13.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Can a telephone company refuse to return a deposit of $15 put up for service which was to be returned with 6 per cent interest after one year? I have service and have never failed to pay, but upon calling for the deposit was told that the company would not return it because at one time a small balance due was not given to the collector at the time the box was opened. This balance was paid within the time limit. A. E.

Your rights depend upon the wording of the agreement under which the deposit was made. On the facts stated it seems probable you are entitled to a refund.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

POLICEMAN WAITING LIST.

Chicago, Dec. 19.—[Friend of the People.]—Would like to receive some information relative to getting an application for police force of Chicago. I have been to the civil service commission several times, but they always say that they have about a thousand names on the reserve list. Chief of Police Alcock has asked for an additional 3,500 men and we all know that there will be lots of men put on before the World's Fair. Would appreciate any information you can give me on this subject. R. H.

At this writing no examination is scheduled for the position of patrolman and until such examination is called applications will not be given out. We have, however, placed the name of Ralph Hamilton, 8213 South Calumet avenue, on our mailing list for notification of the next examination called.

At this writing we have an eligible list of approximately 600 persons.

J. S. OSBORNE,
Civil Service Commission.

JOINT BANK ACCOUNTS.

Chicago, Dec. 13.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. In case of a joint bank account, when one member dies does the money pass to the other holder? A bequest was made of other properties, but no mention of the money in the joint account was made. 2. Mother and daughter both signed the bank book and the bank is holding cards signed by both. Does your decision hold for Indiana, too? W. E. B.

1. Yes.
2. The mere fact that both signed does not prove that the account is joint. We suggest that you take up your question with the officials of the bank.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

DEAR MISTER CLAUS—

We take our pen in hand to indite these few words to you before you hitch up the reindeers and head this way with a sleigh load of presents. We admire you very much, Mr. Claus; you seem to be the only one that hasn't lost his shirt this year on the stock market. How in the world did you do it? You need not be so particular about the presents this year, Mr. Claus, as you usually are. We have just got to the point where even a kind word on Christmas morning with a glass of cold water or an icicle would cause us to burst into scalding tears. Never mind the grand pianos and the club limousines and the diamond bracelets; some other Christmas, yes; but this time, Mr. Claus, we have dropped our dreams of yesteryear about two chickens in the pot and an auto for every member of the family. There have been Christmases, Mr. Claus, where if you left anything short of a house and lot or a steam yacht in our stocking we would throw them right out through the window; but now, Mr. Claus, we are changed. Changed, and a bit bewildered, Mr. Claus. For, do you know, Mr. Claus, we have discovered gifts aren't so much after all, Mr. Claus. But mere trinkets, Mr. Claus, mere baubles we used to think them, Mr. Claus—such as say Sympathy, Understanding, Kindness, Hope, and Steadfastness, and a silly little trifle called Love. Those are the gifts, Mr. Claus, we have come to value more than anything else. So if you will just scatter them freely on Christmas eve we will ask for nothing more.

Most Sincerely—And Very Truly Yours.

TO BE HUMMED— NOT TOO LIGHTLY.

Oh, shepherd lads are picturesque,
But they're a noisy lot.
And wise men, with their precious gifts,
Glitter too much, God wot.

Oh, oxen lend a needed warmth,
When Christmas nights are cold,
But they have eyes that stare and scare
Babes that are two hours old.

Oh, swaddling clothes are sad attire
For gods or for mankind.
And hay is quite too prickly for Comfort or peace of mind.

Oh, halos are ostentatious things
That I cannot abide.
It's hardly to be wondered at
That little Jesus cried.

NEWS FROM MISSISSIPPI will amaze the Britishers; Gov. Bilbo received reporters while sitting in a tub of hot water, soap in one hand, a wash rag in the other, and smoking a cigar. "What, what!" the British will exclaim. "A tub! So they do have their tubs over there! Most 'straordinary! My word! Then they ARE civilized over there, after all! What, what!"

WHEN A THING GETS TO BE A HABIT—TCK, TCK, TCK!

When Dorothy Sebastian married Bill Boyd, after a Hollywood romance, last Saturday, the bride broke down at the altar and wept copiously. "It's just a habit," she sobbed, to the newspaper men. It is only a habit, of course, but so many of the cinema queens have it that they should try to break themselves of it. Like all habits, this thing of weeping at one's wedding grows stronger and stronger until it seems almost impossible to shake off. But perseverance and a strong determination will do it. Let a movie queen practice saying, "I am happy, see me smile," fifty or a hundred times, before she goes in to be married. She will find after awhile that she will be so happy that she will simply roar with mirth when she says, "I do." Of course, a habit is hard to break, and even after a movie queen has smiled through three or more wedding ceremonies her foot may slip and she may sob piteously at the next. But, after she resolutely resolves to throw off this pernicious habit, there's hardly a doubt that she will smile bravely every time she gets married.

IN GERMANY at this gladsome time they have in every home plenty of pfannkuchen, punsch, and carp. Pfannkuchen is just a doughnut without the hole, but red wine jelly instead; the punsch is a hot drink made from red wine all spiced up, and the carp is cooked in white wine; and there's beer all over the place. Hoch! Who won the war!

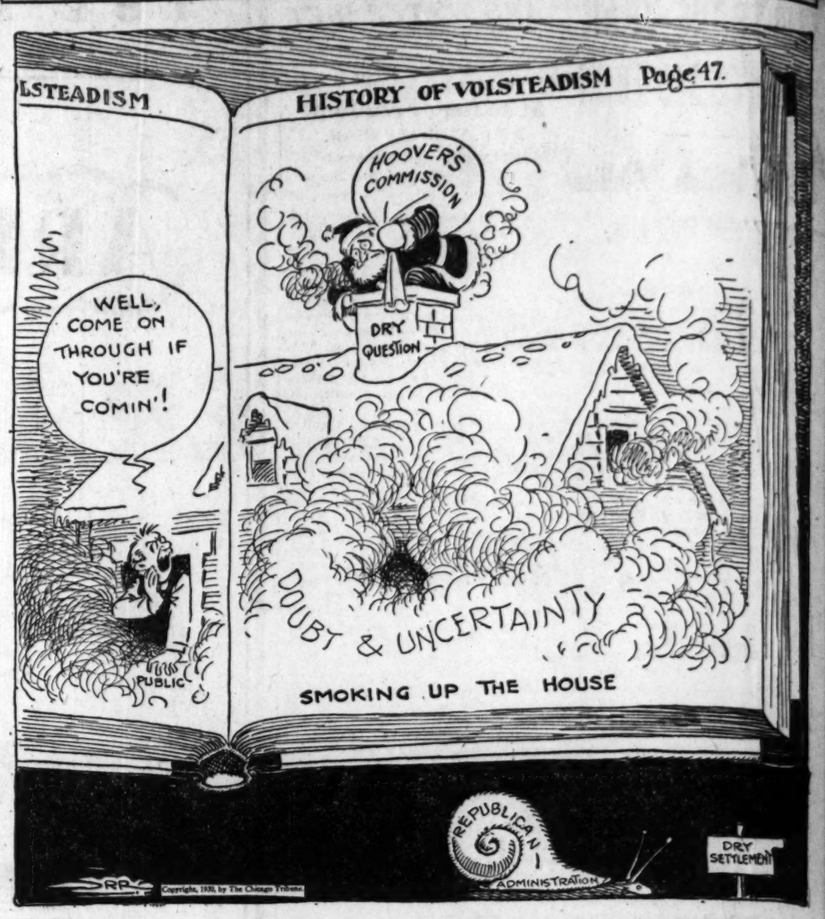
PROHIBITION



FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 22, 1914.

LONDON.—The German emperor, accompanied by the imperial chancellor, Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, the ministers of war and marine, and a numerous suite, has gone to the western front, according to advices from Copenhagen.

LONDON.—The British squadron last night violently bombared Zeebrugge, where the Germans are attempting to make repairs and establish a naval base. The ships also bombarded Heyst. A special correspondent of the Amsterdam Tyd telegraphs from Sluis that the Germans have evacuated Middlekerke, Wetende, and Westroobeke and adds that these towns have been visited by French and British patrols. The correspondent says that the success of the allies northeast of Ypres, following the occupation of Bixschoote, Langemarch, Passchendaele, and Morslede, is most important of recent events. Official statements given out in Paris and Berlin were conflicting in their reports on the fighting in the Belgian fields.

LONDON. — A Dunkirk dispatch says that allies' aviators paid a visit to Brussels and dropped bombs on the Zeppelin sheds, which were set afire.

WASHINGTON.—Harry K. Thaw lost his fight in the Supreme court of the United States against being extradited from New Hampshire to New York. It was held that the slayer of Stanford White should be turned over at once to the New York authorities to answer an indictment charging a conspiracy to escape from Matteawan Asylum for the Criminal Insane.

CHICAGO.—Andrew Jackson White, former alderman and pioneer liveryman, is dead at the age of 97. He brought to Chicago the first cab of the well known "deep sea going" variety ever used in the city.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 22, 1900.

LONDON.—The British government is at last seriously alarmed over the military situation in South Africa. The invasion of Cape Colony by the Boers in formidable force has apparently started the long threatened Dutch revolt. Private advices indicate that virtually all districts of Cape Colony, in the vicinity of the Orange river, are in more or less open revolt. More troops will be sent from England and the colonies at once.

PARIS.—Gen. Andre, minister of war, has inflicted on Maj. Cuignet 60 days' imprisonment in the fort for disclosing secrets in the Dreyfus case, which he obtained while attached to the secret intelligence of the war department.

BOSTON, Mass.—Former Gov. Roger Wolcott died here at the age of 53 from typhoid fever with which he was stricken soon after an extended trip abroad.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 22, 1880.

NEW YORK.—More than 250 gentlemen sat down at the tables spread by Delmonico in the Brooklyn Academy of Music on the occasion of the first annual dinner and festival of the New England society of Brooklyn. B. D. Silliman presided and among the notables present were: President Hayes, Gen. Grant, Gen. Sherman, Secretary of State William M. Evarts, Gen. Slocum, the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, Edward Everett Hale, President Porter of Yale college, Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, Chauncey M. Depew, Corporal Tanner, and S. B. Chittenden.

OREGON, Ill.—The Rev. Dr. Hooper Crews, one of the oldest Methodists in the country, who for fifty years devoted his time and energies to work in the Rock river conference and in the vicinity of Chicago, died here at the age of 73.

LONDON. — The Times editorially says: "Besides a dragging war in Basutoland to which the colonial government may have at any moment to confess itself unequal we are now confronted with the danger of organized disaffection among the Boers. It is probable, however, that the appearance of British troops at Heidelberg will be followed by the disperson of the Boers to their homes."

LONDON.—An additional number of large farms have been infected with the foot and mouth disease and the celebrated Hereford herd has been attacked by the disease.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, The Tribune.

IN DEFENSE OF THE TEACHERS.

Chicago, Dec. 17.—Several articles have recently appeared in the Voice of the People criticizing the teachers, accusing them of [1] taking free lunches which belong to the children; [2] possessing ungovernable tempers, and [3] lacking in attractive appearance.

In reply to the first, let me state that the teachers not only pay for their own lunches but in many cases provide lunches for children whose parents are unable to make such provision. At Marshall High school the teachers, by their own voluntary donations, provide $2 a week for each student whose parents are unable to provide the necessary carfare and lunch money. Many teachers at the same school contributed as much as $10 to the Children's Aid society, which provides clothing for needy school children, while many others are furnishing educations for dependent nieces and nephews. In many grade schools milk is given to undernourished children by contributions from the teachers. In fact, I know of no group, not excepting the minister and social service worker, so charitably inclined as the teachers.

The second is quite unjust. It may be that occasionally, when worn out by the questions of numerous students, a teacher gives a sharp reply. Is there any parent who does not at times become impatient with children? Considering the fact that the average high school teacher each day deals with 175 children of varying degrees of intelligence, of wide differences in disposition and home training, I marvel that the teachers possess that poise and self-control characteristic of the profession.

In regard to appearance, I regret to say that we do not all conform to the type of beauty represented by our movie heroines. However, what we lack in physical beauty we try to replace with beauty of character, which, though not as striking as the former, is less fleeting.

FRANCES HUNTER FERRELL,
Teacher, Marshall High School.

A LACK OF PAJAMAS.

Chicago, Dec. 16.—I visited a store today where I buy regularly, maintaining a charge account, to buy some pullover pajamas. I wear size "B," which is the average size for men. Believe it or not, the salesman had just exactly three pairs of pullover pajamas in my size to show me. These three pairs were in plain colors, and I'll venture to say that 99 per cent of the pajamas sold are in some design or pattern.

I'm not in the business of selling pajamas or anything else to the retailer, so that I have no ulterior motive for writing this letter. The point is that we can't "buy now" if there is nothing to "buy now." The loss of my sale is probably only one of many more like it. So let's all "buy now," including the merchants, and then prosperity will return again. H. J. GROSSFELD.

AMEN.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—Here's wishing our efficient police force, our reliable fire department, and our patient and long suffering school teachers a Merry Christmas, and a Glad New Year. May "taxpayer," "parent," "irate citizen," etc., lay off these fine citizens during the holidays, or until January bills fall due, and they must rant at some one.

TAXPAYING FRIEND.

APRON AND MEGAPHONE.

Chicago, Dec. 19.—Can some of your readers suggest a suitable Christmas present for a hubby who likes to mess around the kitchen and give continual advice on the housework? A WIFE.

STRAW VOTES.

Chicago, Dec. 15.—I was interested in your front page story this morning [Monday, Dec. 15] concerning the recent vote of the National Economy league on the wet and dry issue. As you properly point out, this organization contains 5,500 of the country's most prominent men. You evidently cited this vote, which was 55 per cent wet, as evidence of a prevailing wet public opinion in the country.

It is interesting to notice that this same organization on Nov. 1, 1930, voted on the following question: "Should the United States adhere to the protocol of the Permanent Court of International Justice on the terms of the Root formula for embodying the senate reservations?" Of 1,985 votes cast, 1,881, or 94 per cent, were "Yes." Of the 135 votes cast from Illinois, 110 were "Yes."

As further evidence of the state of public opinion on the world court issue, it is worth recalling that the house of representatives urged early adherence to the protocol by a vote of 301 to 28 on March 3, 1925, and the senate approved the protocol with reservations by a vote of 76 to 17 on Jan. 27, 1926. Furthermore, American adherence to the protocol has been strongly indorsed by the Republican platform and by every President and secretary of state since 1923.

QUINCY WRIGHT,

CONCERNING TAXI DANCERS.

Chicago, Dec. 17.—I read the letter from the taxi dancer. She says "taxi dancers do not go out on wild parties with any man who asks them." No, I'll say they don't, but if they suspect that you have any of the coveted tickets still in your possession they will not hesitate to promise you any number of dates, which they never intend to keep, give you a phoney telephone number and what not to string you along until your money is gone, and then they are on their way to the next sucker. If you give the little girl all your tickets at the start, as many of the boys do, and leave it to her to give you the dances you are entitled to, then you are indeed a trusting soul, but I am afraid experience in these places will shake your faith in human integrity.

And are the taxi dance girls adequately paid? I will leave it to you to say. I helped a girl count her tickets one night and she had made exactly $18 and the dance was not yet over for at least a half hour. They frequently make $12 and more. RUDY.

WORK FOR THE JOBLESS.

Chicago, Dec. 17.—Here's a suggestion for some of the big burly fellows out of work that might be worth consideration. Numerous automobiles are parked throughout the loop daytime and evening in far from a clean condition. The idea would be to have a bucket of water or some dust cloths and, with or without asking permission, clean cars.

I am fully confident that no driver would pay less than 25 cents for such service and a great many would pay more, because there is a value received for the money and a fine will to work spirit displayed. EDWARD ERNSTEIN.

RADIO DUPLICATIONS.

Chicago, Dec. 14.—Six radio stations brought the charity game between the Army and Navy to our homes, when one or two could have done the job. Today not one carried the game between the Ex Notre Dame Stars an the New York Giants. RED O'REIEN.

"Let's Make This A Good OLD-FASHIONED CHRISTMAS"

NEW YORK PORT TO SPEED WORK OF IMPROVEMENT

"Astor Row" Will Give Way to Progress.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 21.—[Special.]—Astor row is coming down to make way for the third largest building in the world. Good red brick and fine rich mahogany will feel the wreckers' hammer in a score of historic old mansions where the bigwigs used to live. Then there is another wrecking job at either end of the new Hudson river bridge and there is demolition as well as grading and paving to be done on the shores of the Kill von Kull, where another steel span links Staten island and New Jersey.

Tearing down and building up—that is the way the port of New York authority is meeting the unemployment situation. Thousands of workers are and will be employed on its three vast projects—the Hudson river bridge, the Kill von Kull span, and the $16,000,000 universal inland freight station.

Provides Jobs for Idle.

Announcement was made today that the contract for the razing of buildings over an area of 164,800 square feet between Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets on the west side had been let and that the space must be clear within sixty days, which means work for an army of 500 wreckers. The paving and grading work to begin next month on the two bridges will give employment to more than 1,000 men in addition to the 1,000 already at work on the Hudson span and the small army now swarming over the Kill von Kull bridge.

A legion of skilled workmen will be called to erect the fifteen story inland freight terminal when work begins as soon as the site is cleared.

Completion in 18 Months.

Like the other port authority projects, construction will be speeded up to give employment to as many men as possible. The program calls for completion of the great building within 18 months and that means that at least 1,500 men must be at work every day.

The dimensions of the huge freight terminal are exceeded only by the Merchandise Mart of Chicago and the army base building in Brooklyn. New York's biggest business mart will rise above the exact spot where Manhattan's social life grew up. It was in Astor row that the lawyers, judges, and members of the leading families of the era before the civil war lived.

The freight station that is to dwarf all of Manhattan's structures will be known as Terminal No. 1, for there are to be others. Terminal No. 1 represents the latest developments in the speedy handling of all classes of freight. It is planned to operate very much like a postoffice.

Eliminate Delays.

Innumerable delays and a vast amount of truck traffic are expected to be eliminated. The trucks of the railroads and business interests will enter into arcaded spaces on the sides of the terminal, and packages will be classified according to destination on the sorting floors above.

The design shows a structure of graceful beauty despite its enormous size and there is nothing about it that even faintly resembles the ordinary design of freight stations or warehouses.

U. S. JOB INSURANCE PROGRAM IS BACKED BY SENATOR WAGNER

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21.—(AP)—Unemployment insurance was proposed tonight by Senator R. F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.], as the next step in his program for dealing with the problem of the jobless.

Wagner announced he would introduce, as soon as congress convenes after the holidays, a resolution calling for a study of the private and public unemployment insurance systems here and abroad and a bill proposing federal and state coöperation in the maintenance of such a system.

The study would be made by a joint committee of the senate and house with a view to determining the manner in which they are operated, their costs, the results achieved, the relief afforded, and the condition of each system with reference to the economic drepression.

Wagner is author of the measures now pending before congress to provide a long range program for preventing unemployment and to provide adequate statistics to deal with the problem.

Greek Parliament Puts O. K. on Pacts with Turkey

ATHENS, Dec. 21.—(AP)—The chamber early today ratified the Greco-Turkish commercial and political treaties.

BOUND IN HOME AND ROBBED OF SOCIETY'S FUNDS

Andrew Polich, 5552 North Harding avenue, treasurer of the German Beneficial union, local No. 572, was robbed of $1,399 by bandits who forced their way into his home early yesterday. Polich was returning from a dance when the robbers seized him at the doorway, thrust him inside and tied him up.

One robber took $250 from Polich's pocket and found the remaining money in a desk in which Polich kept funds belonging to the society.

Saturday night was one of the busiest for robbers during the year. In the 24 hours ending at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, fifty-one robberies were committed, most of them between 6 p. m. and midnight.

U. S. Asks Poland to Aid in Passport Investigation

WARSAW, Dec. 21.—(AP)—The American consulate has asked the Polish emigration office to investigate the authenticity of fifty marriage certificates signed by rabbis and presented by Jewish men who said they wanted to join their wives who already have emigrated to the United States. The Polish authorities announced that hereafter only rabbi certificates bearing civil stamps would be recognized for passports.

ALABAMA BANK BANDIT CONFESSES.

Tuscaloosa, Ala., Dec. 21.—(AP)—J. M. McClung, state law enforcement officer, today said Herman Silas, alias Harry Sherman, 22, had confessed to the robbery of the Bank of Berry at Berry, Ala. Silas is in jail here.

MOB FOILED IN EFFORTS TO GET AT NEGRO RAPIST

Sheriff, Police and State Troops Arrive.

St. Joseph, Mo., Dec. 21.—(AP)—Efforts of a mob to storm the Buchanan county jail early today and get Raymond Gunn, Negro trapper, charged with the murder of Miss Velma Colter, 19 year old school teacher, were foiled by sheriff's deputies, city police, and a National Guard tank company.

Approximately 150 men, said to have gathered from Maryville, Mo., home of the teacher, and other Missouri towns, appeared at the jail here shortly after midnight. Sheriff John Roach talked to the mob leaders through a heavily barred door and told them he would protect his prisoner in every way possible.

All deputy sheriffs immediately were called for duty. They were not molested upon arriving at the prison and entered the jail. City police also responded to the alarm, as did the St. Joseph tank company of the Missouri National Guard.

The guardsmen placed a tank equipped with a machine gun at the jail entrance.

Slowly the mob, reinforced by spectators from St. Joseph, was driven away from the jail. After about three hours police guard lines circled the building, keeping all unauthorized persons a block distant.

Members of the mob met on a street corner two blocks away, and it was said they decided to go to Plattsburg.

It was understood late today that Gunn, 30 year old ex-convict, still was in the county jail here. He served a term in the Missouri penitentiary for assaulting a co-ed in the Missouri State Teachers' college at Maryville. Miss Colter, whose mutilated body was found Tuesday night in the rural schoolhouse where she was the single teacher, also attended the college.

Girl, 2, Upsets Basin of Hot Water and Dies of Scalds

Two year old Betty Jane Florsch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Florsch, 832 Junior terrace, died last night of a scalding suffered on Saturday night while she and her parents were visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hahn, 1311 Pratt boulevard. Unobserved, the child toddled into the bathroom and upset over herself a basin of hot water, the police were told.

A CHICAGO GIRL TRIES "SUICIDE" WITH GREEN PILL

New York, Dec. 21.—[Special.]—Esther Handel, 23, said to be the daughter of William Handel, a real estate man of 105 North Clark street, Chicago, was taken to the psychopathic ward in Bellevue hospital for examination tonight after a friend in her apartment telephoned the police, saying she had just attempted suicide by swallowing two green pills. It was discovered afterwards the pills were laxatives.

According to the police, the young woman had expected to be married tomorrow to Jimmy Love, an orchestra leader of Woodside, L. I., but after she and Love had quarreled and she attempted to stab him with a knife he left the house and sent a friend of his there to find out what was wrong. The friend, Angelo Raimondi, said when he reached the house Miss Handel told him she was going to commit suicide, and, seizing two pills, swallowed them before he could stop her. He telephoned for an ambulance and the police.

Open 5,000 Mile Telephone Line to Link Up Australia

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SYDNEY, Australia, Dec. 21.—A new telephone service was opened today connecting Western Australia with the eastern provinces. The new link will enable calls to be transmitted from Cloncurry in Queensland to Geraldton, a point in the northwestern division of Western Australia, a distance of over 5,000 miles. This is believed to be the longest physical channel of telephone communication within a single country in the world. The radio telephone service, connecting Australia with other countries, is working excellently.

Robbers Tape Lips of Two in Coach Office; Get $1,500

Two men late last night held up the office of the Colonial Atlantic-Pacific Stages, 232 West Madison street, and escaped with $1,500 taken from the safe. George Wagner, 19 East Ohio street, ticket agent, and Philip Miner, 2100 Burling street, a driver, were the victims. The robbers bound both of them with wire and sealed their lips with tape. Wagner released himself after a half hour and notified the Central police.

125,000 EMPLOYED AID JOBLESS BY PAY CUTTING PLAN

More than 125,000 employés of Chicago business concerns, from board chairman to office boys, are contributing on the pay deduction plan to the $5,000,000 emergency relief fund campaign being conducted by the governor's unemployment commission, Philip R. Clarke, chairman of the campaign, announced yesterday.

"The splendid co-operation between employer and employé," said Mr. Clarke yesterday, "is reflected in the fine results obtained from concerns adopting the pay deduction, dollar for dollar matching method recommended by the campaign committee. It does not require much stretching of the imagination to see what would happen if the other 500,000 or 600,000 regularly employed persons in Chicago's industrial and professional circles joined the 125,000 who are operating under the plan.

"We must have the support of everybody earning money—not just a minority of salaried and wage earning men and women. This week should witness a great flow of the Christmas spirit directed to the relief of those whose Christmas is not going to be bright or happy."

Labor Federation Demands Des Plaines River Cleaning

The Chicago Federation of Labor adopted resolutions yesterday calling on the legislature to arrange for cleaning the Des Plaines river. This would provide work for unemployed union men and would also beautify the Des Plaines scenery, the resolutions declare, and suggestions were made that sanitary plants and sewers be provided.

Jealous Husband Stabs Visitor in Home to Death

Returning to his home last night, John Kubula, 32 years old, a carpenter, 2604 Iowa street, found Kazemer Strumburski, 23 years old, 1064 Milwaukee avenue, sitting in the kitchen with Vincent Lasko, the Kubula's roomer. Apparently jealous, though his wife was not in the room, Kubula seized Strumburski, dragged him into the alley, and stabbed him to death. He then fled. Lasko told the police that Strumburski had never before been in the house and that he had come to visit him for the evening.

LOANS ON THE INSTALLMENT PLAN

Open an account with Household for a loan of $100 to $300*

This new loan plan, introduced by Household to serve husbands and wives in temporary need of ready cash, makes available loans of $100 to $300 on a regular installment account basis.

In the same way that you go to your store for the goods you need and ask them to charge it, you now ask us for the cash you need—and we charge it to your account.

Here's the basis on which you borrow under this Plan: You get the full amount of money you ask for—$100 to $300. We give you as long as a year and eight months to repay. If you wish, however, you may make larger and more frequent payments than we require, or pay up your entire balance at any time. Charge will be made only for the actual number of days you keep the money. And the cost, if you borrow under Household's lower rate, is nearly one-third less than the lawful maximum.

The Household Plan requires no outside signers or endorsers—neither do we make inquiries about you through your friends, relatives or employer. So do not hesitate to visit, write or phone our nearest office if you want to open an account for loans. Or, a representative will call at your home if more convenient.

★ As a special service, Household makes loans of $50 to $100 at a rate slightly higher than the rate on loans of $100 to $300.

SYNOPSIS.

Richard Chandos and his wife, Leonie, former grand duchess of Reichtenburg, are visited at their estate near Littai, in Austria, by George Hanbury, companion of Chandos in many adventures. Marya Salm, countess of Dresden, an expected guest, wires that she can not come.

Prince Paul, ruler of Reichtenburg, had hoped to marry Leonie and was incensed at her marriage to Chandos. Fearing for Marya's safety, because of her friendship for Leonie, Chandos and Hanbury, with their servants, Bell and Rowley, depart for Vigil, capitol city of Reichtenburg, where Marya resides. Because of the enmity of the prince they must cross the country in stealth. A peasant, named Ramon, whom they befriend, leads them over the border by a secret path.

They reach the home of Marya unseen, and learn from her that she sent no message. believing the telegram was a ruse to lure them to Vigil, they are preparing to flee with Marya, when the prince appears. The men hold the prince and his servants at point of gun and escape in the royal car. The border is so closely guarded that crossing is impossible.

Their friend, Ramon, agrees to hide Marya and Carol, her trusted servant, in his house. Chandos and Hanbury join a traveling circus. Marya sends them a message saying she is waiting for them in Bariche, across the border, where Carol is to take them in a car he has waiting. They recognize the car as Grieg's, the chief of police. Arrived at the inn in Bariche they receive another message from Marya, stating that she is to be pardoned, but must remain in Reichtenburg and not communicate with them.

Fearing that Marya, endeavoring to save them, has made some impossible arrangement with Grieg, they return to the border. Hanbury and Rowley pass, but Chandos is arrested. He proves to the inspector that Grieg has betrayed his trust. Grieg, who has learned of the arrest, arrives. He orders two detectives from Vigil back to prepare a cell for Chandos and takes his prisoner alone in his car. Hanbury and Rowley, knowing their friend's plight, post themselves along the road and hold up and capture the chief's car. They drive to the estate of Baron Sabre, where they find Marya. Grieg they left, tied to a post along the roadside.

Marya tells them that she cannot leave with them, as she was married that morning to Grieg—her price for their freedom. Hanbury, who is in love with Marya, is stunned at the news. Chandos sets out to find Grieg, and kill him, to free Marya. Grieg has been freed from his bonds and while Chandos is searching for him he lays Rowley out and drives off to Baron Sabre's. Chandos and Rowley return to the Sabre estate and while riding on the grounds they see a car drive up and three policemen alight. Shortly after another car arrives.

INSTALLMENT XXV.

INSOLENT SCORN.

Prince Paul had been shown my statement and had come in all his fury to settle with Grieg.

It was now more important than ever that we should not lose a moment in giving effect to my plan. I, therefore, touched Rowley's shoulder and, using the greatest caution, began to move back through our cover in order to come to Grieg's car.

So for some fifty paces, and then we were brought up short.

I could not see the prince but I could hear him speaking, though not what he said. A door of the car was open, and two men I had never seen were standing close beside it, looking towards the house. One I had little doubt was the chief of police. By the side of the chauffeur sat an officer.

My first idea was to withdraw, with a view to crossing the ride at its farther end; then I saw that to fetch such a compass would take us full twenty minutes if we were to move with care. So we lay in the undergrowth, peering through a lattice of brambles and straining our ears.

I cannot say how long we waited before we could hear what was said, but the prince was impatient as ever and kept up a fire of what I took to be grumbling, for those about him said nothing, but only shifted and frowned and continued to stare down the road. They could, of course, see nothing except a slice of the house, but that, I think, was because the very odor of peril offended their master's nose.

At last he flung out of the car and on to the turf.

The others' eyes changed to a glare.

"— the fools," he spouted. "Four of them to collar one rogue, and they can't bring it off. They're funking it, Weber. They're afraid."

The chief of police summoned a crooked smile.

"Sir," said he. "He may not be there, for one thing. Or if he is there, they may have found him abed."

"Rot," said the prince. "He's there all right, and they know it. But they'll come back and swear he isn't, because of the value they set on their dirty skins. Suppose they'd been placed as I was the other day. Alone in a high walled garden, with three men trying to kill me—and I without a stick in my hands. I admit I went up a tree, but that was because I couldn't get into the house. I laid two of them out; and the third ran like a rabbit—to get behind a shutter and shoot me as I came to the steps. And then I had to watch my chauffeurs give away the game I had won. Dirty, white livered skunks."

Weber made no reply. I fancy he knew his man.

"Here they come, sir," said Weber's companion.

The prince stood his ground.

"Have they got him?" he said.

"Yes, sir."

"Is he handcuffed?"

"Yes, sir."

The prince suddenly started forward.

"I'll get back in the car," he said. "No, I won't. Candel, get down and one and stand by my side. Have your revolver ready, and if he moves a muscle shoot him down."

To this day I do not know how Grieg came to be caught. Having no one to share his vigilance, he had, I imagine, taken some petty risk. Had he heard a tap, for example, the noise of the running water might well have covered the sound of the on coming car. And he had the look of a man surprised at his toilet, for he wore no coat or collar, and the sleeves of his shirt were rolled back.

His face was like a grim mask, and his lip was curling a little, as though in insolent scorn.

He made no sort of reverence, but took his stand firmly and looked the prince up and down.

The latter's eyes narrowed.

"You're a pretty blackguard, aren't you?" he said.

"No doubt your royal highness knows best. You always do."

"You insolent swine," cried the prince. "This is what I get for taking you back. I exercised the prerogative of mercy——"

"Why?" said Grieg.

"Because it was my pleasure," said the prince, with a lift of his chin.

"Because," said Grieg deliberately, "you believed me the only man that could lay these scum by the heels."

"Don't dare to answer me back. I decided to give you a chance, and you've used it to let me down. You're a filthy traitor, Grieg. You always were. But you've cut your throat this time, and, by God, I'm going to put you where you belong."

Grieg shrugged his shoulders.

"Put not your trust in princes,'" he said.

The monarch put his hands on his hips and wagged his unpleasant head.

"Nothing doing this time," he sneered. "How much did they pay you, Judas?"

"We are not upon those terms," said Grieg shortly.

"I see," said the prince softly. "Well, I'm sorry to say they've split. They've given you away with both hands. The price isn't mentioned, but how d'you explain how they know the inside of your car?"

Again Grieg shrugged his shoulders.

"I can only attribute that to their use of their eyes."

"The inside, Grieg. Not the outside."

"Same answer," said Grieg insolently.

The other's eyes changed to a glare.

"Are you trying to bluff?" he demanded. "Because if you are——"

"I am not in the habit," snapped Grieg, "of wasting my time. You've made up your mind I'm a traitor—'a filthy traitor' I think were the royal words. As is your way, you've therefore had me arrested out of hand. No doubt you will deal with me as you think I deserve."

"By God, I will," said the prince.

"And with the English swine you commanded me to capture—by hook or by crook."

The prince's eyes burned in his head.

"Not to succor, you hound. To capture, Grieg, to capture," he raved. "To capture, Grieg, to capture," he raved. "Not to succor, you hound. Put to put out of the country—out of my reach. Did they have a good meal at Bariche? Don't you think they laughed as they went by the guards at the frontier? Don't you think she's laughing at Littai? Hooting with laughter to find that I've been befooled? And where's Chandos? You had him last night alone, with cuffs on his wrists. Where is he now? He was in your charge, and I demand him. You gave a receipt for his body. You signed the book. He was safe under lock and key, and you used the power I gave you to take him out. Perhaps you lent him your car to go to Littai——"

Grieg threw back his head and laughed.

"Listen," he said. "You suddenly restore me to favor and give me orders which I promise to execute. Before my work is over, without a word of explanation I am put under arrest. That by the very men of whom half an hour ago I was in command." He flung out his manacled wrists. "How the devil can I produce Chandos or any one else? More. Why the devil should I produce them in the face of treatment like this? Why should I answer your questions? Why open my mouth? I signed the receipt for his body. You've canceled that receipt by having me put in irons. You gave me, but you have taken away. That is the prerogative of princes. I have been, somewhat brusquely, relieved of my authority. You will no doubt replace me by some one whom you can trust. It does not amuse me to teach my successor to gather the fruit of my work."

There was an uneasy silence.

Good morning!

Another underworld thriller, that fails to be as thrilling as have been some other underworld thrillers, is over at the Woods.

The "Czar of Broadway" is a king bee of vice, who lives, lays down the law, and loves after his fashion until his egotism casts a fatal film over his shrewd, all-seeing eyes and the machine gun of a rival speaks its piece.

John Wray, director of "Nightstick," and portrayer of crook rôles on the stage, is a good actor, but none too convincing in the title rôle of this film. The same may be said of Betty Compson as his singing sweetie who entertains in the czar's night club and falls for a kid reporter who comes to get the goods on the bad man. John Harron as a reporter may BE like a reporter, only I just don't think so—and I have known reporters in my time.

The film is larded with the usual sounds, situations and punches that go to make up a gangster melodrama. You can take or leave "The Czar of Broadway" without being noticeably affected in any way.

See you tomorrow.

Penn State College Has Contest for School Editors

State College, Pa., Dec. 21.—[Special.]—Three hundred and seventy-five editors of high school newspapers and magazines have been invited to enter the fourth high school publications contest conducted by the Pennsylvania State college chapter of Pi Delta Epsilon, national journalistic fraternity, through the engineering extension department of the college.

MRS. HOOVER TO PICK ONE OF TWO PAINTINGS OF PRESIDENT TODAY

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 21.—(AP)—Two portraits of President Hoover, painted by a noted artist engaged by the Union league of Philadelphia, will be shown to Mrs. Hoover tomorrow so that she may select the one she prefers.

One portrait will be presented to the President by the league and the other will be hung in the halls of the league's home here.

A committee of the league which engaged Pilides Costa, Greek artist, to make the portraits, viewed the canvases in New York recently, but was unable to decide which it preferred so decided to let Mrs. Hoover choose.

Costa began work on the portraits last August, setting up his easel in the executive mansion. The paintings show the President attired in blue coat and white flannel trousers seated in a chair with a paper in his hand.

British Scientist Will Seek Human Race's Cradle in Africa

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 21.—(AP)—Dr. Arthur Torrence of London, a fellow of the Royal society of Great Britain, has announced plans for an expedition in February to Africa in which he said he hoped to determine the origin of the human race.

"We will try to reach a people of dual sex we believe live near Lake Chad," he said. "My interest first was aroused when I encountered some of these peculiar people in Nigeria in 1924.

"I tried at that time to reach Lake Chad, but was forced to turn back when advance members of my party were killed by a fierce tribe of desert nomads. I was halted again in 1926 by desert storms.

"It is my belief that the original human being was a person of dual sex. The influence of climate, the necessity of making a living and the need of looking after children, to my point of view, caused the division of the first human beings into two sexes. We hope to prove the long existence of these peoples by unearthing skeletons."

NewYorkers Plan Whoopee Greeting for New Year

New York, Dec. 21.—(AP)—New Year's eve, the whoopee holiday of Broadway, still is ten days away, but most of the choice tables are gone. Managers of the more exclusive night clubs said tonight the outlook was for an even brighter celebration this year than last. Many of them, however, have cut prices. Those that haven't have made additions to their entertainment for the evening.

West Parks and Churches Ready for Christmas

While Food Will Be Given to the Poor.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Gay with lights and colored decorations, huge Christmas trees will blaze forth tonight in the west park system as the commissioners greeting to the west side populace and in preparation for two programs tomorrow. One of the observances will be held at 3 o'clock for the children, and another at 7:30 tomorrow evening, for the parents. Each child registered at any of the parks will be given a ticket to the program, on presentation of which each boy or girl will receive a Christmas present.

President W. R. James of the west park board and other commissioners will attend the evening gatherings to tell the adults the benefits they may receive from the west park system. Shedd and Union parks will be visited by the president. T. W. Bunte, J. J. Cullen, Eden T. Brekke, John Garner, P. E. Gilbert and J. A. Pelka, members of the board, will go to the others. The trees in each instance will remain lighted up throughout the holidays.

Bishop George Craig Stewart of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago will preach Christmas morning at the Cathedral Shelter, Washington and Peoria streets, as one feature of the holiday services being arranged for that denomination. The services at the shelter will begin with a choral mass at 7 o'clock in the morning, and Bishop Stewart will be heard at the 10:30 service.

Early Christmas morning the Roman Catholic observances will begin with series of masses in practically every church in the city. At Holy Name cathedral, Cardinal Mundelein will pontificate at the solemn high mass at 11 o'cock, and an elaborate, special program of music will be given.

In all parts of the city yesterday and today the rush to get Christmas baskets filled for poor and deserving families was going ahead under the auspices of religious, fraternal, political and social organizations, each of whom will help to alleviate some of the poverty that has been more stringent than ever during the year just closing.

Hundreds of the baskets of dinners and toys are to be sent out today and tomorrow. Others will be taken to their destinations closer to the holiday itself. It is estimated that the grand total of such baskets distributed this year will exceed by hundreds any record made in previous years.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

SOME ten years ago, when "The Tavern" was having its great vogue among the would-be sophisticates, I was the fellow—the one and only, the unique specimen—who didn't like it, and the word was passed around, in a hushed and sympathetic sort of way, that I wasn't very bright. Last night I went to the Blackstone to see "The Tavern" in revival, with Mr. Cohan himself, instigator of the original hoax, as its star—went in a mellow and anticipatory mood, saying to myself:

"Well, we have lived and learned since the days when 'The Tavern' was rated as hot stuff for chronic humorists; we have rubbed elbows with gifted wisecrackers, and studied the art of the nifty comeback, and been a faithful reader of 'Life,' 'Judge' and 'The New Yorker.' By this time, no doubt, we have acquired a few faint traces of the sense of humor, and will be able to enjoy this famous play in the manner to which it is accustomed. We may not have laughed first, but at least we will be able to laugh last. —To 'The Tavern,' driver, and swiftly, for this is our night to howl."

But I was unable to realize this ambition. "The Tavern" of last night was to me "The Tavern" of ten years ago, only more so. The old play, in which I had hoped to find proof that I had ripened and grown during the educational processes of the past decade, let me down again. So far as its burlesque antics are concerned, I still remain not very bright. I cannot "get" "The Tavern"—or perhaps I should say, "The Tavern" cannot "take" me.

This disappointment might have been a serious shock to me. If I had found that all the brighter boys around me at this première were perishing with glee over "The Tavern," and were getting plenty of exercise for that "civilized" sense of humor about which I hear them bragging, I would have been seriously annoyed with myself. I might even have been tempted to consult a psycho-analyst. But my minority of one seemed to have increased with the years. I didn't poll the house, but my instinct for audience response told me that I had become a member of the majority. The first nighters in convention assembled would have been happy to run Mr. Cohan for President, but "The Tavern" traveled far behind his ticket.

The play is a freak, of course, and as such is worth adding to your collection of play-going memories. It is, as every one who follows theatrical gossip knows, a burlesque of the high-flown romantic melodramas that used to flourish before the turn of the century. It was written in full sincerity, they say, by an amateur author, and adapted by Mr. Cohan into a wild-eyed specimen of mock heroics.

Mr. Cohan was cradled in the theater, and no doubt saw many "Taverns" in his youth; hence he finds keen enjoyment in ridiculing them. But the subject of his mockery is fairly remote from the play-going experience of this generation; and that, I should say, is the reason why "The Tavern" seems to me to be a labored effort to ridicule something whose comic value has become almost extinct.

The performance of this revival is in terms of much broader burlesque than the original production. The story has been pulled apart with posturings and grimaces in an effort to emphasize its comic points; and it dawdles through its first act like a slow-motion picture. Even Joe Allen, re-creating his character of the dim-witted servant, does not succeed as of yore with his catch-line, "What's all the shooting for?" He has, like the play and most of us, grown older.

But at 10:10 or thereabouts "The Tavern" snaps out of its slow motion pace and becomes briskly farcical, with satisfactory results. Most of the last act [there are only two] is lively with incident, and the laughter that had been striven for from the start begins to break loose.

Mr. Cohan loves the rôle of the mysterious stranger, and plays it in a skillful serio-comic style. But after seeing him in it for the first time, I still prefer the more flamboyant and fantastic Lowell Sherman. George is a dean of acting now, and parts like this give only a glimpse of his real talent.

LAW SCHOOL GROUP THREATENS TO DROP U. OF MISSISSIPPI

Jackson, Miss., Dec. 21.—(AP)—Dr. Albert J. Harno of Urbana, Ill., secretary of the American Association of Law Schools, has written Chancellor J. N. Powers of the University of Mississippi, saying the executive committee of the association will recommend dropping of the university law school from its accredited list. Dr. Harno said the recommendation would be made at a general session of the association in Chicago Dec. 29. The executive committee's attitude toward the Ole Miss law school is based, he explained, on "the political situation existing in your state."

New York's Opera Conductor Presents Hearers' Golden Rules

New York, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Half a dozen "golden rules" for operagoers were enunciated today by Artur Bodansky, observing his thirtieth anniversary as a conductor and his fiftieth at the Metropolitan opera house. Bodansky was guest of honor at the annual public dinner of the Bohemians.

The "golden rules," which were spoken in ironic vein, were:

"No member of the audience shall be permitted to take his seat until after the performance has begun. All doors will be kept open to admit street noises, with the aim of so obliterating the overture that the musicians will be able to rest during this period.

"New subscribers are urged to make a thorough test of the clatter producing utilities of the opera chairs. (Old subscribers will not need this reminder.)

"Ladies may coöperate further by purchasing bags with a smart snap, preferably tuned in harmony with the orchestra.

"It shall be obligatory for every listener to buy a libretto—not to read, but to rustle.

"Those who are accustomed to late dinner or early supper are entreated not to change their habits on opera nights. Rather, the management has arranged to give every other performance in reverse—first act last, last act first—so that in the course of a season—it is hoped—every subscriber will have the opportunity of hearing at least one complete opera.

"From many quarters one hears the cry that opera is dead," Bodansky said. "I dispute this. It is said that we have no significant modern composers. That does not matter, for so long as Wagner's and Verdi's music is alive these masters are more important to us than if all the moderns were dead. I do not mean to deny the value of modern works; I do not mean that opera can live forever on its past."

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Field Reach New York Today

New York, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Marshall Field III, and his bride, the former Mrs. Dudley Coats of London, are due to arrive tomorrow. They were married in London on Aug. 18, two weeks after Mrs. Evelyn Field obtained a divorce in Reno. They spent their honeymoon in Africa hunting big game. They are expected to go to the 1,000 acre estate Mr. Field bought in Virginia shortly before his second marriage.

Holiday Cheer Planned for War Hospital

Wards Are Decorated at the Hines Memorial.

In the small paned windows hang cedar wreaths intertwined with red berries and tied with red ribbon. In the halls and library are spruce trees and festoons of arborvitae and holly. Each ward has its gayly trimmed tree.

Christmas at the Edward Hines Jr. hospital is a Christmas to remember for the veterans, as it is also for the Red Cross, which directs most of the yuletide activities, for the nurses in their white uniforms and for Col. Hugh Scott, chief of staff of the hospital. It's different from the Christmases they spent in the war torn areas.

"Where did I spend Christmas in 1917?" says Fred G. Kuehner, who served with the Second division overseas for 19 months. "It must have been on the boat. In '18, I don't remember. But wait a minue. We started on a hike through Belgium on Nov. 11 and we got to Germany Dec. 26. I guess then I must have been on the march."

'And why are in the hospital?" he was asked.

"Throat. The seventh operation. A week ago I couldn't talk. But it's getting stronger every day. My wife will be surprised when she and the children come out Christmas. I can talk better than I have in months. Dr. Scott has done wonders for me. He was always up with me, every time they operated."

Kuehner is helping the Red Cross get the Christmas cards ready to distribute. He wasn't asked to do it. But he wanted to help. That's the way with the men at Edward Hines hospital. It's their Christmas and they play a part—the stronger ones—in getting ready for it.

For Christmas at Edward Hines isn't just Christmas eve and Christmas day. It started somewhere around Dec. 13, and it will last until Dec. 26, according to the schedule which Miss Kathleen Gunckel, director of the Red Cross at the hospital, refers to constantly.

Rosy cheeked girls from the Proviso High school in Maywood, accompanied by boys from the same school, fifty all told, decorated small trees yesterday and distributed them through the hospital. The larger trees, provided by the sixth district of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs, were placed in the larger wards.

The Eastern Star of Illinois will provide a professional entertainment on Christmas eve. The order has decorated a huge Christmas tree in the recreation hall where the entertainment will be given.

Tomorrow evening the unit groups of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs will give a Christmas party, and will distribute candy and socks throughout the hospital. On Christmas afternoon all the veterans will have a chance to laugh when they see "Check and Double Check."

And gifts. They have come from all over. Gifts from the American Legion, the American Legion auxiliary, the Women's Relief corps, the Red Cross, the Junior Red Cross, the Salvation Army, the Medinah temple, the Woodrow Wilson chapter of the Disabled American Veterans, the Deborah club, other organizations and scores of individuals.

Beauty Expert Says Buy Medicine Ball and Pick a Target

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

In a health periodical I was reading an article the other day by Miss Minnie M. Martin, a Florida resident, I take it, advocating the medicine ball form of exercise for women.

It's a swell idea, all right, if you've got the ball and the back yard or neighborhood plot. You can buy the ball, however. But the place to toss it is what most of us are up against. Of course, we might join up with a gym where the practice would be feasible.

The idea that the Misters (Hoover and so on) of the world are the only ones that may take advantage of the excellent health-giving, reducing and circulation stirring movements employed is dissipated by the writer of the article. Girls are just as eligible in this muscle stretching racket as the boys.

It is suggested as a panacea for those of our sex who haven't golf courses to play upon nor the time to play were golf club doors open.

It is probable that a number of our women, however, will be among the lucky birds migrating southward shortly, if not on the way there already. These can keep the medicine ball idea in mind. It is a grand exerciser. If you aren't lucky enough to get south this year, but are still above the common horde with a back yard to your place of residence, buy yourself a medicine ball and hop to it.

You might drag father out if his tummy is rotundly out of the hard times picture. Set him up at the other end of the hall for target practice if he'll stand for your first kindergarten aims. Better, as Miss Martin suggests, get a four pound ball instead of a six pound one if you are a beginner. The ball isn't hollow, you know. It's solid and a handful.

And when you get to be a "fancy slinger" you probably can tell the girls about how you sliced off a few inches from waist and hips, molded down upper arm girth and under arm thickness.

Black Silk Cloky Is New Spring Favorite

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—The cold comfort wisecrack of sitting on your hands has become a thing of the past. This winter, everybody is wearing muffs. Fur or fabric muffs accompany costumes and neck pieces. Worth is showing little ermine tippets with little triangular muffs, completely supple, in his new collection.

Tailored girls may object to muffs on the ground that they are picturesque; others like a free hand, even if it is a cold one. For such, Schiaparelli has designed her muff cuff. You can see it on the small figure at the right of our drawing. The semi-fitted coat is of black broadcloth with a big collar of black broadtail. The sleeves are finished with narrow bands of broadtail and the broadtail muff can be worn as a cuff on the left arm or left off entirely.

The frock of this ensemble is one of Schiaparelli's runners. It's of black silk cloky, a fabric that is one of the favorites with the couturiers for spring wear. Its drop shoulder yoke and the little puffs replacing cuffs on the sleeves are of black, transparent, handknit net. The blouse buttons up in the back; the skirt is cut with slenderizing points, molding the figure almost to the knees, where it becomes circular.

President Hoover Attends Church Near Wilson Tomb

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21.—(AP)—President Hoover today sat beside the tomb of the man who brought him to Washington to occupy his first public office. Attending church services at the National cathedral the President, Mrs. Hoover, and Allan Hoover, sat to the left of the tomb of Woodrow Wilson, war time President, in Bethlehem chapel.

Manner, Not Dress, Is Lure to Romance, Doris Tells Girls

BY DORIS BLAKE.

In a recent report from Columbia university it was announced that the fifteen year and over girl of the family is the extravagant member thereof. In every economic group the statement holds true. The young girl's clothes allowance eats most heavily into the dress budget item. A constantly growing demand for luxury on the part of the young American girl is stressed in the report.

Now, if this is true, and there is no reason for doubting Prof. Paul H. Nystrom, noted economist, it strikes us that much of this expenditure on dress by the young girl is simply love's labor lost.

The money spent on dress by girls of the age under observation, it may be assumed, is spent because the girl is at or approaching the age when attracting boys becomes the important business of her life.

Of course, we cannot discount the economic pressure that influences young business women into putting a goodly share of their pay envelope into dress and the other items of purely personal decoration. Word has got about, and it is substantiated by cold fact, that decorativeness is a needed asset by women in our current business world. Indeed, what has been said of certain commodities may be said of business girl's jobs today, i. e., it is not the original training expense, but the upkeep that counts.

Whether this is sound economics or not will have to be left to a better student of economics than the writer. Perhaps it is. Keeping money in circulation, keeping up the girl's own morale and the decorative morale of the organization may all be good business. But the surplus money that goes for actual dress extravagance to lure the male on to capture is the questionable form of expenditure in my mind. And not from the standpoint of economics, but from that of conquest.

Women so terribly overrate the importance of dress in heart affairs. Up to a certain point, true, it may affect a girl's chances for better or worse. She must look up to date, she must look as smart as her sister husband-hunters, but she does not have to have a heavily stocked wardrobe. In fact, with her youth an asset she can get along on a fairly modest one. Men are rarely aware of any other fact about dress than that it conforms to the current mode and that it is a becoming color. The extravagant, flashily dressed girl is too conscious of self and dress, as a rule, to bring to romance's gathering places the subtler, surer appeals in woman.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Wait a Year.

"Dear Miss Blake: My girl is 27. I am 22. We love each other very much. Should I marry her? JACK."

I'd advise waiting another year or two before making your decision. You will be more settled then.

Time to Forget.

"Dear Miss Blake: My girl broke a date and went for a bus ride with some girls. Now she won't speak to me. Please advice. LOUIS."

I shouldn't think you'd want her to speak to you after that.

The marriage of Miss Grace Wilma Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Adams of 5944 South Marshfield avenue, to Russell L. Yarnell, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Yarnell of 8219 Laflin street, took place on Dec. 6 at the Drexel Park Presbyterian church.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Eleanor Louise Linnell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis M. Linnell of Oak Park, to Milton Wesley Swanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Swanson of Lake Forest.

The marriage of Miss Alice Ransom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ransom of 452 Aldine avenue, to Albert William Elliott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Elliott of East Orange, N. J., will take place at 4 o'clock this afternoon at St. Peter's Episcopal church.

FARM AND GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

WHY NEGLECT MAPLE SUGAR?

Modern farming methods need not neglect the old fashioned yet still popular farm-made maple sugar, in the opinion of Everett Martin, owner of a 412 acre homestead known as Wascowis, near Big Bend, Wis. For 91 years the maple sugar sap has been gathered each spring on this place, where the wood lot is still big enough to cover 150 acres.

J. H. Stickney settled there on land bought from the government and on which Martin Van Buren, as President of the United States, issued land patents in 1840. The farm originally owned by Mr. Stickney has never passed out of the family and no mark have been made on the original deed, as the farm is now in the hands of Mr. Martin, who is the late Mr. Stickney's son-in-law.

Thirty-one kinds of trees are growing in the woods, which have been cut only sufficiently to permit new growth to get started in the right way. In addition to the maples supplying the annual sugar harvest, there are red, white, swamp and pin oaks; chestnut; red and white elms; white, black and blue ash; hickory; butternut, and black walnut. The farm is probably unusual in one respect due to this wood lot. Mr. Martin says, in that there never has been a pound of coal burned on the place—all of the fuel supplies coming from the woods.

As a Holstein dairy farmer he is known as the oldest breeder in Waukesha county, the center of Wisconsin's dairying.

Rose Cottage in Virginia Is Cheerful Sight

BY THALIA

WITHOUT having seen the Ralph R. Richardsons' new-old house, Rose cottage, at Gaylord, Virginia, you can imagine that it is lovely. It was built for Mr. Richardson's grandfather, and stands on the estate that originally belonged to his great-grandfather. It has been modernized now, with all possible improvements to make it a comfortable dwelling, and the Richardsons plan to visit it as often as they can during the hunting season there.

The occasion of the moving in, planned especially so that it would take place on the thirtieth of November this year, because that date was exactly a hundred years after the first John Richardson first occupied it, was celebrated with a ceremonial sort of a party. The family was all there—Mr. Richardson's mother, Mrs. John Richardson, who lives in the big house on the estate; the Ralph Richardsons themselves, the Frederick Spencers (Bluford Richardson), and the baby, Miss Frances, and John, who is the fourth John to live in the house within a century, and besides, the neighbors from the countryside around were asked. Something happened to the new transformers installed for the lighting, but the affair was a success anyway, the defection merely serving to recall the contrast between the conveniences of 1830 and 1930.

Mrs. Richardson returned last week, and Miss Frances, who is developing into an exceptionally proficient horsewoman and wanted a few days' more hunting, gets here today. All of the horses have been transported from the Wheaton stables to the Virginia place, but they'll be brought back for the summer, as the Richardsons have no intention of deserting Wheaton. They may go to Rose cottage again in January, although it's gotten almost too cold now for riding.

Virgin Santa Claus Helps Advertise a Day at Home.

Has anybody told you . . . that Mr. Richard T. Foxes of Wheaton are going down to Phoenix, Ariz., early in January to visit Jarvis Hunt for a month, and that Mrs. Fox's sister, Mrs. Albert Smoot, is visiting them now . . . that Mrs. James A. Patten's daughter, Mrs. Agnes Patten Wilder, has been visiting her and returned a few days ago to Montecito . . . that if you don't acknowledge a Twelfth Night ball invitation you're not supposed ever to receive another one . . . that Mrs. Baur bought two of the Valentine Prax pictures now showing at the Arts club for her dining room [of course, they're of butterflies] and that her favorite and lucky number is 8 . . . that the South Shore County club has a new putting course in the men's golf locker rooms, and that they're to start some dancing and physical culture classes if enough of the members respond to the idea . . . that the Mr. Scudders of the Lake Shore drive hotel departed on Saturday for Oakland, Cal., to spend Christmas with their mothers, and later will be at Carmel-by-the-Sea for a few weeks . . . that Mrs. Irving Parsons' doctor told her she must go south after a siege of pneumonia, and that she now [she'll be in Havana for New Year's] . . . ?

Edna Howell's Supper Dance Prelude to Other Fetes.

The Red Lacquer room of the Palmer house was lavishly decorated for the supper dance that Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Howell of 2708 Lake View avenue gave there on Saturday night for their daughter, Miss Helen Howell. The walls of the foyer adjoining the ballroom were completely covered with mirror and the entrances were hung with roses. Hedges of smilax were used to separate the dance floor from the alcove where supper was served at large standards containing dozens of roses each were placed about the alcoves and the foyer.

Miss Howell wore the white chiffon gown with iridescent bead trimming with which she made her bow last spring at the Court of St. James's and her mother wore aquamarine green satin. Mrs. Howells gave a dinner for 40 guests before the dance at their residence.

Tonight the debutantes and hundreds of other young folks will dance into the wee small hours at the ball which the A. Watson Armours and the Walter R. Kirks are giving at the Racquet for their daughters, Miss Edna Armour and Miss Beatrice Kirk.

Earlier in the evening Mr. and Mrs. William George Maguire and Miss Clara Lake will be hosts at a dinner dance at the Palmer house for Miss Elizabeth and Miss Bernice Maguire, both of whom are home from Smith for the holidays, Miss Betty Offield, and Mrs. Henry Kent Chapin Jr.

Additional students returning for the holidays, not mentioned in the story on Saturday morning, include Miss Katharine Daniels, daughter of Mrs. Chauncey Blair, and Miss Jane Valentine, daughter of the Joseph L. Valentines, who go to Smith; Francise Clow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Clow Jr., from the Hacienda del Sol at Tucson, Ariz.; Fred MacFarlane, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. MacFarlane, and Bob Shotwell, who came from Westminster school at Simsbury, Conn., on Friday; Ralph Langstaff Jr., and George Roberts Jr. of Lake Forest, from the Hill school at Pottstown.

New York Opera Singer Will Aid Olivet Institute.

We are asked to announce that Olivet institute, the north side settlement house, will be the beneficiary of a concert by Gigli of the Metropolitan Opera on Sunday afternoon, Feb. 1, at the Opera house. Harold F. McCormick, who is one of the trustees, will give a tea to start things off in early January, and the committee in charge includes Evan Evans and Albert S. Gardner.

MISS BETTY WILLIAMSON.
[Rayhuff-Richter Photo.]

Dr. and Mrs. Charles Spencer Williamson of 1517 Dearborn parkway have announced the engagement of their daughter, Elizabeth Spencer, to John Bancroft Hammond, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Young Hammond of Norwalk, Conn. Miss Williamson, who is the third of last season's debutantes to become engaged, is a graduate of the Chicago Latin school and of St. Katherine's school in Davenport, Ia. She is a member of the Service club.

Last Minute Tips for the Parent Who Is Santa's Proxy

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

A booklet on sex education will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

One year a friend of mine had illness in her family, and I happened to meet her two days before Christmas.

"I'm beginning my Christmas shopping," she said. "Can you imagine it?"

There are always some people who get caught in a "jam" at Christmas time, for one reason or another, and who are glad of a hint when their shopping must be done with little thought and less time.

Perhaps you will find in the following suggestions for toys for children something that will help you at this eleventh hour:

Accessories of all kinds for electric train sets—and be sure you get the correct gauge.

There are several new gliders [airplanes] on the market this year which make fine flights. The less expensive with rubber band motors are usually those with uncovered fuselage. These make excellent flights.

Small trucks, derricks, etc., are being put out in excellent quality and at moderate prices this year.

Little girls love clothes for their dolls. Sweater suits for baby dolls are cunning, and bath robes and bed coverlets. And if you've never been a little girl you can't imagine the thrill a doll's trunk will bring.

Miniature housekeeping outfits of various kinds also, for the small child who is at the imitating mother stage.

Both boys and girls love things for their rooms. The gift may be furniture, a new lamp, a steamer rug for a boy, or a feminine looking quilt for a girl, or a little clock. There is furniture, too, for the very little child's room—gay little chairs and tables, dressers, etc.

And now, as there is just room for one more suggestion, I'll make it for the activity playthings, such as kiddie cars, scooters, scooterbikes, velocipedes, and skates, both ice and roller.

And last, but not least, books.

Studies Breakup of Stars as Clew to Power Within Atoms

Cleveland, O., Dec. 21.—(AP)—A searcher for the "center of centers" of the universe, a student of atomic powerhouses in the stars, and a weigher of the earth will be among the speakers at a gathering of 5,000 members of learned societies in convention here next week.

Forty-three of the societies are members of the American Association for Advancement of Science. Several economic and social groups outside the association also will meet.

The high spot in the convention is expected to be the address Monday of Dr. Robert A. Millikan, head of the California Institute of Technology, Nobel prize winner, and retiring president of the science association. He has expressed a belief that knowledge of the disintegration of distant stars might give a clew to a way to release the large storehouse of energy in atoms. His subject will be "Aatomic

New York Society

New York, Dec. 21.—[Special.]—James Speyer will have his annual Christmas Eve party on Wednesday night at his home, 1058 Fifth avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Weicker will give a dinner tomorrow night at 1115 Fifth avenue for Miss Florence Weicker, and after it their guests will go to the dances of the night.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Munson will give a reception on Tuesday afternoon for Miss Margaret Pynchon Mallory, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford D. Mallory.

CHICAGO PEOPLE'S SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA GIVES GOOD CONCERT

BY EDWARD MOORE.

The Chicago People's Symphony orchestra appeared for the first concert of its fifth season yesterday afternoon, having moved from its former abiding place at the Eighth Street theater to the Civic theater.

It has its distinctive place in the community, having a membership of about sixty, many of the players belonging to the younger set, and rehearsing and playing under the careful baton of F. Paulsen. Its capabilities are many, up to and including the Franck D minor symphony, and it is not in the least averse to presenting sprightly inventions of Chicago composers, such as the "Fantasticus Nos. 1 and 2," by Henry Francis Parks, which was on yesterday's program.

Two soloists assisted. They were Albert Kratochvil, pianist, in part of the Saint-Saëns G minor concerto, and Sol Nemkovsky, violinist, in the Vieuxtemps D minor concerto.

The Swedish Choral club gave its annual performance of "The Messiah" yesterday afternoon at Orchestra hall under the direction of Harry T. Carlson, the performance being under the auspices of the Swedish-American relief committee. "The Messiah" is so stabilized and standard an attraction of most choral societies that it is now almost impossible to hear a bad performance of it, and the Swedish Choral club in sturdiness of voice, careful training, and exactness of attack maintained all the ideals of the great work.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Hoover have been joined at the White House by their younger son, Allan. He came from Harvard to spend the holidays with them, making a merry little family house party. Mrs. Herbert Hoover Jr. is there, and will remain until late Christmas eve, when she will leave to join her husband in Asheville. The Hoover grandchildren, as well as Miss Janet Large, niece of Mrs. Hoover and Mrs. Stark McMullin of California, complete the little circle tonight.

The commercial attaché of the British embassy and Mrs. Leander McCormick-Goodhart, gave a musical tonight in their apartment at 1785 Massachusetts avenue.

Miss Nancy Campbell, daughter of the late Maj. and Mrs. Colin Campbell of England and California, arrived yesterday from her school in Aiken, S. C., to be the guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Leiter, for the holiday season.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S OR MISS' DRESS.

A tunic frock is a smart addition to any woman's wardrobe this season. Today's model is a wool crêpe in a red rust shade, and the white collar and sleeve trimming are of white wool lace. The hipline is especially slim appearing, on account of the curved seaming of the circular godets at either side of the tunic.

The pattern, 2834, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 4¼ yards of 39 inch material with ⅛ yard of 35 inch all-over lace, and 2 yards of 35 inch lining.

Carnegie Peace Group Cites Versailles Pact; Urges Nations Disarm

New York, Dec. 21.—(AP)—The trustees of the Carnegie endowment for international peace today made public a statement in which was urged the necessity of reduction of armaments throughout the world in accordance with the terms of the treaty of Versailles.

The statement was prepared by Elihu Root, former president of the endowment; Nicholas Murray Butler, president, and James Brown Scott, secretary.

It calls the attention of the public to provisions whereby the allies agreed to enter upon a scheme of armament reduction provided Germany accepted the terms of the treaty.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Woman Carries Heavy Burden.

"I am a young mother trying to rear a family of four. The girls are 10 and 5½; the boys are 8 and 3½. At present I am out of work and cannot give the children even necessities. They have had no fresh fruit or milk for weeks, and they all need clothing. Perhaps you can get them some warm things through your column.

"MRS. A. G."

Can you relieve this mother of some of her worry and burden by providing her children with warm clothing for the winter? Things your young sons and daughters have outgrown would do beautifully.

Food Talk.

Recently I did a lot of experimental work on marmalades made from oranges and grapefruit. The aim was to see if a grapefruit marmalade as delicious as the orange one we told you about last summer could be prepared. When a marmalade was made of grapefruit and lemon in the proportions used for orange marmalade I found the product would not jell perfectly and the flavor was not quite so delicious. The majority of the results indicated that equal quantities of grapefruit, orange, and lemon made the best product, one that is a fitting partner to tender, quivery golden orange marmalade.

The preparation is essentially the same. A sharp knife should be at hand. Select one rather large orange [should weigh 7 ounces], ½ medium grapefruit [7 ounces], and 2 medium sized lemons [7 ounces]. Wash and dry the fruit. Cut the orange and lemon lengthwise into sixths. Cut the grapefruit into eighths. Then cut the fruit crosswise into as thin slices as possible. The thinner the slices the greater the amount of pectin [the substance responsible for gelation] and the more transparent the bits of fruit. Place the fruit in a saucepan holding at least 4 quarts. Add 5 cups of water. You may cook the mixture immediately or allow it to stand over night.

When ready to cook the marmalade add the juice of 1 lemon [3 tablespoonfuls]. Put on the stove and boil gently for about 55 minutes. The fruit will become tender in this time. While the fruit is cooking measure out 6 cups of sugar, and wash 7 jelly glasses and place them on the stove in a pan of water to sterilize. Put 2 or 3 spoons on small saucers into the coldest part of the refrigerator. Later these spoons will be used for simple gelation test.

After the pulp has cooked remove from the stove and measure. You should have 5 cups of material. If not, add water to that amount.

Add the sugar and stir until it is completely dissolved. Return to the fire and bring to a boil. Boil fairly vigorously for about 20 minutes. Remove from the stove and test to see if the marmalade has cooked sufficiently. To do this half fill one of the spoons which have been in the refrigerator with marmalade. Replace in the refrigerator. After 5 minutes take a spatula or knife and turn over the portion of marmalade. If the under side has jelled, the marmalade is done and is ready to be poured into the sterilized glasses.

If the marmalade does not jell, heat to boiling and boil 2 minutes. Repeat the test until you get a satisfactory result. The temperature of the marmalade should be about 220 degrees Fahrenheit when the mixture is done.

Pour into sterile glasses. As soon as a film of jelly forms on the surface pour a thin layer of paraffin over it. After the marmalade has completely cooled add a thicker layer of paraffin, being sure to completely seal all around the edges.

Yield: 7 glasses marmalade.

GRAPEFRUIT SALAD.

Peel grapefruit and free the sections from all membrane and seeds. Cut sections in half, crosswise; lay on bed of lettuce leaves and serve with French dressing. Sprinkle with tarragon leaves or with mint, if desired.

Your Christmas Dinner
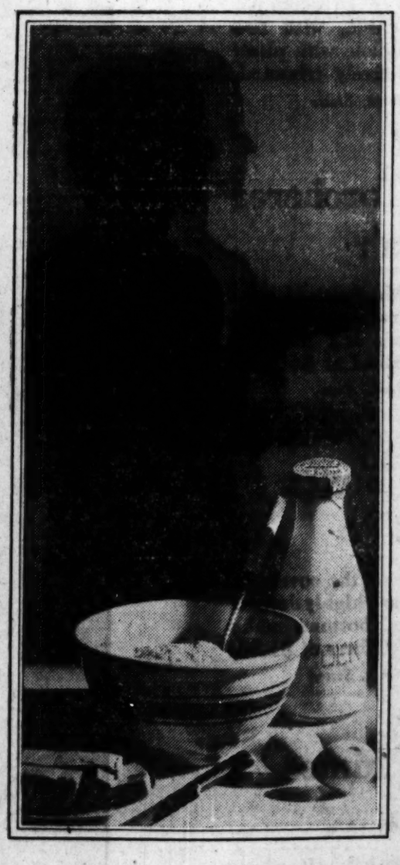
WILL TASTE BETTER . . and be better for all the family if you use plenty of milk and cream



No soup is quite so delicious as a cream soup. Many delicious kinds to choose from: cream of celery, cream of tomato, cream of mushroom, cream of asparagus, etc.

Mashed potatoes with lots of milk and butter, whipped up light and fluffy, are thoroughly delicious.

For beverages, "Selected" Milk has a "Sweet Natural Taste" that sets it apart. It will add enjoyment to the meal, for adults as well as the children.

You'll need milk too for preparing the dessert. Try the Chocolate Plum Pudding, recipe for which appeared in our last Saturday's Rotogravure advertising. It's an easily digestible dessert, that the children can enjoy with the grown-ups. If you didn't clip it, phone us for the recipe. Pumpkin pie, sherbets and most ice box delicacies call for milk and cream.

Now's the time to check over your needs for milk, butter, eggs, cream, cottage cheese, etc., for the Christmas dinner . . . and give your milkman the order today or tomorrow, for delivery Wednesday or on the regular delivery early Christmas morning.

If you have no regular milkman, get in touch with us by phone. Your neighborhood milkman will bring your order to your door.

Selected MILK

Regular drinking of milk means better health.

Better resistance, too. That's important at this season when sunshine is impotent and colds prevalent.

SHAMROCKS PILE UP 10-1 SCORE ON ST. LOUIS

ENDOW COLLEGE SPORTS, COLUMBIA PRESIDENT URGES

BUTLER HITS AT ATHLETICS FOR GATE RECEIPTS

Proposes Fund to End 'Evils.'

New York, Dec. 21.—[Special.]—A permanent alumni endowment fund for the purpose of bringing to an end the importance of gate receipts and put baseball, golf, rowing and football on an equal basis," was suggested by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, in his annual report here today.

Dr. Butler mentioned current unfavorable criticism of the present conduct of intercollegiate athletics, notably football. He said the solution of the problem would be "comparatively simple" if institutions engaging in intercollegiate contests insisted upon uniform academic standing of contestants and gave them no financial or other assistance.

Upright Teams Punished.

"The enormous cost of football and the enormous revenues are a constant and justifiable source of academic as well as public criticism," he said. "If all colleges would consistently restrict themselves to participants of undoubted academic qualifications, and without any financial inducement or assistance to participate in athletics, the situation would be simple. Upright institutions are punished on the playing fields.

"The public knows little or nothing about all this and assumes that the student is everywhere a student and there are no elements of difference between the contestants save skill."

Dr. Butler advocated a college "league of nations" to eliminate abuses in the field of college athletics, while at the same time acting to preserve the praiseworthy aspects of an intercollegiate sports program.

Cites Columbia's Case.

On the subject of athletics Dr. Butler says that however "painful and regrettable" was the action taken by the university council which abolished intercollegiate football at Columbia in 1915, it undoubtedly "contributed greatly to saving and improving a form of athletic contest which makes a powerful appeal to students, to alumni and to the general public."

He says this fact is recognized by most of those who vigorously criticized the council's action. Football was restored at Columbia ten years later.

Current agitation to take the game from the hands of czaristic and self-important coaches found approval in Dr. Butler plan. He proposes to confine athletics on a saner basis.

Deplores Hippodroming.

President Butler believes:

"(a) That the university should provide and maintain at its expense the permanent plant and facilities for athletics and (b) that the students and alumni should provide at their expense for the training, coaching, conditioning, and equipping of all teams and, in fact, for the current expenses of all athletic activities."

He decries the hippodroming of college football teams in outside professional stadia, and opposed playing in violent weather. He says that contests should be played under proper conditions and on academic playing fields."

He also deplored the "victory first" attitude of some college alumni.

"The abuses of athletics are many and various, and it is difficult to bring about their remedy. So obsessed are many alumni with a passion for victory at all costs that they are quite willing to shut their eyes to very disagreeable happenings which reflect not only upon their own colleges in a long series of victories on the athletic field can possibly overcome."

GRIFFITH COLD TO PLAN

Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics of the Western conference, refused to enthuse last night over the proposal of Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia, who recommended in his annual report that an Olympic athletic league of nations be established to preserve all that is worthy in and eliminate all that is evil to intercollegiate football and other college sports.

"We have rules and organizations enough," said Maj. Griffith. "If we would live up to present regulations everything would be all right. Personally, I do not think there is any need of any drastic rules as far as football is concerned. In the great majority of colleges conditions are not perfect, but I don't know of any social, economic or political institution in America which is perfect."

CHICAGO PINMEN TAKE LEAD IN 3 TOURNEY EVENTS

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 21.—[Special.]—Chicago bowlers practically annexed three championships in the fourth annual Central States tournament here. The Mineralites crashed through to first place in the team event with 2,869.

Ed Sherman, member of the Polacki team, vaulted into the top spot in the all-events and singles divisions, piling up a 725 score in the latter after scoring 601 in the team event and 643 in the doubles for a total of 1,969.

Giants Lose to Stapleton Pros, 16 to 7

New York, Dec. 21.—[Special.]—A team of under publicized but decidedly expert young football players from Stapleton entered the Polo Grounds today and beat the New York Giants again, this time 16 to 7.

Ken Strong, leader of the Stapletons, ran 98 yards for a touchdown in the final quarter. He also kicked a field goal in the first period. While Strong was occupying himself with other matters, a black, tousled haired end, named Sammy Stein was scoring his own personal touchdown in the second quarter.

15,000 See Game.

There were 15,000 fans present and they saw a thriller that included also Hap Moran's 77 yard run back of Doug Wykoff's punt in the third quarter for the Giants' only score. Benny Friedman appeared but a short while and was off form. Chris Cagle had the best pro day of his life, but the determined emigrants were not to be denied. The victory gave them the New York City pro title. They defeated the Giants twice in three meetings this season and Brooklyn twice, too.

In the first quarter they walked out on the field and began to go places with that football. A fellow named Snyder, another one tagged Finn and the slippery Stein who grew up on the sand lots took turns lugging the leather up to the 28 yard line.

Strong Kicks Goal.

The lineup:

N. Y. GIANTS [7.]		STAPLETON [16].
Campbell	L. E.	Lundell
Grant	L. T.	Miller
Howard	L. G.	Bunyan
Murtagh	C.	Rapp

W. Owen	R. T.	Williams
Hilpert	R. E.	Stein
Haggerty	Q. B.	Finn
Wiberg	L. H.	Snyder
Burnett	R. H.	Strong
Feather	F. B.	Wykoff

Touchdowns—Stein, Moran, Strong. Points after touchdown—Strong, Moran [placement kicks]. Field goal—Strong [placement kick].

Substitutes: Giants—S. Owen for Grant; Caywood for Howard; Moran for Burnett; Sedbrooke for Moran; Moran for Hilpirt; Friedman for Haggerty; Cagle for Friedman; Gibson for Howard; Westoupal for Murtagh. Stapleton—None.

Referee—Frank O'Neill [101 Ranch]. Umpire—John Hennessey [Brown]. Field judge—William H. McKenna [Dean academy]. Head linesman—Jack Reardon [New Hampshire].

JACOB JOSEPH, VETERAN TURF FOLLOWER, DIES

New York, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Jacob R. Joseph, 66, one of the best known figures on the American turf for more than a generation, died in his West 71st street home today of a heart attack.

In the early days of the century when politicians took a great interest in the turf, Jacobs was an intimate of Richard Croker, Tammany boss, and others of the famous old Hoffman house clique.

At one time he bet $100,000 for Croker on Edward M. Shepard, Democratic nominee for mayor, who was defeated.

TONY MANERO WINS PASADENA OPEN TOURNEY

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 21.—(AP)—Tony Manero, New York professional, today stepped out with a par-breaking final round to collect first money in the Pasadena $4,000 open.

The bronzed Italian turned in a card of 73—71—74—69—287 for the 72 holes to lead Mortie Dutra, Long Beach, Cal., by two strokes, and walk off with top prize of $1,000.

Dutra came to the final green with a 2, needing a putt for a tie. He required three strokes to sink the ball. His score was less consistent with 76—69—71—73 for a 289.

Espinosa Ties for Third.

Tied for third were Al Espinosa, Chicago, and Herman Barron, Port Chester, N. Y., with 290. Horton Smith of New York, who toured the course in 280 last year to win first place, was forced to be content with a 292, along with Walter Hagen, Detroit. They collected only $112.50 each for their efforts.

Dutra's share was $600, while Espinosa and Barron received $375 each.

Hagen's showing was distinctly better than last season when he finished in the first twenty for only $50. After the tournament he said he was content with his showing and admitted he was pointing for the bigger money affairs early in January.

Manero's 69 was two under par and equaled the best score for 18 holes during the three days of play. He slumped to a 74 during the morning round, his worst of the tournament, but collected four birdies on the final tour.

Equal Last Year's Play.

While Smith was a dozen strokes over his score of 1929, the average golf in this year's tournament was equal to that of a year ago, although the much discussed larger but lighter ball was used for the first time in tournament play. The only difference the new pellet made was in putting. A number said the ball rimmed the cup more frequently, while some said they were playing it short on the greens.

Fourth place resulted in a four-way tie with Tommy Armour, Detroit, P. G. A.'s national champion; Ray Mangrum, Dallas, Tex.; Frank Walsh, Chicago, and Willie Hunter, Montebello, Cal., collecting $231.25 each, with 291 totals.

Martin Blows Up.

Ernest Martin, Los Angeles pro, who topped the field by a stroke yesterday, was unnerved when he hit a spectator in today's morning round and blew up. He had 73-71 the first two days, but finished with a 76-78 for a 297 and collected only $50 for his share. Leading scorers:

Tony Manero, New York, 287—$1,000.
Mortie Dutra, Long Beach, Cal., 289—$600.
Al Espinosa, Chicago, 290—$375.
Ray Mangrum, Dallas, Tex., 291—$231.25.
Tommy Armour, Detroit, 291—$231.25.
Frank Walsh, Chicago, 291—$231.25.
Willie Hunter, Montebello, Cal., 291—$231.25.
Horton Smith, New York, 292—$112.50.
Walter Hagen, Detroit, 292—$112.50.
Ralph Guldhal, Dallas, Tex., 294—$50.

Gaming Industry Marks Time; Awaits Compromise in Florida

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 21.—Advices from Florida indicate that the citizens and officeholders of the Miami region have been unable to renew their fine old compromise with their fine old principles thus far this season and that the gambling business will encounter difficulties during the winter.

If the gambling business is repressed or suppressed, other forms of business may expect to suffer accordingly, as the money won at the crap tables, roulette wheels, and faro banks is easy money and is spent more freely than any other kind of money. There is agitation at the present time for a policy of tolerance and liberality, but this uncertainty is bound to deter many gambling gentlemen who do not care to set up their expensive furniture at the risk of its being seized or destroyed by raiding parties.

Miami Gets Bad Name.

There were some unfortunate incidents of this kind last year and Miami got a very bad name with the profession. The boys claimed that they had contributed to the political conscience fund in the summer of 1929 and when they went south they naturally expected that all the influential consciences had been taken care of. Some of these consciences were extremely sensitive and a large amount of money was required to appease them, but the boys were willing to do this as they are very honorable themselves and they do not like to think that any officeholder is being troubled by his conscience.

But they were greatly surprised when they began operations in Miami and Miami Beach to discover that some few consciences still were active. Several regrettable incidents occurred, and the boys were packing their furniture on the trucks preparing to move to another country when moderate influences effected an adjustment.

Protect Refreshment Business.

The refreshment business is not likely to be molested in any way, as drinking is a key industry on the Florida east coast and, although the district is politically dry it is well recognized that interference with the industry would drive the customers to the British offshore islands and to the bars of Sloppy Joe and the four O'Brien brothers in Havana. The O'Brien brothers are four enterprising young men from New York state who have made good in a foreign country, but it is hard to understand why they went away to make good when they might have gone into business in Miami, thus keeping that much more American capital and business at home.

The drinking industry is a favored and protected industry in Florida, particularly on the east coast, and any interference with the supply by the United States coast guard or molestation of the dealers or customers ashore by land agents would be certain to draw sharp criticism from the leading citizens who are dry in principle and politics.

Irked by Meddling Policy.

I have been reading that the merchants of Miami are just as indignant about the meddling policy of the officeholders toward the gambling business, as the gambling firms are themselves. The merchants have been held up in their buying and other arrangements for the winter season, afraid to buy much, lest the unreasonable opposition to the gambling business should divert the most liberal customers to other places and afraid to buy too little, lest the problem should be decided the other way.

I should think some merchants' luncheon club or bigger and better business committee would hire counsel and obtain an injunction to restrain the officeholders from interfering with business. Between them the merchants and the boys of the gambling industry could do something quite handsome for the judge who would issue the writ, and he then would be in a position to protect business by citing for contempt of court any policeman or sheriff who should act in restraint of trade.

The French, the Spaniards and the Cubans, realizing that people will gamble, sell government gambling licenses to the syndicates which operate the casinos, but they are very immoral peoples, and I am sure nobody would be so sordid as to suggest that these American cities should place a tax on gambling. That would be tantamount to civic honesty, the one evil which, above all others, the class in civics is taught to abhor.

Georgia Tech Coach Fights Extra Point

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 21.—(AP)—Abolition of the extra point after touchdown will be favored by Coach W. A. Alexander of Georgia Tech, president of the American Football Coaches' association, when the coaches assemble for their annual meeting in New York Dec. 29.

The Dixie coach, director of Georgia Tech's gridiron teams since 1920, said he expected the extra point to be one of the chief questions as the coaches prepare their recommendations for the rules committee.

Regarding the extra point, Alexander said:

"It is not fair for a team to march down the field to a touchdown and fail to kick the extra point and then have the other team grab a fumble, score and kick the point to win."

"Talk to coaches who have lost games by such a margin and you'll find they are sold on doing something about the matter," he added.

"Suppose there were no extra point and the score stands tied at 6-all. You will see plenty of football. Both teams will open up with everything in their bag trying to score. And the public likes offensive football. You surely wouldn't have one team in a shell for the afternoon."

Coach Alexander said he expected some 300 coaches to attend the New York meeting. Chick Meehan of New York university and Harry Stuhldreher of Villa Nova are in charge of the plans. Alexander said Knute Rockne would be unable to attend.

Marquette Hockey Team Will Oppose Legion 6 Tonight

Three Americans and three Canadians will be playing with the Marquette university hockey team tonight when it meets the Chicago American Legion sextet at the Chicago Stadium. The game is the first of a series in which the Wisconsin school will compete against leading amateur and college teams here.

Leading the Canadjans on the Marquette team is Harold (Yank) McFadyen of Calgary, brother of Donnie McFadyen, wing star for the Shamrocks. Oscar Wettlaufer of Chesley, Ont., and Archie Nicholson, New Glasgow, N. S., complete the trio. The American members of the team are Capt. William Schultz, Arthur Peterson, and Charles Furlong.

Joseph and McEvoy will play the wing positions for the Legion. Munn will be at center, Johnson and Stewart at the defense posts, and Hawkins will be goalie.

15 ON HILLTOP SQUAD.

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 21.—[Special.]—Fifteen men will go to Chicago tonight with the Marquette university hockey squad to meet the Chicago American Legion team. It will be the first game for the Hilltop squad this year and the first under the coaching of John Hancock.

LEWIS OUTLINES PLANS FOR TITLE FIGHT IN JUNE

Confident Schmeling Will Meet Stribling Here.

Nate Lewis, the Chicago Stadium's ambassador to New York, returned yesterday afternoon. Lewis immediately outlined the plans through which he is confident Max Schmeling, heavyweight champion of the world, will be induced to defend his title against Young Stribling at Soldiers' field in June.

These plans are based on precedent and the supposition that James Farley, chairman of the New York boxing commission, and his colleagues will persist in their demand that the German defend his crown against Jack Sharkey, who gave him that title with a foul blow.

Why Bout Is in Offing.

According to Lewis, Chicago will get a championship bout under the promotion of the Stadium in this manner:

1. Schmeling received a cablegram from Farley on Dec. 20 demanding that he agree within 15 days to meet Sharkey, under penalty of suspension. The time limit, dating from receipt, expires Jan. 4.

2. Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's manager, although his application and $25 fee as manager have not been accepted by New York, which accounts for the communication to Schmeling, says Max will not submit to the ultimatum. Then Max will be suspended.

May Void Garden Contract.

3. Schmeling is under contract to Madison Square Garden to defend his title under that corporation's promotion. This contract was signed prior to the title bout last June and will be void if Schmeling is suspended.

4. Upon notice of suspension, Jacobs promised Lewis, he will come to Chicago and sign articles for the bout with Stribling. This is expected to be agreeable to the National Boxing association, of which Illinois is a member and Gen. John V. Clinnin, the Illinois chairman, is president.

Of course, Mr. Farley and his associates might withdraw their demand. This is not anticipated by Lewis, who believes the suspension will be made and points to 1926, when New York suspended Jack Dempsey, then champion, because he would not fight Harry Wills. On that occasion Tex Rickard promoted the Dempsey-Tunney fight in Philadelphia.

Heavies Face Suspension.

It is likely, Lewis said, that within two months all of the heavyweights will be under suspension in New York. Primo Carnera continues in bad repute with New York. Paulino Uzcudun and Jim Maloney have been suspended for fighting the Italian. Johnny Risko later was blacklisted for fighting Maloney, and, if the system is maintained, the other heavyweights will be suspended as rapidly as they are contaminated.

All considered, Chicago's chance of seeing Stribling fight Schmeling rests on the assumption that the city will pay more to see such a match than New York would contribute to watch Sharkey against Schmeling. Remembering how New York boycotted Sharkey's engagement wits Campolo, Jacobs is said to be sold on Chicago as a title site.

If the match is made, Schmeling will receive 37½ per cent with a guarantee of $500,000. Pa Stribling will get 12½ per cent for his son, but to assure the fight he has offered to deduct promotion losses from his share of the purse.

Jack Dempsey, who arrived Saturday, is said to have conferred with George Getz, member of the athletic commission, who was associated with Rickard in the 1927 fight at Soldiers' field. Dempsey is figuring how he can promote a Schmeling bout in Chicago, but so far has not divulged anything.

Max Baer, who lost a decision to Ernie Schaaf the other night in New York, may appear here soon.

Ski Meet Will Test Courage of City's Boys

The first ski meet ever sponsored by THE TRIBUNE will be held Jan. 4 at Riis park, Fullerton and Mead avenues. And, undoubtedly, this ski tournament will be the most spectacular of the long list of TRIBUNE sport promotionals.

The Golden Gloves boxing tournament emphasizes skill and courage. Silver Skates Derbies are won by speed and endurance, but ski jumping not only is a spectacular individual event, but it requires courage. And this courage, which sends one hurtling down a snow packed slide, then up and out into space, brings as reward a thrill no other sport possesses.

Open to Boys Under 18.

The ski meet is open this year to all boys under 18 years of age. The older boys have other meets which they may enter. There will be two classes, one for boys under 14; the other for boys 14 to 17 years, inclusive. Entries close Dec. 31 with the ski editor, sports department, CHICAGO TRIBUNE. All entries postmarked of that date will be accepted.

Medals will be awarded the first four boys in each division. Places will be determined by distance and form, just as is done in the major ski tournaments. Judges will be provided by the Norge and Ogden Dunes Ski clubs.

Skiing is a comparatively new sport in Chicago. It is new in that it has been accepted recently by hundreds as a recreation just as ice skating on the lagoons and playgrounds long has been a standard winter sport. With the purpose of fostering ski jumping, the northwest park district erected a 70 foot slide in Jacob Riis park. The county commissioners also have led the way in building slides in the forest preserves.

Slide Is Right Height.

The Riis park slide is ideal. It is not too high to penalize inexperience, yet it does offer a real thrill. The speed of the jumper gliding down the snow path is similar to the swiftly sprinting skater or a racing bob sled. Then comes the leap which has no counterpart in any sport.

The slide may be used for practice daily, and Frank Kalteux of the park district has assured that only an exceedingly warm day can force postponement of the contest. Snow will be conserved so that there will be sufficient for the jumping, even if there are no heavy snowfalls between now and Jan. 4.

Thousands will watch the event. And, of course, there is no limit on the number of contestants. Any boy under 18 years may compete. Entries will be received for ten days.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Gordie Brydson, the Chicago Shamrock forward with the natural marcel wave, went on a ruthless scoring orgy in the hockey game at the Chicago Stadium. When the exhausted St. Louis Fliers were wheeled off the ice the score was found to be Chicago, 10; St. Louis, 1, and Mr. Brydson had been credited with five goals and two assists.

The score in a measure can be attributed to the fact that the visitors were suffering from that chronic hockey player malady, travel and fatigue, but even before the Fliers started to sag Brydson revealed that he was bubbling over with vim and vigor.

In making more points in one evening than some hockey players do in a couple of seasons, Brydson performed as follows: He made the first score of the game unassisted in 6:07 of the first period. He started a triple play which led to the second Shamrock goal, scored by Burns. He made the Shamrocks' third goal unassisted in 6:18 of the second period. He assisted Dennenay in the accomplishment of the Shamrocks' fifth goal.

Three Goals in 6 Minutes.

From 11:18 to 17:14 of the final period, a matter of less than six minutes, Brydson scored three goals, the first on a pass from Dennenay, the second on a pass from Taylor, and the third on a pass from Mulligan.

In their last few games, the Shamrocks have shown improvement in team play, and their performance last night was in a measure due to the smoothness of their attack. For the rest of the explanation of the terrific scores remember the travel worn feature. But there were plenty of shots that would have taken skill even had there been no opposition whatsoever.

Get Two Goals Early.

The Shamrocks grabbed themselves a pair of scores in the first period, the second one a triple play, with only three seconds left in the period. The first six minutes saw little action except that fomented by Brydson who, from the outset, seemed unusually ambitious.

Several clever scoring attempts came to naught by the closest of margins prior to 6:07, when Brydson got hold of the spinning puck and had to spend a little while getting it under control. But he calmly flattened it eventually and then flipped it into the net for the first score of the evening.

Burns Scores on Triple Play.

The Shamrocks' second tally was scored in 19:57. Brydson passed to Capt. Dennenay, who lost no time relaying the puck with a nice loft to Burns. Bobby batted home the counter. The siren sounded for the end of the period before a faceoff could be executed.

It took the Fliers only 34 seconds of the second period to net a goal. Hill simply took advantage of the fact that the Shamrocks hadn't had time to settle down to business and smacked one past Timmins from short range.

The Shamrocks added a pair of scores a little later. In 6:18 Brydson rang up one all by himself, and in 7:43 Wiseman took a pass from Taylor and shot the Green and White's fourth goal.

Goals and More Goals.

Things then went along in a rough and tumble way until 17:06, when Brydson sent the puck in front of the cage and Dennenay bounced No. 5 off Goalie Kearney's stick.

The Shamrocks waited until 6:18 in the final period before they again started putting on the clamps. Then Burns got the puck on a pass from Dennenay and lofted it over the squatting goalie for marker No. 6. In 7:22, Fuller accomplished tally No. 7 with a bullet shot at long range and less than four minutes later Brydson took a pass from Dennenay.

In 16:22 Brydson took a pass from Taylor for a score and 52 seconds later he took a pass from Mulligan for his fifth goal and his seventh point of the game. The contest drew a crowd of 4,500.

LEVINSKY'S RING CAREER TURNS ANOTHER CORNER

Break with Manager May Hurt King.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The affairs of King Levinsky, Chicago's boy wonder boxer who came to prominence when he knocked out Leo Lomski last Sept. 11, have turned another corner in the devious route they have traversed since the King's earnings have reached five figures. It now appears the King and his manager, Al Miller, have parted. And their contract was voided by proving that Levinsky is 20 years of age, rather than 23, the age he had claimed.

Without revealing the ramifications of the difficulties between Miller and Mrs. Lena Levy, the King's sister and for whom the King once peddled fish down on Maxwell street, it is evident they are based on unexpected riches. Six months ago Levinsky was unknown outside of his own bailiwick. He was an unskillful boxer who could punch with the kick of a mule whenever and if he caught up with his opponent. For $100, and generally less, the King's services might have been obtained in those days, and since he did a fair amount of execution he was in moderate demand by the minor boxing promoters.

Never Guilty of Wits.

At no time in his career has the King ever, even indirectly, been accused of sharp witted ring tactics. Indeed, his courage was questioned at one time by the Illinois Athletic commissioners, and he was suspended for a masterly retreat in the White City ring, which proved the King could outrace his opponent from post to post.

Such was Levinsky, born Krakow, when he forsook fish peddling for fisticuffs. In those days the King was managed by Ed Seigel, who thought so little of Levinsky's ability he assigned his contract to Al Miller for $400. And Al Miller four months later, thought so highly of the King he offered, before the boxing commissioners, to sell that contract, now voided, for $12,500, although it must be reported he did not receive a bid.

Levinsky's reputation rests on four fights. He knocked out Leo Lomski, the first time this ever was accomplished. Then he knocked out Dave Kirby, followed with a ten round decision over Jimmy Slattery, and then lost in ten rounds to Tommy Loughran. For the first of these matches Levinsky's purse was $3,000; for the last, $11,000.

Cheered and Booed.

Thousands have cheered this boy from the Ghetto; others have booed. He couldn't box, his courage had been officially investigated, yet four times he went against ranking fighters, two of whom he knocked out. His income must have seemed to him as fabulous as the millions of Croesus now would seem to a Wall street broker who liquidated in October, 1929.

Probably no fighter in years has been scrutinized so closely by the boxing solons. And none has been advised as frequently. In seeking a season for Levinsky's success Miller's personal opinion of his own importance may, of course, be minimized, but even so, the commissioners have said, and it must be so, Al Miller was invaluable to Levinsky. The battling king, however, earned every word of praise by his lusty blows. The value of Miller will be more apparent if Levinsky continues his career under other management.

$11,000 Purse Renews Feud.

The $11,000 purse added fuel to the dispute between Mrs. Levy and Miller. Miller told the commissioners the other day Levinsky had received $4,500 for the Loughran bout. Mrs. Levy was given $100, she said, and a brother a similar sum. It is rumored Mrs. Levy will demand an accounting. Miller contends training expenses and other sums, which he declined at the time to specify, but which he asserted as common demands on a rising fighter, accounted for a considerable portion of the $11,000. These particulars will be washed in open court if the case is carried to its conclusion.

At the meeting of the commissioners Mrs. Levy alleged she had been promised a percentage for permitting Miller to manage her brother. Her remarks were contradictory, but it seemed that no matter what the cause, King Levinsky was in between. Without libeling Levinsky's intelligence or his ability to negotiate a contract and force fulfillment of its terms, he was completely lost before the verbose rantings of those who profit or sought to profit rightfully or not by his fighting abilities.

The birth certificate, secured in New York, of which the boxing commission was notified by Attorney Irwin R. Hazen, seems to conclude Miller's managerial association with Levinsky. Just how Levinsky will profit by the severance is puzzling. The argument already has cost him a 22½ per cent purse which the Stadium had offered for a fight with James J. Braddock. Miller had signed a contract for the bout on Dec. 29, securing this percentage after 15 per cent had been offered.

Illness Causes Withdrawal.

The commission permitted Levinsky to withdraw from the match because of illness, the indisposition being a nervous disorder, an ample excuse but probably insignificant without complications of financial strife.

Since Levinsky has proved himself a minor, who will not become of age until next September, he also has made it necessary to apply to the commission for permission to fight ten rounds. Indeed, he might be suspended for falsifying his age, but the commissioners seem to believe Levinsky is not responsible for inaccuracy of his age.

Boxing Code Quoted.

Rule 52 of the boxing code provides: "No boxer under 21 shall take part in any contest of more than six rounds unless receiving unanimous sanction of the commission."

Since Levinsky has fought ten rounds innumerable times this rule may be regarded as a technicality, but it certainly is adequate to check exploitation of the boy who in four months came from the ranks of unknown $100 fighters to command of $11,000 for a half hour's labor.

AMERICANS BEAT DETROIT IN WILD SCORING TILT, 6-4

New York, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Running up their highest score of the season in a wide open National Hockey league game, the New York Americans defeated the Detroit Falcons tonight, 6 to 4. The victory put the Americans back into third place in the Canadian division.

After two close periods the Americans went on a scoring rampage early in the third and got three goals in succession, one a gift from Carson Cooper of Detroit, who accidentally shot the puck into his own net. Refusing to be halted by a 6 to 2 lead, the Falcons came back and scored two more counters in the last minutes of play.

Frank Carson, third string American wingman, and Larry Aurie of Detroit shared the scoring honors, each getting three goals. McVeigh, Patterson and Burch scored New York's other three counters, and Evans made Detroit's final goal. Lineup:

AMERICANS [6].		DETROIT [4].
Worters	G	Dolson
Dutton	R. D.	Noble
Ayres	L. D.	Rockburn
Burch	C	Goodfellow
Patterson	R. W.	Cooper
Emms	L. W.	Sorrell

American spares—Carson, Himes, Simpson, McVeigh, Sheppard, Massecar, Hughes, Brydge.

Officials—Mickey Ion and Bill Shaver.

FIRST PERIOD.

Scoring—Carson [Hughes], 9:25; Carson [Massecar], 6:42.

Penalties—McInenly, Emms.

SECOND PERIOD.

Scoring—Aurie [Frederickson], 10:35; Aurie [Goodfellow], 2:58; McVeigh, 2:07.

Penalties—Dutton, Brydge, Massecar.

THIRD PERIOD.

Scoring—Patterson [Burch], 4:58; Carson, 3:37; Burch [Brydge], 2:22; Aurie, 8:10; Evans, 0:49.

Penalties—McCabe Carson.

BRICKIES SKID TO 3-1 VICTORY OVER SPARTAS

The Bricklayers soccer team for the second time this season demonstrated their superiority over Sparta by winning, 3 to 1, yesterday in an exhibition game on the latter's field. Twelve hundred watched the teams battle on a field covered with snow and ice, which caused frequent spills.

Fouls committed by Sparta were responsible for the defeat. Hjulian fouled Coutts in the penalty area and the left half back fouled Greenlees just outside the penalty line, goals were scored from both free kicks.

The Maccabee All-Stars defeated the Huda A. A., 3 to 2, yesterday in a national cup game at Kuppenheimer field.

Trappers Crowd North Woods in Hunt for Furs

BY BOB BECKER.

City boys with ambition to settle down in a snow covered log cabin in the north woods and run trap lines through the winter to secure the pelts of muskrats, marten, raccoon, mink, weasel and other furbearers, had better pick their trapping country far beyond settlements, because the woods are expected to be crowded with fur gatherers.

Many of the boys with nothing to do are going to turn trappers in an effort to pick up a little change and at the same time keep busy during the winter months. This is the report which comes from the north country right now on the eve of the big harvest of pelts. It shows how the furbearers have to take the burden when a period of slack business turns men from their regular jobs.

Authorities are inclined to believe that the deer hunting situation in Michigan this fall also reflected the situation with respect to men with forced leisure to hunt. More than 72,000 deer hunting licenses were sold this fall as against about 68,000 last fall.

Incidentally the total score in Michigan as recorded at the end of the deer season was as follows: 15 dead hunters, 17,500 dead buck deer, approximately 1,000 does and fawns [illegally killed], 200 black bear, 11 coyotes, 9 timber wolves, 8 foxes, and 8 wildcats. These figures represent the official tally of the Michigan conservation department for the season which opened Nov. 15 and closed Nov. 30.

During the early part of the season a resident in the upper peninsula of Michigan reported that more local hunters were in the woods than in previous years. Having nothing else to do, the boys decided to get a little winter meat by bagging a buck deer.

Last year 1,000,000 muskrats were trapped in Michigan alone, according to the conservation department. In addition thousands of weasels, mink, raccoons and other fur bearers were pelted to satisfy the demands of the American public for fur. This winter, with an increase in trappers, it is possible that the catch of fur will be larger. Anyway, there is going to be plenty of competition on the trap lines.

New Golf Ball Given Tourney Test; Players Say It'll Do

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 21.—(AP)—The new golf ball, the only one to be used after Jan. 1, has won its first skirmish with the men who earn their living playing it.

The revised larger and lighter ball was ruled standard equipment for the Pasadena open tournament and only pellets bearing the mark of 1931 were permitted. Results were favorable to the new model.

However, the final verdict from the professionals will not be returned until a tournament is played when the wind is blowing. The Pasadena tourney was played in calm weather.

The scoring showed no ill effects of the change in balls. There were about the normal number of birdies, just as few eagles, and the same number of pars as in days of yore when the ball was smaller and heavier.

Division of Opinion Develops.

The usual division of opinion developed among the players. Some thought they could not putt as well as before, and claims were made that the new ball was "rimming the cup" too much.

Golfers seldom agree on any part of the game. However, the consensus was in favor of the oversize ball.

"I don't see that the new ball is any harder to play than the old one," said Walter Hagen, the old master. "Anyway, it's here, and it doesn't make any difference what we think about it."

Tommy Armour, Professional Golf association champion, spoke in defense of the latest edition. "I like it," he said. "My shots through the fairway are better, especially the irons. Yes, it's a pleasure to play it."

Dutra Shoots 69 with It.

No one was surprised to hear that Mortie Dutra, Long Beach, Cal., pro, liked it. He had a round in 69. "Yes, it's O. K. with me," he said.

Tony Manero, who has played lots of golf in many places, was not prepared to condemn the new ball, but he admitted a mental complex. "I know it won't go as far as the old one and I have been trying to hit it harder than I should," was his reaction.

Harry Cooper was short with his putts and wondered if it was the fault of the ball or his putter, but Johnny Dawson, who went to the semi-finals in the British amateur, said he liked to play it.

Horton Smith's diagnosis awaits confirmation by Prof. Einstein. "The new ball is harder to putt," said the tall pine transplanted from Missouri to New York. "The weight is not centralized as it was in the old one and this ball is more apt to rim the cup."

Fans See Little Difference.

Fellow pros suggested this involved relativity and it was fortunate, perhaps, that Einstein was on his way to California.

Golf fans who can hit any golf ball, new or old, into a trap or the rough, said they saw little difference in the distance or direction of the ball leaving the players' clubs.

Spectators who have played the Brookside course, scene of the tournament, many times suggested that the charge of being a bad putting ball was perhaps unjustified. They said the cups were in tricky places on the greens.

Players who participate in tournament golf only by following the stars watched the performance of the new ball with interest. Many of these never will break 100 with any size or weight of ball, but they have hopes. All agreed with Hagen, "Anyway, it's here."

Doctors Tell W. C. Fownes to Give Up Golf

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 21.—(AP)—W. C. Fownes Jr., whose family name is synonymous with golf in Pittsburgh, and generally recalled wherever the ancient game's foremost followers assemble, has been advised by his physicians a heart ailment precludes further golfing.

Fownes, ill at his winter home at Pinehurst, N. C., is 53 years old. He played first in national amateur championship competition in 1901—the year W. J. Travis won at Atlantic City—and has appeared in virtually every similar event since, including the 1930 tournament at Merion.

Won Amateur in 1910.

In 1910 he won the national amateur title at the Country club, Brookline, Mass., in a field of 203 starters. The years 1905, 1907, 1914 and 1919 found him in semi-finalist roles.

The amateur was played at Oakmont, Fownes' home club here, in 1919 and he was defeated in the semi-final round by Bobby Jones, 5 and 3. S. D. Herron, also an Oakmonter, defeated Bobby that year in the final, 5 and 4.

The next time the amateur was brought to Oakmont, in 1925, Fownes was defeated by Jess Sweetser in the first round, 5 and 3.

Fownes captained the American amateur team in the international matches for the Walker cup against Great Britain in 1921 and 1922, and was a member of the 1924 group.

He has won a dozen western Pennsylvania amateur and open titles. He was president of the United States Golf association in 1926-'27.

Was Industrial Leader.

Prior to his retirement a few years ago from active business, Fownes was one of the leading industrialists of the district. He assisted in organizing the Midland Steel company and the Seamless Tube company and had various other interests.

St. Aloysius Defeats Holy Family, 16-14

Steinbauer and Conners led St. Aloysius to a 16 to 14 victory over Holy Family in the west division of the Catholic Order of Foresters Basketball league at Majestic Ballroom gym yesterday. Holy Family led at the half, 8 to 6, and rallied again in the closing minute of play, after St. Aloysius had taken the lead to tie the score at 14 all. Steinbauer came through with a field goal just before the gun to win for St. Aloysius. Lineup:

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Dec. 21.—Sir Harry Perry Robinson, who laid the foundations of a great journalist career in the United States in the early eighties, died today of pneumonia at Minehead at the age of 71. He was knighted with four other war correspondents for services in France, where, acting for the London Times, he was the oldest official journalist on the battle fronts.

While working for New York and Chicago newspapers Sir Harry was held to be one of the five best short story writers in his time and he acquired additional fame as a special writer during the Klondyke gold rush.

About 1884 Sir Harry settled in Chicago and in 1887 he founded the Railway Age in Minneapolis, which he edited until 1900. In 1896 he was appointed to a responsible post in President McKinley's national campaign, of which Gen. Charles G. Dawes was manager.

FUNERAL RITES FOR DIEKEMA SET FOR WEDNESDAY

THE HAGUE, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Funeral services for Gerrit John Diekema, United States minister to The Hague, who died Saturday from the after effects of an operation, will be held here Wednesday at 10:30 a. m.

The obsequies which will be held in the American Episcopal church, will be attended with all honors due the late minister's rank in accordance with the wish expressed by the Dutch government to the widow, who has accepted the tribute.

Following the services, the body will be taken to the Hague communal cemetery, where it will lie until 6 p. m. Then it will be transported to Hamburg. From there the remains will be shipped to the United States for burial at Holland, Mich., the late minister's birthplace. M. Stuch, minister of foreign affairs, today called on Mrs. Diekema and Hallett Johnson, American chargé d'affaires, to express his condolences.

DEATH CALLS DANCE CALLER OF WAUCONDA

Herman E. Hicks, village expressman of Wauconda, in Lake county, for nearly half a century sought by young people for miles around to act as "caller" for their barn dances, died alone early yesterday while returning along a lonely road from a dance at Ivanhoe. He was nearly 70 years old.

His body was found in his automobile on the Mundelein-Wauconda road. The car had stopped partly off the paving and Hicks' hand still clutched the emergency brake as if he had had warning of the heart attack which caused his death.

Hicks was a stately figure, more than six feet tall. His hair was snow white. Years ago his wife, Doretta, ceased going with him to the frequent dances and warned him that "the dances and warned him that "the young people will be the death of you," but Hicks refused to grow old.

Besides his activities as a "caller" Hicks played several band instruments and more than 25 years ago organized a town band at Wauconda after an earlier organization of which he was a member had disbanded. He was born in Wauconda. A son, Paul, lives in Libertyville.

Capt. John O'Brien of Fire Engine company No. 31, a veteran of twenty years' service in the fire department, died of a heart attack while on duty at the station, 2012 West Congress street, yesterday morning. Capt. O'Brien had been talking with members of the company when he fell to the floor. He was a widower and is survived by three children, Julia, 19; Mary, 17, and John Jr., 15 years old.

RITES TODAY FOR VANNATTA, ONCE RACE HORSE MAN

George Henry Vannatta, pioneer Chicagoan and well known to earlier generations as a trainer and raiser of trotting horses, who died Thursday, will be buried at Union Ridge cemetery today following services at 1 o'clock at St. Paul's Congregational church. He was 74 years old, and lived at 1940 North Tripp avenue.

G. H. VANNATTA.

Mr. Vannatta was born in Jefferson township. His mother, Mrs. Nancy Merrill Vannatta, was the first white child born in that area. Mr. Vannatta farmed on the old homestead, and also engaged in business as a merchant. He trained and owned several famous horses, including Dora Wilkes, and was a friendly rival of C. K. G. Billings at the old Washington Park race track. In his later years Vannatta was house manager of the Hub theater, Chicago and Ashland avenues.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Jennie Bradshaw Vannatta, and two daughters, Mrs. Ruth V. Leary and Mrs. Eva V. Geary.

WORLD'S WHEAT PRICES SEEM TO BE OUT OF JOINT

Canada Levels Are Near 50c Mark.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

World's wheat prices are out of joint. At present the highest levels are found mainly in exporting countries and lowest in importing countries.

Liverpool is quoted around 11¼@11⅝c under Chicago futures. Canada and west prices are down close to the 50c level where farmers are making no money and unless there is an advance in the spring months it may force Canadian farmers to put in a smaller acreage. The latter, however, is an uncertain proposition as it does not always work out.

An illustration is given in the final government report in the United States the last week, wheat acreage for the year being 59,153,000 acres compared with 61,464,000 acres last year. The crop of 1930 was practically 851,000,000 bu compared with 1,000,000 bu last year, an increase brought about by the yield per acre being 1.2 bu per acre greater. A short acreage this year, with perfect growing conditions throughout the season might again produce more wheat than the last year. The same applies to other countries.

Argentine Crop Estimate.

Argentina's crop has fallen down, due to drought, wet weather, and pest, the latest official estimates being 271,000,000 bu, or 134,000,000 bu more than last year, and 12,000,000 bu below the previous year with a total supply of 294,000,000 bu, against 301,000,000 bu last year. The exportable surplus is 209,000,000 bu, while a year ago it was estimated at 221,000,000 bu. Two years ago Argentina exported 240,000,000 bu.

Prospects for the 1931 crop in the United States, provided present conditions, which are above the average, remain until harvest, are around 250,000,000 bu based on the acreage seeded and condition as given by the government last Friday.

July wheat was down to the lowest of the season touching 66⅝c on Saturday, with the close 67⅛@67¼c. The market is said to be heavily oversold and is at too great a discount under May. At the same time buying support is poor.

December closed at 76⅝@76⅝c, March 79⅞@79¼c, May 81@81⅛c, being ⅜ lower to ⅛c higher on old crop futures, and 2⅜c off on July, as compared with a week ago, the latter being lower than a majority of present day traders have known. Winnipeg was off 2⅛@3⅛c, with the close in December 52⅝c and May 56c.

Sales of wheat futures in Chicago for the week of 97,146,000 bu compared with 78,802,000 bu the previous week, and 159,282,000 bu last year. Open interest at the close was 157,011,000 bu against 153,747,000 bu a week ago. Prices for the week follow:

Corn at Season's Low.

Returns on the season's corn crop are in with a yield of 2,081,000,000 bu, or 133,000,000 bu less than last year, and the smallest since 1901. Yield per acre of 30 bu was 6.1 bu less than last year. A private crop export says that there should be a reduction in acreage as there was about 1,500,000 to 1,600,000 acres that were practically abandoned in August because of poor promise and should never have been planted. Apparently there will be enough corn to go around, at least dealers think so from the way they have been selling it freely of late, with December down to 66¼c, the lowest of the season, and 32c under the high mark. May touched 71½c on Saturday, a break of 5c for the week, and 10c from the high point made about Aug. 1 when the crop report was sensationally bullish.

The low prices, however, have failed to bring in sufficient speculative buying to maintain bulges. The week's loss was at net losses of 2⅝@3c, December being 66⅞@67c, March 69⅞@70c, May 72@72⅛c, and July 73⅝@73¾c. Prices for the week follow:

NEW LOWS EARLY IN WEEK ARE FEATURE OF COTTON MARKET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New Orleans, La., Dec. 21.—The cotton market here was featured early last week by new low levels for the season for both spots and futures, caused by pressure of large supplies and disappointing consumption statistics. Liquidation in spot holdings in the interior increased the easier tone.

Selling of spots is usually more free just before the Christmas holidays, particularly in the interior. This year, owing to prevailing conditions, most of the buying of interior offerings has been on a tenderable basis, with a view to delivering the cotton on contracts if it cannot be disposed of to the trade at more profitable prices. There was a recovery at the middle of the week, but it failed to hold because of disappointing advices from the manufactured goods markets and from domestic mills.

The cotton goods trade usually slows down in advance of the holiday period, but the mills report a falling off in orders and a necessity for curtailment. As a result the outlook for consumption again became unfavorable, and the disappointing character of spinners' takings for the world at large pointed to as unfavorable conditions, or worse, abroad than have been experienced here.

Liverpool has been rather erratic; improving one day and easing the next. One drawback to trade there is the narrow parity, compared with American markets, which stands in the way of profitable importations of American cotton. Manchester also has reported sluggish trade in both cloth and yarns.

Stocks at American ports continue extremely heavy, and the local storage now exceeds 800,000 bales, the largest supply carried here in many years. While ordinarily these large stocks point to heavy exports later, it is not so certain that this will result in the present instance.

FREIGHT DROP AT SAULT STE. MARIE SHOWN

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Dec. 21.—(AP)—A decrease of almost 20,000,000 tons in the amount of freight which passed through the St. Mary's Falls canal and the Canadian canal is shown for 1930 compared with 1929, according to the annual report of lake commerce issued under direction of Maj. D. McCoach Jr., U. S. army engineer.

The tonnage for the last season totaled 72,897,752. Last year's total was 92,662,017. Wheat was the only major commodity which showed an increase over last year, the amount being 243,927,016 bushels, compared with 225,421,673 in 1929. Iron ore shipments dropped 17,866,849 tons, or 28 per cent.

Survey Finds 2 Out of 3 See Better 1931 Business

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 21.—Reporting results of a survey touching 330 of the largest manufacturing and wholesaling concerns in the country, the National Association of Credit Men says that two out of three of those canvassed expect better business in 1931, although nine out of ten did less business in the first eleven months of 1930 than in the same period of 1929. Information was obtained from members of the economic credit council, which body includes the credit executives of important firms and companies in each state. The association announced that only 3 per cent of those reported had an increase in dollar volume over 1929. A considerably larger percentage reported that unit volume had not fallen off. Lower prices, it was explained, accounted for the discrepancy.

Hear Sinclair-Tidewater Oil Negotiations Dropped

New York, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Negotiations between the Tidewater Associated Oil company and the Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation for a merger have been definitely abandoned, it is reported in Wall street. In may quarters it had been believed the merger was to have been a preliminary to a three way consolidation of the companies named and the Richfield corporation.

Distribution Ways Not So Inefficient

BY SCRUTATOR.

In the last few years there has been a great deal of insistence on the validity of the proposition that production methods in the United States are far more efficient than distribution methods. It is on the theory that distribution can be bettered and costs cut between producer and consumer that we have seen the rise of farm relief, at least it was ostensibly on that theory.

Distribution, possibly[is not so inefficient as many have been led to believe. Certainly there can be no doubt that experiments to improve it have been carried on with enthusiasm and without regard to tradition, nor that many more such experiments are in immediate prospect.

Practiced Extensively.

Distribution, possibly, is not so intense of goods and their sale to the final consumer by one agency has been practiced extensively, notably by oil companies. Steel companies are tending in the same direction. The National City bank recalls that both the United States Steel corporation and Bethlehem own and operate shipbuilding companies and that the former concern has bought, through a subsidiary, the Oil Well Supply company to guarantee its markets in the petroleum fields.

Control of ore supply, of coal supply, through captive mines, and of much necessary transportation are no new things to the biggest steel corporations. Also the Anaconda Copper company, a producer of raw materials, has taken control of a company manufacturing a line of copper and brass goods. The straight line from the raw material to the consumer, or at least to his retailer, is being constantly sought.

The chain store, whatever its merits or demerits, represents this desire. Some of its moguls are heavily engaged in manufacturing and selling their own canned goods—again an example of the materials to consumer tieup. Some grocery chains own and operate meat packing concerns. The four biggest packing houses are trying to get away from a legal impediment, the consent decree, that forbids them to handle other things than meat and related products, or to go into retailing.

Not a Magic System.

Any idea that the middlemen, the service organizations between producer and consumer, are interested in piling on unwarranted service charges is in error. Competition is too keen for that. There is no magic in the integration complex; the system has to stand or fall with its results. Independent merchants have found ways to combat effectively the chain store inroads on their business in some instances; in others they have failed. Efficiency was in each case the measure of success or failure.

There is not much reason for consumers to fear any kind of distribution system. Gasoline stations carrying tires, one of the new manifestations in trade, are not necessarily in the class of Greeks bearing gifts. A chain store owned packing house or a packer owned chain of stores will have to justify existence on a price-quality-service basis. All the forms of commercial integration that have appeared so far in American economy have intensified instead of killing competition.

SEES EXTINCTION OF 10,000 PRODUCERS IN PRAIRIE OIL CO. MOVE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21.—(AP)—Dr. George Otis Smith, director of the Geological Survey, said tonight preliminary reports from investigators in Kansas and Oklahoma indicated the extinction of 10,000 or more small independent oil producers if the Prairie Oil and Gas company withdraws from the market Jan. 1.

The investigation was ordered by Secretary Wilbur, chairman of the federal oil conservation board, after the producers had protested to him and President Hoover.

The preliminary report has been submitted to Secretary Wilbur and an additional inquiry is being made.

The Prairie Oil and Gas company, in recently announcing its intention to withdraw from the market, said its stocks on hand were much greater than demand and that its storage capacity was exhausted. President Hoover called the oil conservation board into session yesterday afternoon and preliminary plans were discussed for assisting the independents. The board lacks power to act in other than an advisory capacity.

Du Pont Offers Employes Debenture Stock at $117

New York, Dec. 21.—(AP)—The stock investment plan for employes of E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co. for 1931 consists of an offering of the company's debenture stock at $117 a share, Jan. 7 last the annual offering of the stock was made at $114 a share. The offering provides for an income of $3 a share for five years, in addition to the regular 6 per cent dividend.

States Food Inventories at Low Point

New York, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Inventories in the food industry now are at such a low point that the slightest flurry of buying should have an immediate beneficial effect, says C. M. Chester Jr., president of General Foods corporation.

In a year-end statement prepared for the Associated Press on the state of the food industry, Mr. Chester noted that in the course of a recent business trip which carried him as far west as Denver, he found a more positive note of optimism "which I have not heard in New York." The banking situation in most of the larger cities he found to be excellent.

"In common with other companies in the food industry, General Foods is planning a vigorous campaign for business in 1931," he said. "The population of America is constantly increasing; more food must be consumed and a greater volume of business seems inevitable."

"A recent compilation indicates that a group of 19 food producing companies showed a decrease in combined earnings of only 4.3 per cent for the first nine months, compared with 1929, whereas 200 industrials of varied types have suffered a drop of 33.3 per cent in combined net from the previous year. General Foods will report net earnings approximating those of the previous year."

AUTO LEADERS ARE OPTIMISTIC ABOUT FUTURE

Detroit, Mich., Dec., 21.—(AP)—Although several Detroit automobile plants that brought out new models following a midsummer shutdown have again suspended production for inventory periods, optimistic statements for the immediate future of the motor car industry have come from two sources.

W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager of the Chevrolet Motor Car company, which went into production on new models only a few weeks ago, announced that the total factory force now numbers 30,661 men and that 10,000 more are to be added in January. In some divisions, he said, day and night shifts are being operated.

A. U. Widman, works manager of the Cadillac Motor Car company, which closed for inventory on Dec. 18, said that 6,000 men would resume work on Jan. 5. This would be 500 more than at the time the plant closed.

SWIFT INTERNATIONAL DIRECTORS VOTE FOR INCREASE IN DIVIDEND

Directors of Swift International company have voted to increase the dividend rate on the common stock to $3 annually. Announcement of the action was made last night.

The company's announcement said in part: "The approximate earnings of the company for the year 1930 are now available. These together with the present financial position of the company warrant increasing the rate of annual dividend from $2.50 to $3.00 a share."

That the directors were planning an extra dividend or an increase in the rate has been rumored for several months in financial circles. The company was known to be in excellent position. In the year ended Dec. 31, 1929, the company reported net profits of $5,560,089, equivalent to $3.70 a share on the outstanding common stock. Dividends paid during the year amounted to $2. The company was organized in 1918 to take over all the South American and Australian enterprises of Swift & Co.

The annual report for the fiscal year, which ends Dec. 31 next, will be issued early in February.

OIL PRODUCERS MAKE PROGRESS, TEAGLE OPINES

New York, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Oil producers made very real progress in adjusting their affairs but the refineries' success has not been so marked, says Walter C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, in a year end review.

His statement follows:

"The producing end of the petroleum industry has made very real progress in adjusting its affairs. Its success may be gauged by the fact that 1930 will see a reduction of 31,000,000 barrels of crude and other products in storage. But for self-regulation the producers could have doubled 1929 production.

"The refineries' success has not been so marked; nevertheless, some progress has been made. Domestic plants have been running lately at 63 per cent of their capacity. This is not as big a reduction as it appears, since 83 per cent represents their maximum operations in the biggest month of 1929. The refiner has actually accomplished a reduction of 20 per cent. He is the big factor in the present equation.

FIRMING STOCKS SHOW WALL ST. OMEN OF HOPE

But Is Ticker Oracle of Trend?

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 21.—Nothing could be more entirely in line with Wall street experience than the unanimous declaration on Tuesday that the financial outlook had become quite desperate, followed on Wednesday and Thursday by equally general agreement that better things appeared to be foreshadowed.

The ticker is for many of our minor captains of finance the delphic oracle, and it has never yet been proved which affects the other most, the prevalent mood of Wall street or the stock market of the day. Nevertheless there is something to say for the financial community's present power to emerge, even momentarily, from an atmosphere of black despair. It suggests that, some day, a few new considerations of a reasonable cheerful character, especially if it appeals to financial imagination, may actually reverse the Wall street attitude.

The Outlook Ahead.

But the question still remains over the seeming inability to look ahead intelligently until compelled to do so. The Wall street which, four weeks before the autumn crash of 1929, could see no possible limit to the financial boom was likely enough when the situation was reversed to see nothing but financial ruin on the very eve of recovery.

But it was a matter of some interest that, in this very week of Wall street's mental confusion and black despondency, the truth regarding the whole American situation, past, present, and future, should have been set forth with unerring clarity by two foreigners wholly outside the field of practical finance. The precision of the offhand summary of that situation by Premier Mussolini, but particularly by the French romanticist, Andre Maurois, at least suggested that understanding of the course of events in American finance and industry is best

A NORTHERN TRUST Individualized Plan

based on an experience of more than 40 years

A Northern Trust Plan seeks to accomplish the most economical and satisfactory transfer of property from one generation to another. The painstaking preparation of such plans is an important service of this old, estate minded institution.

Each Northern Trust Plan is developed individually to meet the needs of a particular family and estate. Each seeks to take advantage of every legitimate economy—and is designed to avoid all unnecessary items of shrinkage.

Some of the benefits are immediate, some are gained in the future.

What a Northern Trust Plan can accomplish for you and your family, you may learn without any cost or obligation. The facts should be in your possession when you map the future disposition of your property.

The booklet pictured above outlines the scope of a Northern Trust Plan and summarizes the means through which its economies are effected. Write for a copy. Or call here at the Trust Department and an experienced trust officer will explain this important service to you.

Hope Versus Despair.

It is possible, indeed, that an imaginative novelist is best equipped to grasp the moving causes. Even here in New York, those who observed the Wall street panorama with a certain detachment and who compared the present Wall street mood with that of a year and a half ago, have occasionally raised the question whether action and reaction, in financial sentiment as in market trend, may not necessarily be equal and in a contrary direction.

Put in another way, the question is, if a season of wildly extravagant hope may not possibly of itself make inevitable, when times have changed, a season of equally extravagant despair. The suggestion is no matter of abstract theory. To a very considerable extent, it might be the key to this month's Wall street situation.

No serious person disputes the fact that the mad advance on the stock exchange between 1927 and the autumn of 1929 was made possible only by utterly perverted view of facts and intrinsic values. So far as concerned the markets, subsequent course of events applied the due corrective. Stock market "averages" had risen from 136 in the early weeks of 1927 to 311 in September, 1929; last week they were back again at 135½.

Stock brokers' borrowings to finance the speculation increased $5,700,000,000 between the spring of 1926 and the autumn of 1929; the stock exchange's latest summary reported them cut down again $6,400,000,000. In 1926 and 1927, the financial mind was maintaining an even balance, confident of the longer future but watching intelligently for vicissitudes of the present. What that mentality had come to be in 1929, and what it is today, every one knows.

Point of Interest.

The point of interest is that only the financial psychology of a year and a half ago made possible the equally morbid psychology of the last few weeks. In August of 1929 the Wall street mind was unable to see any end to the furious financial boom. In December of 1930 it has been quite as unable to see any end to trade depression. Anywhere else but in the present financial center of the world, the market on which the country's trained financial judgment is supposed to converge, the picture would be merely amusing.

Pullman, Inc.

Please give me a general outline of the condition of Pullman, Inc., and its prospects. Do you consider the stock at present prices a reasonably safe investment for a business man's funds? —C. B.

Pullman, Inc., through its subsidiary, the Pullman company, operates, practically without competition, the entire sleeping car and other special car service in the United States. It is also the leading freight car builder and an important manufacturer of passenger cars, steel forgings, iron castings, car wheels, etc. There is only one class of stock, the no par common, of which there are 3,875,000 no par shares outstanding. The capitalization has never included preferred stock or funded debt. The number of shares was increased from 3,375,000 early in 1930, when additional properties were acquired. The present $4 annual dividend rate has been in effect since 1927.

Pullman company, the transportation unit, reported net earnings of $4,892,104 for the nine months to Sept. 30, 1930, against $7,996,168 for the corresponding 1929 period. This decline, however, was more than offset by the results of manufacturing operations.

The parent company's net income, after depreciation and other charges, for the first nine months of 1930 was $16,627,080, equal to $4.29 per share, compared with $13,882,081, or $4.11 per share on the smaller capitalization in the first nine months of 1929. Net income in the September quarter alone was $6,767,321, against $6,319,088 in the third quarter of last year.

The increased earnings this year, of course, reflect to a large extent the acquisition of the Standard Steel Car and Osgood Bradley properties on March 1, 1930.

Pullman, Inc., reported net income of $17,673,699 for the year ended Dec. 31, 1929. This was equal to $5.24 per share and compares with net of $16,396,697 in 1928.

At the close of last year current assets were $96,175,886 and current liabilities were $25,706,280, leaving a net working capital of $70,469,606. Initial surplus was $101,095,746 and earned surplus $12,497,518.

The stock is considered high grade.

Buffalo-Texas Oil.

Will you please give me information and an opinion concerning Buffalo-Texas Oil company? I bought about 200 shares of their stock several years ago.—R. W.

This company was organized under Texas laws in 1919 and issued 18,500,000 shares of common stock. The promoters carried on an extensive selling campaign in 1920, offering to buy back the stock in ten days if the buyer was not satisfied. The stock has no market now and is, in our opinion, valueless.
